EX-KAISER'S SON JOINS HITLER AT NAZI FUNERAL

Thousands at Burial of Slain Fascists.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Mourning mingled with political triumph and intrigue in Berlin today on the occasion of funeral services for a Nazi police officer and a leader of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's National Socialist storm troops, both of whom were slain by communists last Monday while the Nazis were celebrating Hitler's accession to power.

Three hundred thousand uniformed men—policemen, Nazi storm troopers, and members of the Steel Helmets—lifted their hands in military and Fascist salutes to greet Hitler, his staff, and former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm.

Receive State Burial.

The two slain men were accorded the honor of a state burial in the vast cathedral once used as place of worship by former Kaiser Wilhelm. One-half of the pews was reserved for uniformed Nazis and the other half for the police. The front pews, once reserved for the highest imperial dignitaries, were occupied by Hitler, clad in a simple brown uniform, and the former crown prince dressed in imperial gray.

From the pulpit, a member of the Nazi party, the Rev. Mr. Hassenfelder greeted Hitler with the following words:

"There is the man sent by God as Germany's leader to give us bread and work and to restore our faith. The two men resting at the foot of this altar experienced the bliss of seeing the leader of a young and fighting Germany appointed to the chancellorship, and they died on a day filled with happiness for the nation."

500,000 Line Streets.

The former crown prince personally placed wreaths upon the biers. The ceremony ended with the singing of "I Had a Comrade," the refrain was taken up by thousands of persons lining the Lustgarten outside in a pouring rain. Police estimated that at least 500,000 lined the streets over which the funeral cortege passed.

The Nazis marched and drove through Berlin streets until late tonight singing their songs of love triumph and hate.

The close relationship evidenced between Hitler and the former crown prince at the funeral services was stressed later in the day when the Nationalists announced their monarchist program.

Says Monarchy Is Goal.

Dr. Friedrich von Winterfeld, who has taken over the party leadership because Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, minister of economics and agriculture, has no time for it, said in his speech:

"The politicians have been asking for more rights for the president. We go further. We say, 'the president dies,' but the king does not die. Therefore, our goal remains a Prussian-German monarchy of Hohenzollerns. Only the monarchy can lead us back to splendor, freedom and honor."

Hitler flew to Munich this afternoon to organize the Nazi campaign for the reichstag election on March 5. Dispatches from Nazi headquarters there said that their leader has renounced his salary of 48,000 marks [about $11,376] as chancellor, because he makes his living by his pen.

Four Slain, 40 Hurt in Fights.

Meanwhile, political disorders are continuing. Four persons were killed and forty were injured in clashes in the provinces of the Rhine, Silesia Saxony and Prussia. In Bochum, Paul Passman, a Nazi leader, was shot dead by communists. In Breslau, one republican reichbannerman was killed and 11 wounded in a fight with knives. Another reichsbannerman was slain in Chemnitz. At Seckenheis, a suburb of Mannheim, a policeman was shot to death by a rowdy.

At Strassfurt, Joachim Matthes, 17 was held tonight on a charge of murdering the burgomaster, Hermann Kasten, who was shot from behind last night while opening his garden gate. Kasten was a Social Democrat member of the Prussian diet.

18 Killed and 18 Hurt in Colombian Election

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Eighteen persons were killed and at least 18 were injured today in political clashes that occurred in several villages as the citizens participated in a legislative election. Fourteen were slain in the town of Chinacota. Political observers said they believed the Liberal party would win majorities in nine of the 14 departments.

KERNER TO OPEN GRAND JURY QUIZ INTO HIGH FEES

Would Put Masters on Salaries.

Grand jury investigation of excessive fees and other abuses of receiverships and forclosures was promised yesterday by Attorney General Otto Kerner. The threat of prosecution followed his announcement on Saturday that his office will at once institute rigorous supervision over fees.

The attorney general yesterday revealed his office has been conducting an inquiry into all phases of receiverships and foreclosures with a view to prosecuting any overt actions. Particular stress, he said, has been placed on bondholders' protective committees.

Investigates All Complaints.

"Many complaints have been made to me since I took office a month ago," Attorney General Kerner said. "All of them have been investigated or are now under investigation. Many of these complaints have been against bondholders' protective committees.

"I have been told that many of these are organized for mere personal gain. Individuals organize such committees and assess fees for the benefit of themselves and without regard to bondholders.

"If I find the facts to be as they have been represented, I shall not hesitate to ask a grand jury investigation. I will also instigate prosecution on any other overt acts brought to my attention."

Assistant Put in Charge.

The attorney general has assigned an assistant, George E. Lavin, to conduct the investigation. Appointment of another assistant to aid Lavin is to be made during the week.

Attorney General Kerner also declared himself as favoring limitation of the fees of masters in chancery by making the post a salaried one. He said legislation should be introduced to reduce the number of masters and make them assistant judges at a salary below that of the $15,000 a year paid to Circuit and Superior judges.

Under the present system of appointment of masters and paying them through fees, masters average more than $68,000 a year on foreclosure cases alone. This estimate is made from a recent study of masters' fees by Homer F. Carey, John W. Bradner-Smith and David V. Landsen of Northwestern university and published in the Illinois Law Review.

Superior Court Masters' Fees.

Estimates of the earnings of present masters of the Superior court in the first six months of 1932, from statistics given in the university survey, is as follows:

Master—	Cases.	Fee estimate.
Humphrey	173	$103,800
Pollack	117	70,200

A brief respite in the cold wave will occur today, but a new cold wave is expected to reach Chicago tonight, bringing a return of zero temperatures, C. A. Donnel, chief government forecaster, predicted last night. The minimum temperature at dawn yesterday was 2 degrees below zero. At midnight the mercury rose to 17.

The temperature today may rise as high as 30 degrees, said Mr. Donnel, but the interlude between yesterday's cold wave and the next one will be brief. By tonight the mercury will begin sliding downward again, and by tomorrow zero or subzero readings will occur. The cold will remain until Wednesday at least, declared the forecaster. Some snow is likely, he added.

"These conditions are somewhat unusual," said Mr. Donnel. "The storm spots are moving rapidly. As soon as we find one, it jumps elsewhere. Our new cold wave is originating in the arctic, in Alaska, and northwestern Canada, as did this one just ending."

Girl Ends Life in Leap from Medinah Club

Miss Vera Hayburn, 25 years old, an unemployed stenographer, leaped to her death early yesterday from the thirty-third floor of the Medinah Athletic Club building, 505 North Michigan avenue. Her body struck the setback at the twenty-fifth floor, where it was found several hours later.

After a lengthy investigation, detectives said last night that the young woman's act was probably due to momentary despair. Their quiz covered a party at a north side night club, and in that connection they questioned several members of the group who had been with her before the fatal leap.

Question Auto Magnate's Son.

Among them was Albert Russel Erskine Jr., 24 years old, son of the president of the Studebaker Automobile and the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car companies. He lives on the thirty-third floor of the Medinah club, and it was on the pretext of going to his room—he was elsewhere at the time—that Miss Hayburn was permitted on that floor.

Others in the party were F. Ward Just, business manager of the Waukegan News-Sun; A. G. Atwater, 2440 Lake View avenue, brother-in-law of Philip K. Wrigley and an official of the William Wrigley Jr. company, and Miss Gladys Stewart, 20 East Delaware place.

Erskine and the others frankly told police of the party, and Lieut. Patrick O'Connell of the Chicago avenue station said it was apparent that no blame could be laid on them for Miss Hayburn's act. He instructed all to appear at the inquest this morning in the undertaking rooms at 200 East Erie street.

Drive to Cabaret.

Erskine, who is employed by an advertising house, told Lieut. O'Connell that on Saturday night he called on Mr. Just in his room in the Morrison hotel. Erskine then invited Miss Hayburn and Miss Stewart to the room. Later they were joined by Mr. Atwater and the three men and two girls drove to the Chez Paree, 611 Fairbanks court.

"Mr. Just danced with Mickey Hogan, a hostess, and I danced several times with Miss Stewart," related young Erskine. "Apparently Vera didn't like that. At 3 o'clock, after the floor show, we left. I put Vera in a taxi and gave her $2 to pay her fare. Mr. Atwater and I drove Miss Stewart home, and then I went with him to his apartment, where I stayed for the night."

Instead of going home Miss Hayburn went to the Medinah club. She told the elevator operator, William Hayden, that she was going to the room of "Russ" Erskine. According to Hayden, Miss Hayburn appeared nervous.

When Hayden returned to the lobby floor the buzzer signaled from the thirty-third floor. He ascended to that floor again, but found no one. At 10 o'clock yesterday morning a chambermaid saw Miss Hayburn's body on the setback. She had jumped from a corridor window.

Her body was identified by Miss Irene Gerz, 948 Edgecomb place, also a stenographer, whose business card was found in Miss Hayburn's effects, and by Mrs. Maude Flower, Miss Hayburn's sister, with whom she lived at 2525 Leland avenue. Miss Gerz said that Miss Hayburn had been private secretary to a broker at one time, but had been unemployed recently. Young Erskine said he had known Miss Hayburn for about nine months.

BOY SAVES PARENTS IN FIRE BY COASTING MILE IN HIS NIGHTIE

East Concord, Vt., Feb. 5.—(AP)—John Boutwell, 12, bleeding, barefoot, and attired in only a nightgown, sped out of the foothills on a sled before dawn today to summon rescuers to his burning home and save the lives of his mother, father, and a brother.

Awakened by flames, the boy dropped two stories from a window to the ground, receiving severe cuts, leaped on his sled and coasted a mile and a half down into the village. It was ten above zero.

Garage attendants, aghast at the excited courier at the door, called out volunteer fire fighters who hurried to the home to find that John's 15 year old sister, Edna, had carried three younger sisters from the burning structure and had her hair burned off in doing so.

The parents and another boy still were trapped, but the firemen brought them to safety. The home and furnishings were destroyed.

Bar Advocates Defeat for Six Sitting Judges

Six sitting judges are condemned in the report of the Chicago Bar association on nineteen Circuit judges and one Superior judge whose terms expire in June. The report was mailed last night to the association's membership.

Findings on Judges Harry Fisher, Michael Feinberg, and Stanley H. Klarkowski are closed in the report with the curt sentence, "He should not be renominated." Judge George Fred Rush is labeled "Lacking essential qualifications" and Judges David M. Brothers and John R. Caverly are dismissed with "Services not satisfactory to the bar."

Opinion of 1,600 Lawyers.

The report was prepared by the board of managers of the association from replies to a questionnaire recently submitted to members. Approximately 1,600 lawyers answered the questionnaire. The qualifications of each judge were measured in nine questions.

Viewing four of the questions as the most significant, the board worked out a percentage rating on each judge. A further percentage was fixed on one question alone, which asked whether the particular judge should be renominated. The four key questions were:

1. Is he patient and courteous?
2. Does he possess legal ability?
3. Do you have confidence in his integrity?
4. Do you regard him as an able judge?

Percentage Ratings Tabulated.

Ten points were allowed on the first question and 30 on each of the last three. The percentage rating on each judge on the key questions and on the question of renomination is as follows:

Judge—	Key questions.	Renomination
Wilson [D.]	98	97
Friend [R.]	96	94
Matchett [R.]	96	93
Taylor [R.]	96	91
Scanlan [R.]	94	92
Burke [D.]	91	89
Brothers, W. V. [R.]	91	87
Trude [R.]	90	87
Prystalski, Superior court [D.]	88	85
Sullivan [D.]	87	85
Lynch [D.]	83	80
Finnegan [D.]	82	78
Normoyle [D.]	82	76
Rush [R.]	69	60
Feinberg [R.]	55	37
Brothers, D. M. [R.]	54	39
Fisher [D.]	49	28
Caverly [D.]	48	35

Judge Bartelme Not Candidate.

Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court is not included in the table. The omission is explained in the report with, "The board has learned with great regret from Judge Bartelme that she is not a candidate for reelection. Her name, therefore, has been omitted from the list." The report for the first time confirms the rumor that Judge Bartelme would not run June 5.

Judge Frank H. Bicek was not included in the list because the questionnaire was sent to members before his appointment to the bench last Jan. 26.

With the report, lawyers will receive a ballot listing the judges for the bar primary, which closes at 4 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. Lawyers are asked to vote as to whether or not each judge should be renominated. The ballot also includes two proposals designed to eliminate politics in judicial elections. These are a proposal to hold all judicial elections on the first Monday in June and on a nonpartisan judicial ballot.

The report of the board, which is composed of 10 former presidents and the six present officers of the association, gives a biographical sketch of each judge. Following the sketch is a brief summary of the qualifications of

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Franklin Roosevelt is supremely confident that he is going to lead the country out of the economic wilderness. After months of study of the problem and taking counsel with economists and others he is convinced, his friends say, that he sees the way out.

In his inaugural address, which he already was blocking out in the rough before his departure from Warm Springs for a yachting holiday, the President elect is going to chart the course he intends to pursue in search of the country's economic salvation. According to the political pilgrims returning from Warm Springs it will be the most ambitious program ever broached by an incoming chief executive.

Outstanding Proposals.

Piecing together the utterances of the President elect, the Democratic leaders list the following as the outstanding undertakings that will be foreshadowed in the inaugural address:

1. Balancing of the budget by reduction of federal expenditures in the main, with increase of income taxes in the higher brackets if necessary, and a substantial boost in inheritance taxes.

2. A cut of upwards of 750 millions of dollars in the cost of the federal government, to be accomplished by discontinuance of paternalistic and other activities, in which the central government encroaches upon the functions of the states, and by a wholesale reorganization, consolidation, and elimination of bureaus, boards, and commissions.

3. Restoration of the purchasing power of the farmers, to be accomplished by legislation increasing by subvention or otherwise the return from agricultural production, scaling down the principal and interest of farm mortgages and extending cheap credit for new operations.

4. Negotiation with other countries for the lowering of tariff barriers and removal of foreign exchange obstructions in order to revive foreign trade and enable the European debtors to pay their war debts to the United States in goods.

Repeal of Eighteenth Amendment.

5. Repeal of the eighteenth amendment without qualification, which the President elect feels would exert a powerful influence in the recovery of prosperity, partly due to the revival of the brewing, distilling, and ancillary industries and partly to the restoration to the federal treasury of liquor tax revenue, estimated at one billion dollars a year.

6. Legalization of real beer with a view to making the beverage available by July 1 and the levying of a tax thereon expected to yield upwards of 250 millions a year.

7. Vast projects of reforestation and conservation of flood waters to provide employment, decentralize industry, readjust land use, and redistribute population.

On the question of inflation for the purpose of increasing commodity prices the President elect has been found somewhat vague. It has been gathered that he is against free silver and probably other schemes for inflating the currency, but inclined to favor measures for the inflation of credit, if necessary.

Has No Delusions.

Mr. Roosevelt, it appears, is laboring under no delusions concerning the magnitude of the test that he is up against during his term of office. He realizes that unless economic conditions take a decided turn for the better before the next presidential election the people are likely to return the Republicans to power.

The Democratic leaders appear to share the confidence of Mr. Roosevelt that he will succeed or at least that there will be a substantial recovery for which he and his party will claim the credit. It is because of this consideration that the Democrats are not exactly desirous at this session to balance the budget, reduce expenditures or otherwise measure up to the demands of the hour. They are content to blame the Republicans for the futilities of this session and to look forward to accomplishments after March 4 for which they can claim undivided credit.

If Mr. Roosevelt fails it will not be for want of the power to carry out his program of reforms and improvements. Not since the civil war has a President possessed the support of party numbers in both houses of congress that Mr. Roosevelt will have in the next congress.

The Democratic majority in the senate will be 22 and in the house 191. Mr. Harding began his term with a Republican majority of 22 in the senate, but only 165 in the house. Mr. Taft started out with a Republican majority of 26 in the senate, but only 47 in the house.

The Democratic majority in the next house is not only numerically but proportionately larger than either party ever has had. The closest approach to it was after the political overturn of the 1890 election, when the Democrats had a majority of 143 in a house of 333 members. The senate then was Republican by a majority of 6.

With such an overwhelming control of both houses in the next congress there can be no reason save incapacity and ineptitude for the Democratic party failing to redeem its platform pledges in 1933 and 1934.

Uses Patronage as Lever.

That Mr. Roosevelt appreciates to the full the power of this machinery at his command for working the will of the executive and his party has been abundantly evidenced, as by his intimations to patronage hunters that he is not going to be in any great hurry to appoint the friends and henchmen of Democratic senators and congressmen to office.

Evidently he is not going to take too many chances. He is going to assure himself of passage of the legislation he will seek before loosening up on patronage. Otherwise he might be going, hat in hand, to Capitol hill for legislation, only to meet with a loss of enthusiasm on the part of those who had obtained what they wanted.

ROOSEVELT GOES FISHING

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—President Elect Roosevelt dropped his fish line into the blue Caribbean off Stirrup Cay, in the Bahamas, late this afternoon, according to a message from the yacht Nourmahal received at Miami.

An earlier message wirelessed from the Nourmahal, read:

"Fine night at sea and all goes well. Will be off Settlement Point at 10 and proceed through North West Providence channel."

Evidently Mr. Roosevelt's luck at fishing was not so hot, for shortly after 8 o'clock came evidence that the party needed both advice and better lures. The last message:

"Expect to arrive Nassau Monday morning and remain for a few hours to pick up fishing pilot and bait."

Norris Lodges Protest.

It was made known today that Senator George Norris of Nebraska had delivered a protest to President Elect Roosevelt against the drafting of outstanding Democrats and radicals of the senate into the cabinet.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], is slated for the attorney generalship; Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], is regarded as the best pick for secretary of the treasury; Senator Cordell Hull [Dem., Tenn.], has indicated he would accept the secretaryship of state, and Senator Bronson Cutting [Rad., N. M.] is playing with the thought of being secretary of the interior.

These selections would weaken the Roosevelt hold on the senate, it is believed by Norris and others objecting to their appointments to the cabinet.

Object to Pressure.

Applicants for posts in the federal service under the Roosevelt administration, from cabinet aspirants to would-be postmasters, are ruining their chances if they are trying to put on political pressure, it was stated today by the President elect's advisers vacationing here.

Although James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, who heads a group of a dozen of the Roosevelt political chieftains here, declined to comment directly, it was learned he and Mr. Roosevelt are discounting the bids of applicants who are having committees, local politicians, and others "bear down" in their behalf.

WEST POINTER'S TWO CHILDREN DROWN; 1 A HERO

Highland Falls, N. Y., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Under circumstances leading to a theory that one of them died in an effort to save the other, a son and a daughter of Lieut. Godwin Ordway Jr. of West Point were drowned here today in a pond near their home.

The son, Albert, was 7 years old, and the daughter, Margaret, was 4. In an attempt to resuscitate them, rescue squads raced by automobile from West Point and from the Palisades interstate park police headquarters at Bear Mountain, but were unable to restore breathing.

Marks on the rocks surrounding the bank, coupled with other circumstances which he had noticed, caused Lieut. Ordway to advance the theory that one of the children had first slipped and fallen into the water and that the other, in attempting to rescue the first, had been pulled in also.

93 MILLION PAID BY ILLINOIS FOR FEDERAL TAXES

State Is Fourth in Total Collected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Illinois paid $93,527,973 in federal internal revenue taxes last year, 6.5 per cent of the country's $1,420,100,000 federal tax bill.

Illinois' share in federal taxes was the fourth largest in the list of states. Only New York, North Carolina, and Virginia paid more money into the federal treasury last year than Illinois.

Two-thirds Income Tax.

Of the federal taxes collected in the state, $62,773,015 was gathered under the income tax laws and the other $30,754,958 under miscellaneous taxes, such as bond and stock transfer taxes, admission taxes, and similar levies.

Federal collections in Illinois under the miscellaneous taxes jumped 19 per cent last year because of the imposition of the new and higher taxes in the revenue act of 1932. Income tax collections in the state fell, however, and more than offset the increase in miscellaneous taxes, leaving the total collections in the state lower last year than in 1931.

Total Down 25 Per Cent.

From the country as a whole the federal government drew $1,420,068,593 in internal revenue taxes last year, a decline of $493,986,029, or 25 per cent from the previous year. Of the 1932 collections, $784,617,096 came from the income tax and $635,451,497 from the miscellaneous taxes.

When compared with 1931 collections these sums show an increase of $89,600,000, or 16 per cent, for the miscellaneous taxes, but a decline of $583,400,000, or 42 per cent, for the income tax. The heaviest decline in income taxes was reported by corporations, but the individual income tax also fell off.

Illinois paid 4.8 per cent of the national miscellaneous tax bill and 8 per cent of the income tax bill. About 8 per cent of both corporate and individual income taxes were drawn from the state.

155 MILLION SPENT ON REHABILITATION TO BOOST U. S. BUSINESS

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The national committee on industrial rehabilitation is in receipt of reports from all over the country showing that rehabilitation projects totaling $155,049,702 have been undertaken to date by plants and retail business establishments in touch with the committee.

The latest total of modernization projects, which compares with $142,116,851 announced on Jan. 15, was made public by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the committee and chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The new total covers a wide range of work from erection of new buildings to simple repairs in shops, modernization of equipment and processes, installation of new machinery and plant facilities and painting of the interior of shops and stores, factories, department stores, power plants, public institutions and office buildings.

"In reporting these figures," said Mr. Robertson in announcing the new total, "the national committee does so as a matter of public information so that the whole country may know of the progress of the modernization movement, whether is is due directly to the activity of the committee.

"It is not a matter of vital importance as to where credit for each rehabilitation project rests. It is important for the whole country to know that the movement for modernization is progressing nationally and having a beneficial effect on business and on employment."

HEAD OF FRANCE RAISES SPECTER OF DEFICIT PERIL

PARIS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The specter of an "imperious, brutal deficit," was raised today by President Lebrun in a speech at a dinner for republican journalists. The president had summoned the press to ask newspapermen to help maintain the morale of the masses and to work against discouragement.

"The budgetary situation and the state of the treasury demand a great and courageous effort without delay," the president said. He deplored what he called hostile manifestations throughout France against necessary fiscal measures and warned that, if continued, the deficit would constitute "an insurmountable menace."

Meanwhile the national council of the Socialist party decreed that Socialist deputies may not participate in the formation of cabinets headed by members of other parties. Socialist deputies decided on Friday to support the Daladier cabinet in its stand on fiscal matters and joined in giving the premier a 370 to 200 vote of confidence.

BOMB DAMAGES ROOF OF DAIRY COMPANY PLANT

A small bomb tossed on the roof of the Crescent Dairy Products company at 515 North Crawford avenue last night tore a hole in the roof, causing damage estimated at $100.

Jacob Schrest, 3132 Carlisle place night watchman, who was in the building at the time, ran outside, but saw no one who might have tossed the bomb. Robert Hirsch, 1227 Independence boulevard, an official of the concern, which is in federal receivership said no threats had been received.

Last month, however, it was revealed by Edwin D. Buell, receiver for the dairy, that federal deputy marshals had been riding on trucks of the Crescent company because of threats received against its drivers. Last October one of the Crescent trucks was wrecked and the 8,000 pounds of milk it contained were spilled by three gunmen, who seized the truck from Stanley Zientarski, the driver, at Lake street and North avenue, near Elmhurst.

100,000 MARCH TO PROTEST CUT IN BRITISH DOLE

15,000 Policemen Prevent Disorders in London.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Hordes of police reserves were concealed near Hyde Park this afternoon as leaders of the Labor party, fearing attempts by extremists to break up their gigantic meeting, led more than 100,000 demonstrators into the park to protest against governmental economy measures which involve reduced payments of the dole.

Throughout the day London's traffic was controlled by squads of special police, leaving 15,000 regular police free to deal with the mob in the event of friction between the Laborites and communists who interfered with the trade union demonstration as uninvited guests.

Not a Police Club Drawn.

But no truncheon was drawn throughout the afternoon. The only arrest was that of a woman near the outskirts of the park who had the impression that there would be trouble and started some on her own account. Two policemen escorted her out of the park as a big crowd gathered and streamed along behind.

Two mounted "bobbies" galloped up to aid the squad of foot police who had converged around the woman and the street was quickly cleared without violence.

The gathering was described by enthusiastic trade union officials as the largest they have ever organized. Around eight platforms in the vast open spaces of the park were jammed the thousands who had marched four abreast in a column two miles long from Victoria embankment, their assembly point.

Lansbury Leads Procession.

The procession was led by the aged George Lansbury, veteran Labor member of parliament. He tramped to the park behind a hired band and a dozen mounted "supermarshals" astride steeds. The "supermarshals" were in a nondescript garb ranging from silk hats and bowlers to caps.

Behind streamed trade union delegations from all parts of London, and others who had come to the capital from the north to take part in the demonstration.

The tail end of the procession was made up of groups representing the national unemployed workers' movement and its parent organization, the communist party of Great Britain. The procession reached the park via Piccadilly, passing the London home of the duke of York and tying up traffic in Piccadilly circus for more than an hour.

Reds Stage "Side Show."

In the park the demonstrators marched to the platforms while the communists circled and set up a side show with six speakers of their own. They were not allowed to take part in the main gathering.

Throughout the march Scotland Yard was advised of developments by means of special police trucks equipped with radios. Elaborate precautions were taken by detailing reserves at points of vantage. Gates to subway stations were also closed.

Two hours were required to get the 100,000 marchers into the park. The gathering, including Reds and the usual Sunday afternoon crowds at Marble arch, approached 200,000. The speeches continued until late in the afternoon, when a bugle call signaled the Laborite speakers to introduce a motion condemning the national government. The motion was carried amid tremendous cheering everywhere.

Lansbury Gets Ovation.

Lansbury was given a great ovation as he mounted the platform where he has often been in conflict with the police during a half century of socialistic activity. Other speakers included Sir Richard Stafford Cripps and Herbert Morrison, minister of transport in the last Labor government.

Toward the end of the meeting a cold drizzle drove thousands from the park. The Laborites broke up independently after their resolution of condemnation was passed, content that they had staged the biggest political meeting ever held in Hyde Park.

The communists stayed to have the last word, marching away under a police escort nearly an hour after the official meeting was concluded.

SUPREME COURT MAY DECIDE TODAY ABOUT CHICAGO TAX INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Chicago probably will learn tomorrow whether the Supreme court will delve into its tax problems.

Returning from a two weeks' recess the court is expected to announce whether it will review two cases attacking the validity of the tax imposed by Cook county on real estate on the ground personal property was not bearing its fair share of the tax burden. The controversy has tied up the collection of taxes in Chicago for several years.

A number of decisions will be handed down by the court in thirty-seven cases in hand for solution. The session tomorrow will be short, as the court will attend the Coolidge memorial ceremonies in the house of representatives before meeting.

END DEBT TANGLE FOR ALL TIME, OIL CHIEFS URGE

Claim Uncertainty Balks Business Recovery.

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—A settlement of European war debts due the United States that would at once eliminate them for all time from political controversy was urged today by a group of nationally known oil company executives in a statement made public by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors corporation.

Emphasis is placed by most of the petroleum industry leaders on the element of uncertainty which the problem creates and almost all of them insist on some return for any adjustment granted the debtor nations. Several go so far as to favor cancellation.

Judge Beaty gives his view of the situation in a paragraph which says:

"I am decidedly of the opinion that uncertainty and lack of solution of the inter-governmental debts problem has added to the depression. I think it has affected business in nearly all lines, either directly or indirectly, and that we cannot expect to see much trade revival until a solution or permanent basis is found."

Mr. Moran expresses the opinion that "delays in the adjustment of these obligations are retarding recovery."

Tariffs are declared by Mr. Irish to be more important than a war debt settlement in achieving recovery.

Mr. Donnell said that the absence of stability in world currencies, a condition remediable through negotiations for a debt settlement has made it "practically impossible to carry on foreign trade with any security or assurance of profit to exporter or importer or benefit to the consumer."

Mr. Marcell expresses the hope that if some permanent settlement could be made in the next few months . . . this would be one fundamental fact that would help restore business in the United States."

SAILORS MUTINY AND TAKE DUTCH WARSHIP TO SEA

Squadron in Pursuit in East Indies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Feb. 5.—A Dutch battleship, attached to the East Indies station, was seized by 400 mutinous sailors before dawn today and taken to sea, according to official messages received by the colonial department of the Netherlands government.

Messages from Batavia, Java, said that the mutiny broke out in the harbor of Oleleh, northern Sumatra, while the commander and a part of his staff were ashore. The battleship captured by the rebels is the De Zeven Provincien, or 5,644 tons, the second largest warship in the Dutch navy.

Officers Overpowered.

During the absence of the officers the Javanese crew seized the vessel and overpowered the nine Dutch officers remaining aboard. They were handcuffed at the point of bayonets. Arms were issued to the sailors. The rebels weighed anchor and put out to sea in the darkness in a southerly direction. The mutineers sent out a wireless message that they were headed for Java, and it is feared the mutineers intend to raid and bombard the naval station at Sourabaya, Java. A serious mutiny broke out there Friday and 425 men were arrested.

Today's maneuver was witnessed from shore by the commander and his officers, who boarded the dispatch sloop Aldebaran and went in pursuit. Government officials and as many loyal sailors as could be rounded up accompanied the officers in the chase, which at last reports was still continuing.

The commander of the De Zeven Provincien has the help of only seven Dutch officers and twenty sailors, however, and it is unlikely he will overtake the mutineers, since the battleship is several knots faster.

Squadron in Pursuit.

Wireless messages were transmitted to the remainder of the Dutch squadron which has been engaged in maneuvers in the Celebes sea. The cruiser Java and the destroyers Piet Hein and Evertsen joined the pursuit, but it is at least a three days' sail through the Java sea to the Sumatran coast.

The complaint of the native mutineers was that their pay had been cut 17 per cent, while the pay of Dutch seamen was cut only 14 per cent. Last week discontent first blazed up among Dutch crews, but was promptly suppressed with the arrest of forty-five ringleaders. The mutiny at Sourabaya followed.

The De Zeven Provincien is comparatively old, having been built in 1909. She is armed with two eleven inch and four 5.9 inch guns and could do great damage to the Sourabaya station if the mutineers open fire.

TURKISH REVOLT FLARES; PRAYER LANGUAGE ISSUE

President Kemal Dashes to Scene of Uprising.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A religious uprising which was considered almost tantamount to an insurrection today took President Mustapha Kemal Pasha to Broussa. Orthodox citizens there attacked a muezzin [public crier], who, in giving his call to prayer, used Turkish instead of Arabic.

The president ordered the saying of prayers in Turkish instead of Arabic several months ago.

Drastic action by the government against the ringleaders of the movement, with the possibility that some might be hanged, is expected.

President Takes Charge.

The president, who was in Anatolia on an economy inspection tour of the country, went to Broussa with Ismet Pasha, president of the council, and took personal charge of the situation. Dispatches said a number of priests, including the head priest of the mosque where the incident occurred, have been arrested as a consequence of the disturbance and the mufti of Broussa was relieved of his post.

Sixty arrests were made, dispatches from Broussa said, before the arrival of President Kemal. The group of about 60 ringleaders which attacked the muezzin was said to have incited others to join the uprising which then spread against government officials who attempted to interfere. The streets of the city, which is an ancient Ottoman capital and burial place of early sultans, filled with anxious crowds.

60 Lead Revolt.

On his arrival the president went into a conference with the governor and police officials to discuss measures to be taken against the religious manifestants.

The Turkish cabinet, meeting in special session at Ankara, voted that the ministers of interior and justice should leave immediately to join the president at Broussa to attempt to suppress the movement.

So delicate has been the nature of the reform in the saying of the prayers that the government has not yet attempted nationwide application of the president's decree. During the holy month Ramazan in Stanbul the mosques continued services in Arabic.

Broussa Holiest Turk City.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5. — (AP) — Broussa, the ancient Turkish capital, has more than 100 mosques, and is the holiest city of all Turkey. It has a population of more than 100,000.

It lies at the foot of Mount Olympus, twenty miles from Mudania, its port on the sea of Marmora, and is 40 miles southeast of Istanbul.

Broussa was the first capital of the Turkish empire and had been the capital of the kingdom of Bithynia before it became Roman just before the opening of the Christian era. The population of the Broussa district came from Thrace, has always held aloof from the rest of Turkey and clung firmly to old traditions, including use of Arabic in its prayers.

Turks Revolt on Religious Issue

At Broussa, orthodox Turks yesterday rebelled against their government's attempt to force the use of Turkish instead of Arabic in prayers. They attacked a public crier who used Turkish, brought President Mustapha Kemal rushing to the scene of the insurrection.

CURT MESSAGES REVEAL AMAZING ARCTIC RESCUE

3 Months' Hunt Costs 38 Lives, but Succeeds.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—"Albatross survivors rescued," runs a radio message received in Moscow today as the laconic climax of a story of arctic adventure that would have driven any other country than Russia frantic with excitement.

Here is something to rank with Scott's or Andree's ill fated polar expeditions, and all the soviet press does with it is to give it five lines on the back page of the newspaper Izvestia.

A week later came a radio message saying she was in distress. So a second "ice breaker," the Devyatka, with a crew of 38, went forth to the rescue. On Dec. 5 one of the Devyatka's boats was found 40 miles north of Archangel with eight frozen corpses, "in a good state of preservation," according to a brief message.

That is all for the Devyatka. How she perished or why, is one more arctic mystery.

Eight of Crew Saved.

Then, on Jan. 17, came the news that eight members of the crew of the Albatross had been rescued on White island. By whom, or how, the message did not say—just a curt report, which said the men were "too weak to travel across the ice," and added:

"They were left behind at the fur station at Maresili by the rest of the crew, which went on to settlements on Yalmal peninsula."

Today another message, equally curt, said:

"The rest of the Albatross' crew has been found on the ice in Malygin strait between the Yalmal and Tarasoff peninsulas. They are in bad physical condition. Please send airplanes for transport."

In short, the Russians have been seeking the Albatross survivors for three months. The search has already cost the lives of the whole Devyatka crew. Now the Albatross crew has been found, and that is that.

Find 2 Canadian Flyers Dead Near Wrecked Plane

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Two north country airmen, Pilot P. B. Calder of Edmonton and W. Medin, air engineer for the Canadian Airways, have been found dead near their wrecked plane, according to a report received by company officials here tonight. The men were unreported since Jan. 31, when they left the base at Fort Rae, in the far north Mackenzie river district.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—A speed of 40 knots for Atlantic liners is foreshadowed by a new revolutionary hull design worked out by Sir Joseph Isherwood, noted naval architect.

Isherwood, who yesterday placed orders for the first three freighters embodying the new hull design, today asserted the barrel shaped hull is equally applicable to the biggest passenger liners. Secret tests of a scale model of an Atlantic liner with the new hull have proved a speed of 40 knots is perfectly practicable, he said.

"I am sorry for any one who has big ships under construction at present," Isherwood said. "They will be out of date by the time they are built. The 73,000 ton Cunarder, designed for 30 knots, is already old fashioned even before she is launched. Modern developments in ship design have applied mainly to fore and aft parts of the vessel, but nine months ago I began to improve this design amidships. I have streamlined the middle as well as the ends."

INSULL FREE TO LEAVE COUNTRY, GREECE RULING

ATHENS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The ministry of interior announced today that Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, enjoys full liberty of movement in Greece and that he is free to leave the country should he so desire.

A Greek court on Dec. 27, last, refused a request for the extradition of Insull to Chicago to face charges of larceny and embezzlement, which followed the collapse of his utilities interests.

TURKEY ORDERS MEDICAL EXAM FOR CAFE HELP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Feb. 5.—New regulations just made effective here require all café and restaurant waiters to have periodic medical examinations. The measure is described as part of a general hygienic campaign against epidemics.

The Istanbul municipality recently established an employment bureau for waiters and servants, requiring every one to register whether he had a job or not.

Only about one hundred out of the thousand odd waiters showed up, so authorities now are proceeding to a general roundup and inspection of the delinquents.

A POUNDMASTER PROVES HE DOES HYPNOTIZE DOGS

Superior, Wis., Feb. 5.—(AP)—When other means fail a dog catcher, try hypnotism, suggests Alex Piel, Superior's poundmaster, who has members of the police department guessing.

Piel claims he can control the dogs by looking 'em in the eye, and the police were skeptical until the other day.

A gentleman, suspected by the police of being slightly inebriated, selected the sidewalk near Piel's home for sleeping purposes. Two dogs stood guard over the prostrate figure, growling and snarling at all who approached. A policeman decided it was no job for him, and called the poundmaster.

"Sure," said Piel in explaining the incident. "Sure the dogs were hypnotized. I just looked them straight in the eye and I got my man."

Sheriff Frustrates Plot to Break Waukegan Jail

A plotted jailbreak from the Lake county jail in Waukegan was frustrated last night by Sheriff Lester Tiffany with the finding of three saws and a pair of pliers in the cells of Orville Weyant, 23 years old; John McGuire, 30, and Charles Tisevich, 19. Weyant is facing trial for possession of stolen goods. McGuire is charged with the murder of Mrs. Minnie Mellinger, and Tisevich is accused of bank robbery. The latter two are Chicagoans.

Shot When He Resists Robbers in Church School

Albert Lucero, 37 years old, janitor of Aiken institute, 1005 Monroe street, a Baptist institution, was shot in the right side of the neck last night when he resisted three robbers whom he surprised in the basement. Lucero was taken to the county hospital.

MARRIAGE NO BAR TO EFFICIENCY, WOMEN ASSERT

Protest Clause in Federal Economy Bill.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5. — [Special.]—Feminine fingers encircled with a wedding ring can beat the typewriter keys just as efficiently as those that are unadorned, a massmeeting of married women government workers today argued as they met to protest the "marriage clause" in the federal economy bill.

This clause calls for the dismissal of one of the married persons when both husband and wife are employed by Uncle Sam. Technically, the phrase is "married persons." Actually, the women declare, it is the woman who loses her job.

The meeting, which was attended by a lot of husbands, too, was called by the Government Workers' council of the National Woman's party. Miss Maud Younger, the organization's congressional chairman, declared that the depression has taken all the casual objections which men, through the years, have made to women working, and has concentrated them into one mighty attack against "a woman's right to earn her living."

Right to Earn Living.

"We thought we won the victory when we got political power. Ah, the economic power is greater, as we are seeing now. A woman has a right to earn her living and a woman has a right to get married."

If the federal government, in the cause of economy, has to fire some of its employés, let it first dismiss its most inefficient men and women, not the women whose only fault is that they are married to men in government employ, demanded Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Wiley does not expect or wish every married woman in the country to try to hold a job. She thinks the mother of young children, in most cases, ought to be home taking care of them. But, she pointed out to the meeting, that of the 28,405,294 women listed in 1930 as homemakers, only 3,923,516, or 13.8 per cent of that number, were gainfully employed. This left 86.2 per cent of the homemakers in the home.

Half in Washington Women.

In the District of Columbia, due to the number of government workers, the nation's average of 13.8 per cent is raised to 31 per cent of the homemakers as job holders.

About half of the 60,000 government workers in Washington are women, Mrs. Wiley's survey showed. Of this 30,000 about 10,000 are married. And of this married group of 10,000, about 300 are wedded to men in the government service, and, therefore, would come under the marriage clause.

But that number is sufficient to arouse the women of Washington in great numbers and to have organizations make an issue of the ruling.

"Economy," said Mrs. Wiley, "can know no pity; but it can be just: and this clause is not just. For hunger knows no sex."

"Strike at Home."

Miss Jessie Dell, United States civil service commissioner, complained that "many sins had been committed in the name of economy," but declared that the marriage clause was "the greatest sin," because it struck at the foundations of the home.

Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, newspaper editor, called it "a stupid, unfair, unnecessary" provision, and Representative Louis Ludlow [Dem., Ind.] was enthusiastically applauded when he pledged his efforts to have the clause repealed.

At the close of the meeting one of the women offered a resolution urging the repeal of the marriage clause. From somewhere in the back of the hall a voice, a masculine voice, gave a hearty second. The women clapped and cheered. They turned around to search out the man. But he left without giving his name.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, P. R., Feb. 5.—Felipe de Hostos, new president of the chamber of commerce of Porto Rico, has sent letters to 100 chambers of commerce in cities in the United States protesting against discrimination against American goods manufactured in Porto Rico as part of the "Buy American" campaign. As part of the United States the island is entitled to protection for its products, it is asserted.

Complaints have been made that orders are being canceled because island made goods are considered "foreign" by buyers. Gov. Beverley has taken cognizance of the threat to island business by advising the resident commissioner at Washington that "all goods made in Porto Rico are made by American labor for the American market."

U. S. YACHTSMAN DROWNS IN STORM OFF IRISH COAST

COBH, Irish Free State, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Ralph G. Crimmins, a native of Boston, drowned near here today when the small boat in which he was en route to visit a friend capsized in a sudden squall.

Mr. Crimmins, a reputedly wealthy and ardent yachtsman, clung to the overturned vessel for some time and called for help to farmers on shore. No oars could be found for a boat which might have been used to rescue him, and finally he had to let go. The body was recovered tonight.

Mr. Crimmins, who was 37, was formerly a representative of a Boston bank. Surviving are the widow, the daughter of Sir Arthur Chance, whom he married in Dublin in 1921, and four children. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Crimmins, are believed to be traveling in Europe.

Charged Cans Keep Dogs Away; Garbage Men, Too

Kansas City, Kas., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Three housewives who attached electric wires to garbage cans to keep away dogs have succeeded in keeping away the garbage collectors, too. H. F. McElroy, city manager, said he had received reports of city workmen experiencing electrical shocks at the three homes and had ordered collections there to be discontinued indefinitely.

G. O. P. FACTIONS FACING TEST AT SENATE CAUCUS

'Young Turks,' Regulars Fail to Agree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The first encounter of an unostentatious, but significant and hard fought struggle within the Republican party is going to take place a few days before March 4, when the Republicans of the incoming senate gather for their caucus.

The slowly gathering conflict between right wing and left for control of party policy, at least within the senate walls, will be precipitated when eastern conservatives propose what they have long sought opportunity to do—that is, to repeat what was done following the elections of 1924 and purge the ranks of their insurgent members.

Four Support Roosevelt.

There are four Republican senators who will be unable to meet the traditional test of regularity because of their open espousal of Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy last fall. Senators Hiram Johnson of California, Robert M. La Follette Jr., of Wisconsin, George W. Norris of Nebraska, and Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, all campaigned against President Hoover, their party's choice.

But whether the movement to read these four horsemen of insurgency out of the party will succeed is a different and dubious matter.

For the forces of the so-called "Young Turk" group within the senate, have been gathering strength and it is a strength fortified, and, as they see it, justified by the results of the November elections.

G. O. P. to Muster 36.

The 36 Republican senators who will take their seats on inauguration day will represent a political pattern considerably different from that of the 48 who now sit on the Republican side.

The issue which will confront the Republican caucus is whether the Republican party, as it finds expression in the senate, shall move further to the right by ousting the four radical recalcitrants, or whether it shall move to the left by allowing such irregularity to go unreproved.

An eastern group with Senator Felix Hebert [Rep., R. I.], as one of its leading spirits, believes the time has come when a solidly conservative party holds the only hope for Republican salvation.

McNary, Vandenburg Leaders.

The "Young Turks" hold the opposite view and it is significant that their chieftains are Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], now assistant Republican leader, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], who are slated, respectively, to be Republican leader and assistant leader in the next congress.

It is true, all admit, that if there is a time when party purging is in order, it is now. A party in one of the congressional branches can afford to rid itself of insurgent members only when it is unassailably in the majority, so that the expulsions will not be felt, or when it is for the time being hopelessly in the minority.

Quartet Defended.

To support their position that it is still impossible, the "Young Turk" faction points to two things. First, they consider it unfair to read out such men as Johnson, Norris, La Follette, and Cutting, who had at least the courage of their convictions, and to continue such men as Senators Gerald Nye and Lynn Frazier, the North Dakota radicals, who outwardly stayed just within the party line.

And, second, they consider it politically unwise to execute so conservative a stroke only four months after the electorate chopped off the heads of such veteran regulars as Watson of Indiana, Moses of New Hampshire, Smoot of Utah, Shortridge of California, and Bingham of Connecticut.

May Revive Vigilante for Motor Cattle Thieves

Roswell, N. M., Feb. 5.—(AP)—New Mexico cattle ranchers plan to do something about the increase in motorized "rustling." Representatives of 100 ranchmen have announced they will lay a plea for special protection before Gov. Arthur Seligman this week and, if it is denied, will invoke vigilante law in an effort to check depredations of the modern live stock thieves.

SURVEY SHOWS SUPERHIGHWAY TO BE NECESSITY

Elevation Costs Less than Widening.

BY HAL FOUST.

Elevated highway construction for Chicago is recommended in a report issued yesterday by the city council committee on traffic and public safety.

The report is based on twenty months' survey under the supervision of Dr. Miller McClintock, director of the Albert Russel Erskine bureau of Harvard university. The survey has been described as the most exhaustive study of metropolitan traffic ever made in America or Europe.

Conclusions made public yesterday by Ald. John A. Massen, chairman of the council committee, present incontrovertible factual data calling for the construction of urban express highways as economical necessities. Additional conclusions, now being drafted, will recommend exact engineering designs, specific routings and methods of finance.

To Be Known as "Limited Way."

The recommended facility is described in the report by a new term, "limited way," defined as "a roadway for vehicular traffic upon which there is no cross-traffic, due to a continuous elimination of grade crossings, and a roadway which provides no direct access to abutting property." Three types are listed:

1. ELEVATED HIGHWAYS—Favored in districts of high property values where the acquisition of wide rights of way would be prohibitive in cost and disturbing to established uses.

2. DEPRESSED WAYS—Favored where wide right of way may be obtained, such as in suburban areas or in connection with parkway developments or where existing depressions such as unused canal beds can be utilized.

3. SURFACE ROUTES WITH SPECIAL TREATMENT—Such as the Lincoln park and the south park outer drives.

A summary of the economic study is herewith quoted from the report:

"When submitted to any reasonable economic test, 'limited ways' show marked advantages over surface routes as a means of improving major traffic movements in the Chicago area. Their effective carrying capacity per lane is not less than eighty-one per cent greater than that of the highway type of surface route under urban conditions.

Equal Speed in Country.

"Limited ways permit a facility of movement in the most congested portions of the city at least equal to free operating speeds on the best of rural highways, and not less than double that possible on the best surface routes under urban conditions.

"In comparison with surface streets, limited ways show an annual time saving with a traffic of 50,000 vehicles per day which may be capitalized at more than $6,800,000 per mile. [The cost of a six lane elevated highway is estimated at $2,500,000 per mile, including property damages and right of way.]

"With a similar volume of traffic, and in comparison with experience on typical major surface streets, limited ways should show an annual accident saving in fatal and nonfatal losses alone of $20,000 per mile. [For this estimate the economic cost of a motor death was placed at $4,000 and the cost of a personal injury at $250.]

Cheaper than Widening.

"With a consideration of effective traffic capacity alone [not considering the time and the lives that would be saved], limited way construction can be accomplished at a cost of but 60 per cent of that actually expended for typical surface route widenings. [Widening of La Salle street cost $1,850,000 per mile for each ten foot lane added to the thoroughfare, while a sixty-six foot elevated highway would cost $416,666 per lane mile, little over 22 per cent the cost of the widening.]

"This chapter has been limited exclusively to a consideration of those economic elements of a definitely ascertainable character. Many of the more general economic benefits which would inevitably accrue from limited way construction are even more important though not susceptible to exact evaluation. They should, however, not be left out of consideration.

Would Help Auto Sales.

"Improved facility and economy of operation over the major routes in the Chicago area will unquestionably stimulate the ownership and operation of automobiles. This will result in increased returns from automobile taxation and user-revenue and should give very generous returns upon the investment.

"Improved automobile connections between the central concentration and work areas of the city and the major residential areas will result in an increment in existing outlying property values and in the possibility for the conversion of present undeveloped territory to higher and better uses."

CITY CONTRACTS FOR CHLORINE AT A NEW LOW PRICE

In the purchase of chlorine during 1933 the city will pay the lowest price that it has ever paid for this commodity and less than any other large city that buys from a commercial chlorine manufacturer as the result of contracts recommended by Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt and approved by Mayor Cermak.

The 1932 price for chlorine, which is used in treating Chicago's water supply, was $0.0529 per pound, it was announced yesterday. The new 1933 price is $0.0348, a 34 per cent reduction. On the estimated annual need of 1,200,000 pounds, the saving to the city under the new contracts would be $21,000.

"All five contracts for buying chlorine under the administration of Mayor Cermak have been for prices lower than any since 1924," said Commissioner Hewitt.

Salesman Kidnaped in Cab and Robbed of $8,000 Gems

Police yesterday sought three men who earlier in the day kidnaped and robbed Louis H. Geier, a resident of the Claridge hotel, 1244 North Dearborn street, of $200 and jewelry valued at $8,000. Geier, who is a jewelry salesman, was in a taxicab at Dearborn and Division streets when two men entered as the cab halted for a red light. A short distance away a car driven by a third man appeared and Geier was forced into it. He was put out in front of 1344 Julian street after being robbed.

TRY TO CRASH SHOWUP; CHIEF GIVES SURPRISE

Fat Man Refuses to Heed Companion's "Nix."

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, as has been his custom for two weeks, stood guard yesterday at the entrance to the detective bureau showup gallery to make sure that only victims of crime were admitted to view the suspects lined up there.

At his elbow appeared a chubby man about 5 feet 6 inches tall, with a companion. The short man burst into a chortle.

"The old yardmaster, himself," said he.

Presently the showup started inside the door. As the suspects were lined up on the platform at the front of the room, the 6 foot detective chief felt a tug at his coattail, then a heavy weight on his shoulders. Again sounded the warning, "Nix, Jim, nix."

Chief Goes Him One Better.

The little fat man, in spite of his companion's warnings, was doing his best to climb Schoemaker's back and watch the showup. As the chief turned, he was met by a wave of alcoholic breath.

"I want to see," said the fat man, teetering on his toes.

"I'll do better than that," replied Chief Schoemaker. "I'll give you a chance to go inside and join the parade on the platform."

The fat man said he was James McCabe, 6624 South May street, and his companion gave the name of Jack T. Dyer, 1145 West 69th street. In the bureau of identification McCabe asked:

"What was that big guy that sent us up here?"

"Why, that's the chief of detectives," he was told. "Don't you know him?"

"No," he said.

"How come you called him a yardmaster, then?" he was asked.

"Well, I thought he looked like a yardmaster," he said.

They Face the Chief.

Neither man had a police record. McCabe and his partner were taken to Chief Schoemaker's office later. They explained that they had brought some sandwiches to the bureau to Gilbert "Red" Golden, 6542 Kenwood avenue, a bootlegger who was arrested Friday.

"Do you still want to give him the sandwiches?" asked Chief Schoemaker.

"No, I'm going to eat them myself," said McCabe.

"Run along then," Schoemaker told him. "I don't know what I could book you for except for being a couple of chumps."

BABY DIES IN BATHTUB.

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—It sneyed jobs today for 18,000 men.

That number were recruited at 50 cents an hour from the ranks of the idle to help the city's 9,700 regular "white wings" sweep up the two and a half inches of snow that fell yesterday and today.

The snow was shipped by a 35 mile wind, but few accidents were reported aside from the usual grist incidental to skidding on slippery streets. Nineteen persons were hurt in Brooklyn in various minor accidents, none seriously.

At 10 a. m. today the temperature was down to 22 degrees, or 8 degrees below the normal for this date.

Australia Gets Loan of $20,000,000 from Bank

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The government announced today that the Commonwealth bank had agreed to advance the loan council £4,000,000 [about $20,000,000 at par] with which to complete the current year's loan program. The advance was agreed upon after the loan council had accepted the bank's terms that no further public works be financed next year and that no more funds be raised by issue of treasury bills.

FOUR BROTHERS REUNITED AFTER A HALF CENTURY

John Baker, 70 years old, of Aurora, was reunited yesterday with a brother he had not seen for 54 years, and another Aurora resident, James Flynn, 71, met his brother, Edmund, for the first time in 45 years.

Mr. Baker learned recently that his brother Joseph, who ran away from home when he was 16, was alive and an invalid living in University City, Mo. John left Saturday with his family for the Missouri town.

Through a letter from his sister in Ireland, Mr. Flynn learned that his brother Edmund was living in Chicago at 2344 Winona street.

CHICAGO SCOUTS TO OBSERVE 23D BIRTHDAY WEEK

A week of celebrations in observance of the 23d anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will begin in all parts of the city on Wednesday. Eleven community rallies and shows will wind up the week's observances on Feb. 14.

One of the events will be the presenting of "President's Awards" to 235 Scout troops. The recipients will be those troops which developed their programs, membership, and activities along the lines suggested by President Hoover early last year.

BAR ADVOCATES DEFEAT FOR SIX SITTING JUDGES

Fisher, Klarkowski and Feinberg Condemned.

Summaries on the condemned judges are:

FISHER—He has served twenty years in judicial office, including two terms in the Circuit court. As a member of the judicial advisory council he has made notable contributions to the advancement of civil and criminal jurisprudence in Illinois. He possesses legal ability, but has not the confidence of the bar. In our opinion he is unfit for judicial office and should not be renominated.

FEINBERG—Although he possesses legal ability and is diligent in the dispatch of business, he has demonstrated a lack of qualifications essential to the holding of judicial office. He should not be renominated.

KLARKOWSKI—He is completing a term of six years and in the general opinion of the bar has demonstrated his unfitness for the office. He should not be renominated.

CAVERLY—He has had long experience in judicial office, but the result of the questionnaire would indicate that his services are not satisfactory to the bar.

DAVID M. BROTHERS—Same as Caverly.

RUSH—The returns of the recent questionnaire indicate that a substantial number of members regard him as lacking in the essential qualifications for judicial office.

Summaries on Other Judges.

Summaries on the other judges are:

FRANK H. BICEK—He is courteous in manner, even tempered and conscientious. He is qualified for office.

JOSEPH BURKE—He is studious, courteous, industrious and even tempered. His judicial service has given general satisfaction. He should be renominated.

PHILIP J. FINNEGAN—He has had an experience of eight years in semi-judicial office and ten years in judicial service. In that service he has given fair satisfaction.

HUGO FRIEND—His judicial service has been of the highest quality. He merits the bar's commendation as exceptionally qualified for the office. He should be renominated.

THOMAS J. LYNCH—His service has been in the main satisfactory. He is fairly qualified for office.

DAVID F. MATCHETT—He possesses to an unusual degree the qualifications for judicial office. He should be renominated.

D. J. NORMOYLE—His usefulness as a judge is impaired by a lack of patience in the courtroom. He is fairly qualified for office.

KICKHAM SCANLAN—He is an able and experienced judge and should be renominated.

PHILIP L. SULLIVAN—In the twelve years during which he has held office he has shown judicial capacity, has conducted his court with dignity and dispatch and has rendered satisfactory service. He should be renominated.

THOMAS TAYLOR—Prior to his election to the bench eighteen years ago he served for 21 years as a master in chancery of the Circuit court and was regarded as one of the best of the masters. For 12 years he sat in the Appellate court, but returned to the trial court in 1928. His judicial service has been of a high order and he should be renominated.

DANIEL F. TRUDE—He was regarded as one of the exceptionally qualified judges of the Municipal court. He has served two years as Circuit judge. He is able, fearless, sincere and zealous in the performance of his duties. He should be renominated.

FRANCIS S. WILSON—His judicial service has been highly satisfactory to the bar. He merits commendation as exceptionally qualified for the office. He should be renominated.

JOHN PRYSTALSKI—Elected to the Superior court two years ago, he has served the entire time in the Criminal court with courage and ability. He has given satisfactory service during the short time he has held office and deserves renomination.

In a letter accompanying the report, the board of managers asks that the ballots be returned promptly. Each ballot is accompanied with a signature slip for the purpose of checking the vote against the roll of members.

FINAL HEARING ON $105,000 NOEL BANK LAW FEE DUE TODAY

The final hearing to determine the reasonableness of the $105,000 attorneys' fees demanded in connection with the receivership of the Noel State bank is scheduled to be held this morning by Master in Chancery George E. Gorman in his office at 1 North La Salle street.

A statement issued yesterday by William H. Fasig, secretary of a depositors' committee, summed up the evidence presented at the five hearings which have been held. A digest of the evidence has been prepared by Frederick C. Kiel, acting as accountant and auditor for the depositors.

The law firm of Judah, Reichmann, Trumbull & Cox, which represented Receiver Henry S. Savage, is asking the $105,000 fees. It had collected $65,000 when Attorney Thaddeus R. Diadul, representing the depositors, protested that the fee was excessive. His petition was referred by Judge Joseph Burke to Master Gorman.

Attorneys for the receiver said they had put in 6,519 hours of work in sixteen months in which the bank was in receivership. The fee of $105,000 represented an average charge of more than $16 an hour, or $128 for an eight hour day. Depositors say 84 per cent of the work was done by salaried employés, young and inexperienced attorneys and law clerks.

The income of the bank during the sixteen months in receivership was $105,861 from interest collected, profit on bonds sold, insurance commissions, rents of vaults, and trust fees during litigation, according to the statement.

Shoots Himself Because He Is "Tired of Living"

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Roy Garvey, 45, son of a former wealthy Kansas City business man, remained in a critical condition tonight with a bullet wound in his heart. Police said Garvey told them he shot himself because he was "tired of living." He was to have been arraigned tomorrow on charges in connection with the shooting last November of Mrs. Lena Woodruff in her apartment here. Garvey was acquitted October 24, 1925, of a charge of killing his father, James W. Garvey, in Kansas City.

BARE WEST PARK SCHEME TO GRAB MORE TAX MONEY

Audit Shows How the Old Board Built Up Fund.

In the Rossetter audit of the west park system—an audit suppressed for three months—there was found yesterday a scheme devised by the former board of commissioners, of which W. R. James was president, to get more money from west park taxpayers. By means of this scheme the old board was able to levy additional taxes of $192,500 for 1931 and $178,200 for 1932, it was shown.

The James board made the new levy, it was indicated, in the expectation of having additional pay roll and contract cash. This board was replaced last week by a new set of commissioners headed by Harry Joseph as president. The Rossetter audit already has disclosed how the old board plunged the park system deeply into debt and left a deficit of approximately $10,000,000 for their successors.

Shows Illegal Practices.

The Rossetter audit, however, did not delve deeply into expenditures, concerning itself mainly with what was described as the illegal practice of the former commissioners of using bond money, special assessment funds and cash that should have gone to pension funds, for corporate purposes.

To augment the corporate fund further, the audit report stated, the board designated the floral conservatory as a museum of botany, enabling it to levy a new tax under a forgotten law.

Under the law the board was prohibited from levying a tax of more than 33 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation. It had reached that peak in the 1930 tax levy, President James and the other commissioners having taken office in January 1930, by appointment of the then governor, L. L. Emmerson, and succeeding the board appointed by ex-Gov. Len Small, which was headed by the late Dr. John Dill Robertson. Under the Robertson régime the tax rate was 27½ cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Amend 1893 Law.

The additional tax levy was made possible under an old law, an act of June 17, 1893, which was subsequently amended and reads as follows:

"The corporate authorities of cities and park districts are hereby authorized to purchase, erect and maintain within any public park edifices to be used as aquariums or museums for the collection and display of objects pertaining to natural history or the arts and sciences."

The act also provides that park commissioners or other proper authorities may levy a tax of not to exceed 3 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation for the purpose of maintaining and caring for such aquariums or museums, and the proceeds of such tax shall be kept as a separate fund.

The act further provided:

"Said tax shall be in addition to all other taxes which such board of park commissioners is now or hereafter may be authorized to levy. It shall not be subject to reduction under, and shall not be considered by the county clerk in reducing tax levies under the Juul act."

"We direct attention to the fact that a floral conservatory has been maintained for many years in the west parks," the Rossettar audit report states, "and was not, apparently, regarded as being a 'museum of art, sciences or natural history' under the previous provisions of this act until 1931, and that during the preceeding years the cost of maintaining and caring for the conservatory was paid from the funds derived from collection of taxes levied for the corporate fund.

"Moreover after levying this additional tax for the years 1931 and 1932, the commissioners levied the maximum rate for corporate purposes for those years, notwithstanding the fact that the corporate fund had been relieved of the cost of maintaining the floral conservatory.

No Change in Activity.

"We know of no particular change in the activities of the floral conservatory during 1931 which would necessitate the inclusion of 'museum of botany' as a part of its name.

"We therefore question whether or not, as a matter of fact, the floral conservatory constitues a museum under the purview of this act."

The audit does not show how much was collected under the $370,700 levy, but it shows that on July 31, 1932, there was a deficit of $8,180 charged to this fund. Operating expenses were charged against it and in favor of the corporate fund in the sum of $323,275 and against that entry was the sum of $315,095 estimated as the amount receivable under the next tax levy.

NINE MILLION DOLLAR TOWN HAS ONLY 149 TOTAL POPULATION

Fraser, Minn., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Successful in litigation attacking its legality and favored by nature, this community advances its claim to be called the smallest city in the world.

In the heart of Minnesota's rich iron ore range, Fraser has an assessed valuation of $9,000,000 and a population of only 149 persons. It has no postoffice, no mercantile establishments, no theater, no water, power, or telephone service of its own. Modern dwellings built and owned by the mining companies which operate the nine iron mines responsible for the city's high assessed valuation make up the entire town.

Fraser was incorporated as a village in 1932, following its separation from the town of Balkan. On Sept. 1, 1931, at a special election, citizens voted to adopt a charter making Fraser a city of the fourth class under the laws of Minnesota. Recently the District court decided this charter was legally adopted.

Chisholm, Fraser's larger neighbor, wishing to annex Fraser, had protested.

143,208 Americans Visit France in '32; Down 62,000

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Not quite 1,000,000 tourists visited France last year, according to figures issued by the national office of tourism, which has taken them from port and frontier post records. This number was nearly 600,000 fewer than in 1931. Americans numbered 143,208, a decline of 62,000.

SECRET PASSAGE ON YACHT, STORY IN MURDER TRIAL

Wanderwell Case to Be Resumed Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Long Beach, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.] William James "Curley" Guy, young Welsh adventurer, relies on "secret evidence" to win his freedom on the charge of murdering Capt. Walter Wanderwell, soldier of fortune and promoter of ocean cruises.

"We'll play our trump card when the time comes," his attorney, Eugene McGann, said here today.

Guy is on trial before a jury of nine men and three women in Superior Judge Robert Kenny's court, the charges growing out of Wanderwell's slaying aboard the yacht Carma at a dock at midnight last Dec 5.

At the time, Wanderwell was recruiting an oddly mixed party of venturesome young women and young men to act as both crew and passengers on a trip through the South seas and the orient with him, lasting one year. Guy had been with Wanderwell on a similar cruise up the west coast of South America, and the men are reported to have quarreled.

McGann said that a secret passageway through a lower deck of the Carma which has not been mentioned by any witnesses, and which does not appear on the prosecution charts of the yacht in the courtroom, will take on added significance as the trial continues. He said that the passageway, which according to McGann was not found by police investigating the slaying, might have provided the hiding place for Wanderwell's assailant on the boat. No witness has ever been found who saw the slayer leave the vessel.

McGann said that he had lined up several surprise witnesses, but that their identity would not become known until Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, young blonde widow of the slain adventurer, and other women and youths of the Carma's crew had told their stories on the stand as prosecution witnesses. Mrs. Wanderwell resumes her testimony in Judge Kenny's court tomorrow.

Two More Earth Shocks Felt Near Mt. Vesuvius

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Two additional strong earth shocks were felt today in the neighborhood of Mount Vesuvius. No damage was reported. The volcano was shrouded in a heavy fog, making observations difficult. More than 200 earth tremors in the vicinity of Mount Vesuvius have been noted since Thursday morning.

Cheer Patrick S. Smith as He Leaves Hospital

Patrick Sheridan Smith, former city clerk, returned to his home in the Jackson Park hotel yesterday after spending the last seven weeks in the Illinois Central hospital. More than 500 of Mr. Smith's friends were waiting outside the hospital and cheered him when he appeared. "I am feeling fine."

DRIVES HIS AUTO WITH ALKY LOAD AGAINST TRAIN

Louis Fontaine, 11738 South Peoria street, was taken to St. Francis hospital in a serious condition last night after he had driven an automobile loaded with alcohol into the side of a Rock Island freight train at 123d and Ashland avenue, Calumet Park.

The automobile struck with such force that its hood stuck fast beneath the floor of a freight car. Chief of Police Matthew Wielgorecki of Calumet Park, salvaged a number of cans of alcohol from the car.

There were three automobile deaths in Cook county, increasing the traffic toll since the first of the year to 91. The victims:

Charles F. Weydig, 65 years old, 10 West Elm street. Died in St. Joseph's hospital. He was struck earlier in the day while crossing Armitage avenue at Western.

Mrs. Florence Kornatowski, 71 years old, 2425 North Campbell avenue. Died in the Lutheran Memorial hospital. She was struck Dec. 13 in front of 2503 Fullerton avenue.

Philip Coyle, 72 years old, 719 East 90th place, a retired city employé. Died this morning in the Burnside hospital of injuries received Jan. 30 when he was struck by a car driven by Oscar Benson, 52, of 6626 South Honoré street.

Victim Dies of Mystery Shot Fired Through Door

Joseph Cholewinski, 29 years old, 2920 North Hamlin avenue, died in the Bridewell hospital yesterday of a bullet wound he suffered under mysterious circumstances in his home a week ago. He told police a shot was fired through his front door as he approached it to answer a knock.

FIND OMAHA GIRL AND YOUTH DEAD FROM GAS IN CAR

Flexible Tubing Brings Fumes Into Auto.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rosemary McAuliffe Wallin, 19, socially prominent member of Omaha's younger set, and Bernard Kinney, 21, were found dead of asphyxiation in a car on the Omaha Field club grounds this morning. Both bodies were partly frozen.

The finding of the bodies was a sensation in Omaha because of the prominence of the couple. Mrs. Wallin's father, Eugene McAuliffe, is the assistant to the president of the Union Pacific railroad and president of the Union Pacific Coal company, while Kinney's father, Vincent Kinney, is editor of the Omaha Unionist, a labor paper. Both families are wealthy and socially prominent.

Separated from Husband.

Mrs. Wallin eloped last summer with Eugene B. Wallin, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wallin. A few months later the couple agreed to a temporary separation and Wallin enrolled at Iowa State college. In the meantime Mrs. Wallin reëntered a local high school.

Intimate friends of Kinney and Mrs. Wallin had no knowledge of a love affair, they said today.

Mrs. Wallin left home Friday afternoon, saying she was going to spend the night with friends. Her mother became alarmed Saturday when she learned her daughter had not spent the night with the friend, and then assumed that the daughter had gone to Ames to visit her husband.

Suicide Pact One Theory.

Police are convinced death was caused by asphyxiation, but are undecided whether it was a suicide pact or whether Kinney decided to kill himself and lured the girl to her death at the same time. Police found a tube running from the exhaust pipe through the floor board and into the compartment where the couple sat.

The last the couple was seen alive was when Kinney appeared at his place of employment Saturday evening and drew some money on his salary account. His mother said that he was home early that evening and was in excellent spirits.

The Kinney family insisted that death was accidental, that their boy had no reason to commit suicide, and that the pipe leading from the exhaust to the seating compartment had been installed as a heating device.

Eugene Wallin, the girl's husband, came home from Ames, but was unable to throw any light on his wife's action.

1,000 EPISCOPALIANS TO HEAR RYERSON AT BANQUET TONIGHT

Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, will speak tonight at the precanvention banquet of the Episcopal diosece of Chicago at the Sherman hotel. More than 1,000 members of that church from Chicago and northern Illinois will attend.

The banquet is held under the auspices of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago. John D. Allen, president of the club, will be the toastmaster. Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Chicago diocese and Miss Sallie H. Phillips, daughter of Ze Barney Phillips, former rector of Trinity Episcopal church and present chaplain of the United States senate, will also speak.

The convention of the diocese will open tomorrow morning at St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, and will continue through Wednesday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KIEL, Germany, Feb. 5.—What with repeated and increasing instances of robbery, postal authorities have prescribed training in jiu-jitsu for every mailman who has to deliver sums of money. Slides and diagrams illustrating the Japanese art of causing an opponent to use his strength to disadvantage, and intensive workouts will, it is hoped, fit the mailmen to defend themselves.

The idea is likely to be taken up by postal officials in other districts of Germany, for the need to protect deliveries of money has become pressing. Hard times have driven more and more once law abiding Germans to seek the wherewithal of life they despair of gaining in any other way.

Shocked by the growing frequency of such attacks, many newspapers and public spirited citizens have gone so far as to suggest that the postoffice cease delivery of money to individual homes. The postoffice in a recent decision held there was not yet sufficient reason for such a step.

SAY IMMIGRANT LAW DOES NOT HIT FILM STARS

Only Lesser Lights to Be Affected.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The big motion picture producers of Hollywood smiled complacently today after the first fortnight of an intensive investigation by the United States immigration bureau into the right of all foreign motion picture persons to be in the United States.

Forehanded precautions, they said, would prevent the loss of any major star.

Out of the situation, however, the United States may gain as citizens some widely celebrated persons who now owe allegiance to Sweden, Hungary, France, or other countries.

Differs from Permits.

The immigration quota system differs from the troublesome temporary permit arrangement, requiring an expression of intention to become a naturalized citizen. The principal studios do not expect to see the enforced departure of a single foreign player.

For instance, Nils Asther has from six months to a year to decide whether he will take out citizenship papers.

Elissa Landi's final decision need not be made for eighteen months or two years.

Marlene Safe.

Marlene Dietrich has a special permit which allows her to remain here for long periods without fear of immigration authorities.

Maurice Chevalier, like Miss Dietrich, travels back and forth under an arrangement which is always in perfect order.

Norma Shearer, from Canada, has started naturalization proceedings. Another Canadian, Mary Pickford, became an American through marriage. Antonio Moreno and Jean Hersholt are naturalized.

SEES PARIS RUINING YOUTH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—A wicked Paris, haunt of the idle rich, mecca of the pleasure seeker, was assailed as the destroyer of youth today by the Rev. Joseph Wilson Cochran, pastor of the American church, who directed his attack especially at the American artist colony.

"Tarnished souls are too high a price to pay for an artistic career," he said. "I am amazed at the blindness of parents who trust their children to this life unbuttressed by the sanctions and safeguards of clean, honest, Christian living."

It is not only youth that gets taken in, the Rev. Mr. Cochran observed, for church members and even Sunday school teachers are often overcome by the Paris fever.

MOLLISON TAKES OFF IN ENGLAND TO FLY TO BRAZIL

LYMPNE, England, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Capt. J. A. Mollison, noted long distance flyer, took off from here at 8:11 a. m. today [2:11 a. m. Chicago time] on a 4,800 mile flight by stages to Brazil.

Capt. Mollison hopes to cover the 4,800 miles in three and a half days in his plane, the Heart's Content, in which he made the first solo westward crossing of the North Atlantic last August.

Amy Johnson, Capt. Mollison's wife, who also is a flyer, said she was confident her husband would succeed. "I think it is a flight that is really worth doing," she said.

Hop on Long Non-Stop flight.

CRANWELL, England, Feb. 6.—[Monday.]—(AP)—In an attempt to create a new world record for a long distance non-stop flight, a Royal Air force long-range monoplane piloted by Squadron Leader O. R. Gayford and Flight Lieutenant G. E. Nicholetts took off at 7:15 a. m. [1:15 a. m. Chicago standard time] for South Africa.

CHARITY MILK IS TRADED FOR RUM; SUSPECT SEIZED

Sam Di Guardia, 834 Sedgwick street, is 53 years old and his six children are all grown up. Last night the police were trying to find out how he got an order from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission for a quart of milk a day for 30 days. Such orders are legitimately issued to families on the relief rolls which include young children. Sam was locked up yesterday on the suspicion that he had traded his order for some moonshine.

"I don't like milk," he told detectives. "I like wine and spaghetti."

Sam's milk order was found in the pocket of Leonard Balango, 21 years old, 873 Milton avenue, when a detective squad stopped him Saturday. They learned that his mother, Mrs. Mary Balango, had been locked up the previous night by Chicago avenue police on a charge of selling moonshine. Young Balango said he got the milk order from his mother.

Di Guardia also had a relief order for a ton of coal, although he lives in a rooming house. Although he has lived in the United States for 26 years he speaks little English and told detectives he had never taken out citizenship papers. He will be turned over to immigration authorities today.

1932 LYNCHINGS FEWEST KNOWN TO U. S. RECORDS

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Fewer lynchings occurred in the United States in 1932 than in any other year since records have been kept, the department of race relations of the Federal Council of Churches reported today.

The number was eight, the department said, as compared with 13 in 1931, 21 in 1930 and 10 in 1929. Two of the victims were whites and six Negroes.

NEGRO DIES FROM WOUND.

MARTIAL LAW NOT NEEDED, RUMANIA PAPERS ASSERT

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The first Sunday under martial law passed quietly throughout Rumania today. Premier Alexander Vaida-Voevod expressed gratification. He said that labor trouble in railway shops and in the Ploesti oil district would have developed to dangerous proportions over the week-end had not the government quickly moved to execute martial law.

On the other hand some newspapers protested the government's action as hasty. The lack of disorders today only emphasized that there is no need of martial law, they argued. So far the decree has been applied to Bucharest, Ploesti, Galatz, Tenesvar, Czernowitz, and the industrial districts of the Prahova valley.

Riots occurred in the Ploesti oil district last week, several hundred persons wrecking the interior of an oil refinery building. Student disorders, allegedly involving Fascists, also were said to have figured in the martial law decree.

AMERICA'S SMOOTHEST CIGARETTE

BACKWOODSMEN OF PERU TRAIN TO FIGHT COLOMBIA

Mass to Hold River Port and Corridor.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA Peru, Feb. 5.—To find a parallel to the Peruvian-Colombian controversy over the Amazonian hinterlands, the American public must turn back to events in their own history. They must recall Fort Dearborn and many blockhouses of the midwest, the Northwest territory, Texas, and the far west.

Today, except for radio and airplane, they would find conditions on the Marañon, Ucayali, Napo, Putumayo, and Caqueta rivers draining into the upper Amazon much as their great, great grandfathers found them on the Mississippi and other rivers draining both sides of the Rocky mountain watershed.

Surrounded by Dangers.

Isolated towns and settlements, isolated farms and tiny military posts dot the wilderness of eastern Peru. These frontier footholds in the Amazon basin are surrounded with the dangers and menaces of the primeval wilderness—remoteness from bases of supplies, contagion, storms, floods, wild beasts, and blood thirsty Indians.

Peru's principal river port and trading post in this wilderness is Iquitos. It was established in 1863 when the first permanent officials were assigned to this region. During the intervening 70 years, up and down the great rivers contiguous to this town and trading post, there has grown a vigorous backwoods population of 60,000 persons. They have developed an intense spirit of nationalism and patriotism, with as keen a sense of their own worth and importance and as fanatic a belief in the ultimate value of the country which they are developing as the pioneers of the American midwest and far west.

It was public sentiment in this fraction of the total population of Peru [estimated at 6,000,000] that brought about the episode of Sept. 1, when a handful of armed Peruvian civilians seized the Colombian down river port of Leticia. From the beginning, public sentiment at Iquitos and throughout eastern Peru supported the action.

Hostile to Treaty.

There had always been a dormant hostility in this section of the republic to the Peru-Colombian frontier treaty signed in 1923 and ratified in 1928. The Putumayo river laid down as the frontier by that maker of boundary treaties—the late President Leguia—was admittedly a wise compromise; such a compromise as he successfully effected in the settlement of the long standing Tacna-Arica controversy with Chile.

But the fact that during the first decade of the present century millions of dollars of "black gold"—crude rubber—had come down the Putumayo, mostly from the northern [now the Colombian] bank, made it appear to many diehard Peruvians like a wanton abandonment of one of the richest parts of the national heritage. But as the Amazon rubber industry is dead and the west coast nitrate industry, wrenched from Peru by Chile fifty years ago, seems to be in its dying throes, progressive Peruvians might well look upon the line of the Putumayo as final.

But there was a fatal flaw in the Peru-Colombian treaty—the ceding of the port of Leticia and the narrow corridor of land from the Putumayo to the Amazon. Peruvians could not see what possible use to Colombia this corridor and port may be, as the natural outlet for the Colombian Amazon territories is down the Putumayo and Caqueta rivers through Brazilian territory to the Amazon.

Dead End for Colombia.

For Colombia, Leticia was a dead end, the outlet for nothing except possibly the vague sentimentality that the Colombian flag waved over the Amazon. For Peruvians, it was like waving a red flag at a bull. Every Peruvian river launch or steamer traveling between Iquitos and the southern bank of the Putumayo, or traveling up and down river from the Brazilian ports of Manaos and Para had to stop at Leticia and give due obeisance to Colombian port formalities and the Colombian flag. Customs amenities at upriver ports, in a sweltering jungle, added to the rancor. Occupying a strategic point on high ground on the one navigable side of the river, Leticia commanded the lower Amazon, and gave Colombia the power to open or close the river as she willed.

Admittedly, Brazil owns the Amazon, but Brazilian dominance of the lower river had been geographically ordained and attested by ancient and authentic titles. Then after 1928, eastern Peruvians began to suspect that a second overlord demanding tribute was erecting a powerful barrier between their lands and the sea. The result was inevitable.

If the seizure of Leticia had not taken place last year, it must have taken place in the future. To the Iquiteños, Leticia had become a menace, a town that will displace Iquitos as the metropolis of the upper Amazon. To the call of the Iquiteños, Peruvians of 100 rivers have responded. They will form the rank and file of the Peruvian army if war breaks out. They are training now, men ranging in age from 16 to 60.

Early in the controversy, Iquitos told Lima that she did not want soldiers. She had her own battalions of men born and brought up in the wilderness. She had her tribes of thousands of Indians. She did demand arms, munitions and airplanes, and there has been a steady flow of such material eastward during the last four or five months—and with that material scores of trained officers from the west coast garrisons.

The Leticia coup took the responsible army and government authorities by surprise. Peru has had too much trouble on the west coast since the 1930 revolution to guard against troubles in the east. Gradually, however, the grievances of the Iquiteños has been diffused throughout the departments of the west coast and the majority of the national population now is inclined to support the policy of the government.

In a way, the decision of President Sanchez-Cerro of Peru to support the Iquiteños was virtually forced upon him. He had triumphed in the revolution on a wave of nationalism and on condemnation of the policies of the previous régime. Here was a decision that put his policies to the acid test. Early in the controversy, he made it known that he would support the east coast.

President's Hand Strengthened.

If the story that the Aprista opponents of Sanchez-Cerro, fleeing eastward from the debacle at Trujillo in July, created the Leticia incident to embarrass him is true, then for the time being it has turned out far otherwise than they expected. Undoubtedly the controversy with Colombia has greatly strengthened his hand in western Peru.

Lima and the west coast towns and cities have viewed developments with a notable lack of excitement and unconcern. The possible detrimental effect of war on Peruvian exchange is admittedly a serious feature of the situation, but the country as a whole is fairly evenly divided between those who profit and those who lose by a falling exchange. Otherwise the question of warfare in the wilderness is one which concerns only the inhabitants of that region, who appear to want it, and the army.

JAPAN TUNES UP WARRIORS; DATE OF DRIVE NOT SET

Conquest of Jehol May Wait Month or Two.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The process of tuning up Japan's powerful war machine for the avowed annexation of the province of Jehol to Manchukuo is proceeding steadily. Military authorities gave assurances today, however, that there is no intention to begin the drive before the end of February or early in March.

The Japanese were continuing efforts to persuade the Chinese to settle the Jehol question peaceably, but there appeared to be scant hopes of such a settlement.

An Open Secret.

Troop movements supposedly are being kept secret, but it has been impossible to conceal big Japanese concentrations at all strategic points along Jehol's eastern frontier. The Mukden-Shanhaikwan railway has been devoted exclusively to military purposes.

The Japanese have been commandeering horses and wagons in all big towns south of Mukden for the use of the army.

Asserts Right to Islands.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—The possibility of Japan's leaving the league of nations has raised the question at Geneva of Nippon's right to retain control of the Marshall and Caroline islands in the Pacific, now held under league mandates, but officials here believe that Japan's right to hold them is juridically unassailable.

Japan's rights, it is held, are derived from the treaty of Versailles, which gave effect to secret agreements made during the war regarding the allocation of former German colonies. On May 7, 1919, the executive council at Paris allocated the two island groups to Japan under article XXII. of the treaty, and it is so stated in the league's mandate to Japan. It is further held that the United States has concurred in this view by the treaty regarding the island of Yap, in which America withdrew her objections to the Japanese mandate.

Japanese officials stated that, even if Japan withdrew from the league she will administer the islands under the terms of her mandate, submit yearly reports to the league and observe all the conditions stipulated in the league covenant. The Washington treaty forbids fortification of the islands, and that condition is observed.

League Presidency to Japan.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Feb. 5.—The presidency of the league of nations council, now held by Italy, will, by the established system of alphabetical rotation, pass in May to Japan, unless in the meantime she quits the league because of condemnation of her which the committee of nineteen will continue to draft tomorrow.

That means that during a period which is expected to make heavy demands everywhere on the prestige of this institution for maintaining peace, two of its highest posts will be held by nationals of an offending member. Mineitciro Adatchi, a Japanese, already is president of the world court.

Yosuke Matsuoka, Japan's chief delegate here, today sent Tokio portions of the statement that the committee of nineteen is working on. It was believed the committee might recommend that league members not assist Munchukuo in the event of a definite break between Japan and China.

POLICEMAN ADMITS KILLING HIS WIFE AND SISTER-IN-LAW

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Breaking an 18 hour silence, Patrolman Webster Clark tonight was quoted by officers as confessing the slaying of his wife and sister-in-law Saturday night and blaming it on a domestic quarrel caused by "too many in-laws."

The 35 year old patrolman, whose 10 year record with the Detroit police department includes 22 citations for bravery, was arrested last midnight after his wife Bertha, 34, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Louise Kinder, 32, had been found shot to death in the Clark home.

Bishop Freeman Pleads for Church Co-Operation

Bishop James E. Freeman of the National cathedral, Washington, D. C., last night told the members of the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, that any human institution "that tries to live unto itself" is doomed to extinction. He declared this to be particularly true of narrower denominationalism in churches. Federation, Bishop Freeman said, is the new demand. This, he added does not require uniformity in methods of worship or of words used in the expression of faith. "All Christian churches are working for the same purpose," said Bishop Freeman. "That purpose is the salvation of mankind. In such a conception there is no place for bigotry or intolerance."

AGUINALDO HITS FREEDOM BILL FOR PHILIPPINES

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, who led the Philippine insurrection against the United States in 1899-'01, today attacked provisions of the Hawes-Cutting independence bill in a speech before the annual convention of the Veterans of the Philippine Insurrection.

The convention, attended by about 4,000 delegates, adopted Aguinaldo's suggestion that the veterans refrain from taking a stand on the measure in its present form until the return from Washington, D. C., of the Philippine independence mission.

Words Awaited by Leaders.

Aguinaldo's address was his first expression on the independence act. It had been waited by insular legislators with interest because of the standing of the insurrection leader, who headed the Philippine revolutionary republic.

"The bill as it is did not come of any campaign on our part," he said. "nor was it requested by any of our countrymen. It was an outcome, since 1930, of efforts of moneyed American and Cuban interests in sugar and other industries, assisted by hundreds of thousands of American laborers who have been clamoring for it.

"The only thing that appeals to me in the whole bill is the grant of independence."

Asks More Liberal Bill.

Adding that he believed the incoming congress would frame a more satisfactory and liberal independence bill, he said:

"To my mind, the duty of our people is to amend the bill or ask a better measure from the Democrats, who are committed to independence without unnecessary delay."

He concluded by citing objections against the bill raised at a massmeeting here last December. These included the lack of tariff autonomy, immigration restriction and retention of American military bases in the islands.

Northern Ireland Railroad Calls Complete Shutdown

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Great Northern railway tonight announced the virtual closing down of the system. Railway workers in Ulster have been on strike almost a week in protest against a wage cut. Notices tomorrow will terminate the services of all railway clerks, salaried officials and lower paid workers of the line, all of whom have remained loyal to the company during the strike.

KILLED ON WAY TO SEE FAMILY.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 5.—Driving from Washington, D. C., where he recently obtained a job as a cab driver, to visit his family in Atlantic City, Harry Bressler, 38, was killed today when his cab collided with a bus in Norwood, a suburb.

IN CHICAGO TRIBUNE* WANT AD RATES

*DAILY AND SUNDAY

NO OTHER newspaper has ever been able to get results for advertisers like the Tribune. And now Tribune results cost less than ever.

The new Daily and Sunday Tribune want ad rates put all advertisers—homeowner, housewife, business man—in a position where they can run larger ads . . . and more of them. They can advertise more aggressively . . . more frequently . . . more successfully.

Every successful advertiser knows that the more you tell, the more you sell. The more completely you tell your story, the better readers can picture it . . . the more they will want to investigate it. Now you can tell in full the details of your offer—and use the full power of Tribune circulation.

When you advertise in the Tribune you reach able-to-buy families—far more in Chicago and suburbs alone than you can reach through any other Chicago newspaper. You reach families who have confidence in the Tribune's advertising columns, who respond immediately to offers that appeal to them and serve their needs.

It is common knowledge that the only want ad medium that really gets results for advertisers is the Tribune. This is illustrated by the fact that every year for more than twenty years the Tribune has carried more want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper. Such continuous, dominant leadership means only one thing—superior results for Tribune advertisers.

Take advantage of the new low Tribune rates. Place your story before the hundreds of thousands of Tribune readers. Word your offer interestingly . . . forcefully. And order it to run in tomorrow's Tribune—the want ad medium that gets results for advertisers.

If your name is in the phone book you can charge your Tribune want ad.

Phone Superior 0100-Want Ad-Viser

Or, if you prefer, a Tribune man will call and give you the full details of the new rates, how you can take maximum advantage of them.

RUSSIAN GIRL SPY SPIED ON; SEIZED TO STOP 'SQUEAL'

Cheka Agent Is Victim of Poetic Justice.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Marie Elianoff alias Marie Graff, the blonde young cheka agent who, it is strongly suspected, was the bait with which Gen Alexander Paul Koutiepoff, white Russian leader, was lured to his doom three years ago, is now the victim of poetic retribution.

From Berne, Switzerland, comes news that the soviet G. P. U., fearing she was about to tell about the Koutiepoff case, has had her kidnaped and removed to Russia. For several weeks at the expense of the soviet embassy in Berlin, she had been confined in a clinic at Kreuzlingen, Switzerland, as insane. But the clinic is said to have been unwilling to keep her, considering her sane. So last December the notorious G. P. U. agent, Rosenmann, aided by three hard fisted subordinates, came to remove her.

Screams and Kicks.

Kicking and screaming she was dragged through the streets to the railway station. Bystanders and police refrained from interfering when it was explained that she was insane. She disappeared in the custody of the four cheka agents and it is believed certain that she is now in Russia being dealt with for her threatened disloyalty.

When Rosenmann appeared at the Kreuzlingen clinic Marie Elianoff screamed in fright and begged, "Don't let him take me away."

The Swiss police, caught off their guard by the sudden and brazen action of the four G. P. U. agents, are working hard on the case, but with apparently little chance of accomplishing anything except a diplomatic exchange.

Liberte, nationalist Paris daily, tells a vividly dramatic story of Marie Elianoff's relations to the Koutiepoff case and the circumstances leading up to her own kidnaping.

Liberte Tells Story.

Marie Elianoff was the wife of the soviet agent, Barmine, says Liberte, which continues:

"She was gravely suspected of being the 'blonde woman' who served as bait to draw Koutiepoff into a trap. Sought by the French police, she was conjured away under a false name into a clinic in France. Then, one fine day, it was learned that the 'blonde woman' and her husband had crossed the frontier by means of a diplomatic passport.

"This young woman—she is 26 today—who became an accomplice in the Koutiepoff crime, is today, exactly three years after the kidnaping of Koutiepoff, the victim of poetic justice, victim of her shady masters.

Sent to Milan.

"When in 1931 Marie Elianoff-Graff and Barmine had to flee, the judicial investigation became so severe that Moscow decided to send them to Milan. Barmine began to astonish the Milan folk with the pomp of his entertaining.

"But the human element interfered with the progress of their work for Moscow. Barmine, at one of the parties, met a beautiful aristocrat and fell in love with her. He reflected that through her he would be in better position than ever to learn the secrets of industrial and political Italy.

"Marie Elianoff, too, proved human. She became jealous and, when her husband showed no signs of giving up his new friend, she threatened to reveal what had been his rôle in the Koutiepoff affair.

"Moscow, which maintains spies on its spies, kept tabs on the new development and grew worried about this jealous hatred. It recalled Barmine, then sent him to Brussels. But Marie Elianoff, fearing the G. P. U., refused to return to Russia. Moscow grew more worried as to what this jilted and irritable woman might do or say. On orders of the soviet embassy in Berlin, center of bolshevist espionage in western Europe, she was shut up in the Swiss clinic."

AWARDED MEDAL FOR CURING INSANITY BY THE AID OF CHEMISTRY

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The William H. Nicholls medal of the New York section of the American Chemical society for 1933 has been awarded to Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, professor of physical chemistry at Cornell university, for his work on the application of colloid chemistry to physiological problems, particularly insanity. Dr. Bancroft has advanced scientific proof that dementia and drug addiction are curable chemically.

The medal will be presented to Dr. Bancroft at a meeting of the New York section at the Grand Central palace March 10.

General conclusions reached by Dr. Bancroft are that a coagulation of brain and nerve protein occurs in some forms of insanity, while in others protein dispersion takes place. In maniac depression and epilepsy a slight coagulation of protein takes place in either all or a part of the brain, Dr. Bancroft says. He, therefore, concludes that a chemical agent which has the opposite effect on proteins should effect a cure.

Dr. Bancroft's researches have indicated that the use of sodium rhodanate may cure narcotic addiction and that it may also be employed eventually as a treatment for hay fever.

PEACEMAKER SHOT IN ARM.

Ralph Lund 21 years old, 3057 Seminary avenue, a chauffeur, was shot in the arm early yesterday in a flat at 3619 North Halsted street when he interfered in a quarrel between Mrs. Violet Battilo, 24 years old, 3622 Broadway, and her husband, John. Battilo was arrested.

DEMAND SCHOOLS USE ALL ROOMS BEFORE BUILDING

Citizens' Committee Looks Into Junior Highs.

The citizens' committee on public expenditures, in a formal statement issued yesterday, set forth that "school authorities can hardly expect the taxpayers to pay for additional buildings to relieve crowded senior high schools until the type of educational system is adjusted to a more complete utilization of the existing building facilities." The committee found 329 vacant rooms in all elementary schools of the city in a recent survey.

The statement was made public by John O. Rees, director of the citizens' committee, in connection with the vacant room situation in the south shore community surrounding Hirsch Junior High school, 7740 Ingleside avenue. Parents have demanded that Hirsch be converted into a senior high.

Junior Highs Under Scrutiny.

The junior high schools, which have been built on an elaborate scale during the last ten years, have come under scrutiny during the depression as a specialized type of education. It is stated that these schools have drained seventh and eighth grade pupils from the elementary schools and aggravated the problem of wasted room space.

Another factor that has caused vacant rooms, according to experts, is 68,220 grade school seats—roughly equivalent to 1,500 classrooms—have been added to the system from 1924 to 1930, inclusive, although elementary school population remained stationary.

35 Vacant Rooms Near Hirsch.

In the elementary schools feeding into the Hirsch Junior High school there are 35 vacant rooms, according to the citizens' committee analysis.

The South Shore Parents' association, of which Mrs. Ray Gibson is president, has asked that Hirsch be made a senior high. Under a program formulated by Supt. William J. Bogan to utilize vacant rooms, the children, all of whom have gone through eight grades of elementary instruction, would be handled in ninth grade branches at the Burnside and Avalon Park grade schools.

The statement called attention to the superintendent's plan of withholding ninth grade pupils in the locality, then outlined the working possibilities of converting Hirsch into a senior high school.

Compare Two Proposals.

"The alternative plan," declared the citizens' committee, "would be to keep all seventh and eighth grade pupils in the seven schools [Dixon, Ruggles, Park Manor, Cornell, Revere, Revere branch and Avalon Park, where the vacant rooms exist] and to convert the Hirsch Junior High school into a complete senior high school unit.

"In the first semester there were 1,427 seventh and eighth grade pupils in the Hirsch Junior High school. The conversion of the Hirsch to a senior high school could operate to relieve the crowded neighboring high schools by at least 1,000 more than the relief under the branch school plan."

P. B. PALMER JR., BROKER, IS FOUND DEAD BY HANGING

Percival B. Palmer Jr., 52 years old, a broker, formerly in the wholesale cloak and suit business, was found dead by hanging last evening in the basement of his home at 1235 East 50th street. Hyde Park police said the evidence indicated he had ended his own life.

The body was found by his sons, John, 15 years old, and Percival, 19, who notified their mother, Mrs. Geraldine Higbie Palmer. She called Dr. Vance Rawson, 5137 University avenue, who pronounced Mr. Palmer dead. Later Attorney Harold F. White, 4947 Kimbark avenue, a family friend, was called.

Mr. Palmer had been ill recently, police were told. During the day his wife and children attended a musical at the Three Arts club, 1300 North Dearborn street. He refused to go with them. It was on their return that Mr. Palmer's body was found.

Mr. Palmer was connected with the brokerage house of Smith, Graham & Rockwell, 141 West Jackson boulevard. He had formerly been vice president of the Percival B. Palmer company, cloak manufacturers, which his father Percival B. Palmer, headed. The company is no longer in business. The elder Mr. Palmer lives at 5492 South Shore drive.

Dr. Charles N. Lunde, 74, Is Found Dead in His Flat

Dr. Charles N. Lunde, 74 years old, a retired physician, was found dead yesterday in the kitchen of his flat at 1205 West Chicago avenue. Death apparently was caused by a heart attack. He had lived in the neighborhood for many years and was widely known.

EXPECT TO SEIZE 20 TODAY AFTER FARM BATTLE

Sioux City, Ia., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Authorities marked time today in their investigation of the Union county, South Dakota, milk strike gun battle last Friday, but indicated developments would be forthcoming tomorrow.

R. D. Markell, milk importer, who was seriously wounded in the clash with pickets northwest of Sioux City, was reported slightly better tonight.

Union county officials announced that warrants for more than a score of persons who are alleged to have taken part in the gun battle probably would be served tomorrow.

Nile Cochran, Moville, Ia., farmer, who was arrested shortly after the shooting, was held in the Woodbury county jail in default of $3,000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Steps are being taken to extradite him to South Dakota.

ILLUSION:

EXPLANATION:
The assorted rabbits, babies, carrots, cabbages, ribbons and other magical "props" are not created by magic. The tub has a false bottom that is conveniently displaced, and numberless wonderful things spring to life in the magician's nimble fingers. They do literally "spring" because they are made to compress into very little space at the bottom of the tub, taking their natural shape as the magician lifts them out.

It's fun to be fooled— ...it's more fun to KNOW

Tricks are legitimate on the stage but not in business. Here's one that has been used in cigarette advertising...the illusion that blending is everything in a cigarette.

EXPLANATION: Blending is important...but it makes a lot of difference what is blended.

Inferior, raw tobaccos can be blended to cover up their humble origin. But your taste soon detects the trick.

The proper use of blending is to bring out the full "round" flavor of mild, high-grade tobaccos. It's the costliness of the tobaccos, as well as the blending, that counts.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent by others in the attempt to discover just how Camels are blended. The blend is important.

Light up a Camel. Relax, while the delicate blue smoke floats about you. Enjoy to the full the pleasure that comes from costlier tobaccos.

"The newspaper is an institut... developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SPOILS OF WAR.

Japan has an admirable virtue, by no means its sole virtue, but one which frequently claims the warmest admiration. Japan is so frequently the most outspoken member of the vestry. So often it utters the plain truth to horrify the other members, whose understanding is that when they foregather it must be in stained glass attitudes.

When Japan speaks of withdrawing from the league, that involves consideration of the Pacific islands which it took under mandate after the war, in which it played so eminently sensible a part. The authority for the mandate is the league, and membership in the league would seem to be a prerequisite for any advantages obtained from it. But not so. The outspoken member of the vestry puts the matter in its plain light. These possessions, formerly held by Germany and now divided between Japan, north of the equator, and the British dominions, south of it, are spoils of war. That interesting personage known in the international news as Japan's unofficial spokesman so describes the islands.

The little shiver that runs over the benign countenances of the members of the vestry can be seen. "Spoils of war" precisely describes what the allied powers divided among themselves after they had won. There was nothing new to be found in such a division. It represented what the victor has generally expected to gain and what the loser has expected to lose. Inasmuch, however, as benediction was pronounced on the process by sanctimonious assemblage with an altruistic façade, some new terms were found. They were mandates and sanctions and various other blessed names, calculated to indicate that the new possessor was putting himself to considerable pains, even if he were not out of pocket, by taking something away from his defeated opponent.

In older days, when Great Britain took, for instance, Canada from the French, the bells were rung because there was a triumph of arms and diplomacy. The same was true when the British flag went on Gibraltar to stay, when West Indian islands left Spanish or French ownership, when the world encircling drum beat rolled around the circle of fortifications which protected British trade routes. This was true of every acquisition of territory by any conquering nation. First the sound of the gun, then the sound of the bells, and nobody pretended that it was anything but profitable conquest and enhanced national glory.

This was in the old days. Now nothing is said of spoils of war. When Germany was stripped of its colonial possessions the dispossessors pulled a long and solemn face. The light which fell upon these countenances came through the stained glass windows. The entry was made on the liability side of the ledger. Although Germany regarded the loss of its possessions as a great national misfortune, the new possessors have insisted that it was nothing but a loss to acquire them. They have been wished out of all debt calculations since then. It does not matter that oil should be found in some of them and gold in others.

Japan calls them what they are, spoils of war, and we'll let it go at that, with some feeling of gratitude toward the nation realistic enough to use a little common honesty in its statements.

BEING DONE GOOD.

Joseph W. Latimer, a Peoria lawyer who is interested in the fate of the American Indian at the hands of his Uncle Sam and has written a book about it, contributes some illuminating facts to current discussion.

In our country, as we know, these wards have been repeatedly in danger of losing their property in spite of the elaborate system of control which Senator King says has cost the government three-quarters of a billion of dollars and he asserts that "under the policy of our government and the Indian bureau one hundred thousand Indians have been completely disinherited and are now landless and propertyless. The rest in all the allotted areas are doomed to the same end if the present policy is not changed."

The explanation is that the Indian has been made the victim of politicians who have represented selfish interests greedy for Indian land and other property rights and of officials who when they are not in league with these exploiters have exhibited the usual characteristics of bureaucrats—that is, in the main, the appetite for power.

As a recent result of the latter, in spite of the urgent need for retrenchment in federal expenditures, the bureau's employés have been increased from 6,000 in 1928 to 8,200 in 1933, the salaries increased 24.8 per cent, the expenses and transportation costs of the bureau 33.7 per cent. In 1930 the appropriation, averaging $15,000,000 for many years, was jumped to $20,000,000, and in 1931 to $27,000,000. Congressional inquiry, says Mr. Latimer, has now developed that in the three fiscal years of 1930-'32 appropriations were over $75,000,000 and that in addition the bureau has "dipped into" Indian funds for $12,750,000.

But the most illuminating fact cited by Mr. Latimer is that 46.9 per cent of the bureau's expenditures in 1930-'31 were consumed not for the Indians but for the salaries, wages, and expenses of the bureau employés. And it is not surprising that in the estimates for 1933 this percentage goes up to 52.4 per cent.

We think congress had better address itself without delay to the abolition of this outrageous graft. That it should thrive during these years of bitter struggle throughout the nation is a blazing illustration of what bureaucracy means. Its waste and incompetence are almost the measure of its power. There has been no issue in American history more vital to the welfare of the nation than the arrest and drastic reduction of bureaucratic expansion and public expenditure.

UNCLE SAM AS BURDEN CARRIER.

Great Britain is going ahead with a naval construction program which, it is said, will be pushed to the maximum treaty allowance. The United States will probably abandon any purpose it ever may have had of building up to its treaty privileges. There is no sign that bureaucratic folly is to stop in Washington, but it is quite certain that at least the necessities of national defense, including navy replacements, will drop out of the budget. Navy officers will see their capital ships declassed and their submarines and destroyers demoted, although navy yards will continue to flourish.

It is not assumed that every time a German buys a glass of beer he is spending a nickel he ought to pay on his debts, or that the money an Englishman pays for a cruiser could in that currency be planked down in Washington on his international obligations. It is nevertheless true that Americans cannot afford in their own currency the naval expenditures which the British debtor includes in his national budget. Our individual purchasing power, destroyed as it has been and further impaired as it will be beginning March 15, cannot stand the pressure of taxes already imposed, and yet it is, apparently, if the foreign debtors have their way, to be saddled with the obligations contracted by foreign governments.

Great Britain runs a budget which we cannot afford. It has left the United States to maintain the gold standard while it takes advantage of a depreciated currency in competing for world trade. It calls this a managed currency and refuses to assume any responsibility for the maintenance of the gold standard in the settlement of international balances. The United States supports the system by which nations clear their balances in international trade. It maintains the fixed price of gold and Great Britain has not suggested what substitute there would be for this if America discarded the obligations inherent in the maintenance.

Not only is it proposed that the remaining liquidation of the war shall be thrown into the American private budget, but it is proposed that the United States, which did not get a foot of new territory out of the war, shall carry the standard of sound money, at whatever cost to itself, and shall be unable to take the precautions needed by its future security, precautions foremost in the thought of the nations which owe for their last war and now think only of their next.

THE SENATE DISCOVERS A CRITIC.

Mr. David S. Barry, sergeant at arms, as yet, of the United States senate, seems to have taken a large swig of that most dangerous of intoxicants, printer's ink. The ordinary man frequently is much safer if left alone with a bottle of whisky and a glass than he is if he finds himself at his leisure with a bottle of ink and a pen. An injudicious hour with the former can be slept off, with the probable consequences of only a headache. But the senate, having read what Mr. Barry wrote for Al Smith's New Outlook, probably will tell Mr. Barry to take his bottle of ink to the bank and see what he can raise on it to tide him over the loss of his position.

Mr. Barry is a naïve experimenter in the field of criticism. He thought he could use one of the oldest tricks of the trade, which is to drop vitriol into a dish of honey and thereby make the victim like it. Thus Mr. Barry thought his statement that there were some crooks and grafters in the senate could be made palatable to his own employers, the members of this same senate, because he said that there were not nearly as many crooks as the general public thought there were.

It's a good rhetorical device, but it will go further with a jury in a libel suit than it will with a board of directors looking up in astonishment at a gentleman on their own pay roll. However, Mr. Barry may already be entertaining offers from publishers and movie companies. March 4 would have seen a new name on his office door, anyway and there may, indeed, be something in the bank waiting for him.

Editorial of the Day

STATIC UNEMPLOYMENT.
[Peoria Transcript.]

Miss Lea Taylor, Chicago social worker and president of the National Federation of Settlements, declared in an address in Peoria the other night that the unemployment problem is at least six years old. Settlement houses began to feel the onrush of the jobless back in 1926 and 1927, she said.

Even before that shrewd economists were calling attention to the tremendous number of men who were idle in the United States. Some of these might have classified as casual laborers, but there were others who found it impossible to get work. Technological unemployment was blamed, and rightly. Failure to make psychological adjustments was blamed, and wisely. But in the days of great prosperity the four or five millions who were generally out of work were cared for by efficient and generously supported charitable organizations.

None can gainsay the necessity for this charity, but it is manifest that the nation did comparatively little in those days to remedy a condition that might easily have become an acute problem. Charity was necessary and the nation was rich, so it was generously supported. This merely scratched the surface, however, in the search for causes, and while social workers, as Miss Taylor pointed out, were beginning to anticipate a serious situation, they were too busy to make any progress in solving the problem.

This, then, may be accepted as one of the challenges of the depression. The unemployment problem will not be solved if we put half the men out of work back on pay rolls. It will only mean the end of an acute situation. Conditions of unemployment will persist until something is done to remedy the situation that prevailed in the days of prosperity.

Static unemployment is dangerous.

THE WOODCHOPPER OF DOORN, through one of his aids, wants it definitely understood he will not return, no matter how flattering an invitation, as an honored guest to Germany, but only as emperor, his old job. Mr. Hohenzollern is right. He reminds us of Fra Elbertus, who, when asked his rates for a lecture, said: "Two hundred dollars if I go to a hotel and pay my own bill, but two hundred and fifty if I'm a guest." If William is a guest of Germany he knows very well he'll have to make a fuss over the children in the house where he is entertained, sleep in a cold room, go to meals when he doesn't want to, tell his hostess how beautiful she is in spite of the fact that she's fat and squints, say how wonderful the food is when the coffee is cold and made out of chicory, the chicken tough, and the eggs four years old.

AND, BESIDES THAT, William knows that after he finishes his visit and goes back to Doorn he'll be writing for two months begging for the return of his pajama pants, a pair of felt slippers, and the toothbrush with a green handle. Mr. Hohenzollern has been a guest at week-end parties too many times not to know all the disadvantages. But if he goes back as emperor, ah, that's different again! Emperor is a paying job, and if anybody mislays his pajamas, his slippers, or his toothbrush he can have 'em put against the wall and shot, and serve 'em right. Besides, William knows very well that if he goes to Germany as a guest the hostess will always be saying to him, "Now, you do just as you please; this is Liberty Hall," and William feels he just couldn't stand it again.

EXPERIENCE.

I play games,
Oh, very well!
I can kiss
And never tell.

I forget
When it is wise,
I can say things
With my eyes.

If I ever
Step on glass . . .
All scars heal . . .
I let it pass.

From experience
I have learned
How to play
And not get burned.

Love can't injure
Unless you
Believe a promise
To be true!

THAT PLAN to have "Twelve Survivors of the Wilson Cabinet" in the inaugural parade is a good one, but it should be followed up. There should be included in the procession "Twelve Survivors of the Noble Experiment"; "Twelve Survivors of Rugged Individualism"; "Twelve Survivors of the Farm Board"; Twelve Survivors of Administration Commissions," and "Twelve Surviving Farmers." And there should be a great big float in the very middle of the parade carrying the "Twelve Surviving Taxpayers." It's a grand idea if it only develops.

ALL THE FUSS in the papers about V. Sackville-West and the books she's written and not a word about the best of them all. Well, we'll tell you then; we're no party to keeping it a secret. It's "Seducers in Ecuador," and we know it's the best, although we never read anything else she ever wrote and aren't going to. You can't do a second "Seducers in Ecuador." Max Beerbohm never did a second "Zuleika Dobson," did he? Haldane McFall never did a second "Woolngs of Jezebel Pettifer," did he? (And not that we would hint, but we wish whoever has our "Woolngs of Jezebel Pettifer" would bring it back; we can't buy another copy, times being what they are.) But as we were saying, V. Sackville-West never did another "Seducers in Ecuador": quod erat demonstrandum, or, as we say nowadays, we're telling you.

THERE'S A CLUB out in Kingston, New Mexico, that ought to do much for the country if it would establish branch lodges all over the land. It's the "Spit and Whittle Club" and its motto is: "Always whittle away from you and never spit against the wind." Ah, if our statesmen, financiers, investors, big Butter 'n' Egg Men, movie magnates, and we the people generally would only join that club and live up to the motto, what a different world it would be.

A MAN IN CLEVELAND who is 106 years old says he owes his longevity to a secret elixir compounded from roots, herbs and barks which he declares has been handed down for generations in his family. We wish we could find out the secret of the elixir our bootlegger brings around. It probably has roots, herbs and barks in it, too, but there is also a decided suggestion of hair oil, gasoline, red pepper, bay rum and tanning fluid. We doubt it will enable us to live to 106, but, of course, we can't tell yet.

But ich note mit Apprehension
Von a Brainchange gibt's kei Mention.

WINTER VACATIONS PAY.

THERE are three groups of well people who can be expected to profit from winter vacations. The first group are the old people, beginning at about age 65. This includes both the senile and the senescent—those who have accomplished old age and those who are on the way.

Osler has called pneumonia the old man's friend, because this disease cases so many old people out of life. Most of us are willing to avoid that kind of friend or to at least postpone an introduction as long as possible.

Elderly persons need more sunlight and open air life in winter and early spring than they can get in comfort in cold climates. Housing in artificially heated houses is the cause of several kinds of discomfort to which their age makes them subject. As a matter of safety against pneumonia and bronchitis, and also as a matter of comfort, they benefit from winter vacations.

Growing children need sunlight and open air as a protection against rickets. When they spend the cold season in a climate where they can spend much time outdoors they are able to acquire an education with fewer disease hazards and with less danger of crooked legs and pigeon breasts than is the case when they sip from the fountain of learning in schoolrooms that must be artificially heated, aired, and lighted. Probably some school child will rise to inquire how we figure any schooling to be a vacation.

Grown people in full vigor need winter vacations of another kind. They profit most from outings taken in the snow and on the ice. In Europe winter sports in the Alps are justly renowned. In this country winter sports in certain parts of Canada, in the Adirondacks, and in a few other regions attract large numbers of people. Those who go to Colorado, Wisconsin, and the New England mountains to participate in winter sports should equal the number who go to these resort states for a summer vacation. Skating and sailing an ice boat on an inland lake should have devotees ranking in number with swimmers and sailors.

There is a place in the scheme of things for week-end winter vacations corresponding to the summer week-end trips. There should be a day or thereabouts each week-end spent out of doors on the ice and in the snow.

MENINGITIS.

Mrs. A. S. writes:

1. Would like to find out about the epidemic form of spinal meningitis.
2. Would it be dangerous to use things that a person who died from it handled?
3. Should the house be fumigated?

REPLY.

1. Epidemic meningitis is spread by persons rather than by objects. It is most prevalent in cold, damp days in March. Therefore climate, season, and weather are factors. The microbe is located in the nose of the carrier and it enters the body of the prospective patient by way of the nose. The determining factors of an epidemic in addition to climate, season, and weather are: Proportion of carriers to total population, proportion of convalescent carriers to total carriers, and crowding.
2. No, or almost no.
3. No.

GLAND TUBERCULOSIS.

L. B. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of tuberculosis of the glands?
2. Is pus in the glands the same as tuberculosis?
3. Is mucus colitis the first stage of tuberculosis?
4. What makes a person with tuberculosis of the glands get so large and gain in weight?

REPLY.

1. Swelling of the glands, soreness, pain, sometimes fever and anemia. The old name for this was scrofula.
2. No. Tuberculosis is only one cause of suppuration of glands.
3. No. No relation.
4. Probably because he overeats to put on weight.

DEPENDS ON INFECTION.

J. C. writes: Is it possible for a nail to cause a fatal septicemia poison?

REPLY.

It is.

If the nail is infected and it perforates the skin, it acts as a hypodermic. The bacteria carried under the skin may be the ordinary pus cocci, whereupon either septicemia or a boil might result. If the microbes are held locally a boil would ensue. If they get into the blood stream pyemia or septicemia would result. If the microbe entering were the tetanus bacillus, lockjaw would follow.

These are possibilities. The probabilities are otherwise.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

NAME AND ADDRESS ESSENTIAL.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—I have taken your paper for the last thirty-two years, and in that time I have asked your department three questions to which I received no reply. I see that the only one that can get a reply is some foreigner about citizenship.

L. B. G.

It appears that you have been misled by the manner in which questions and answers addressed to the Friend of the People are printed. The full name or address of the writer is not shown, but at the top of the column it is plainly stated that all questions must be signed with the name and address of the writer. Several thousand questions are addressed to this department each month and it is possible to print only a small fraction of the problems submitted. For this reason the names and address are requested in order that we may have the option of mailing replies direct to the inquirer. Your letter contained neither name nor address, merely the initials "L. B. G."

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE.

ARREST WARRANT.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A swears out a warrant for B for disorderly conduct. C is a witness. If A does not appear in court (1) can C still make a complaint on the same warrant? 2. How long is such a warrant legal? 3. Can another be sworn out after the first is void? W. J. G.

1. Yes.
2. After the defendant has been arrested the case could be continued indefinitely.
3. Yes

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DIVORCE NECESSARY.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am separated from my wife since 1926. We were living in Philadelphia at the time we separated and I haven't heard or seen her since. Would it be breaking the law for me to marry again? I have lived here since 1926.

J. M.

You should not marry without securing a divorce, if that is what you mean to ask.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 6, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—War between the United States and Germany is not many hours distant if official advices tomorrow confirm the British admiralty report of the killing of an American seaman of the crew of the Eavestone by a German submarine. Although the Eavestone is understood to have been a British merchantman, carrying war supplies to the allies, the circumstances aggravate the offense. The American and the captain of the torpedoed merchantman were killed by shells fired by the submarine upon the lifeboats in which the survivors were pulling away from the sinking vessel. The receipt of this report aroused great excitement among administration officials who are awaiting the "overt act" which President Wilson informed congress would cause him to ask authority to employ the power of the nation to protect Americans in the submarine war zones.

Preparations for possible hostilities were the chief features of the day's developments in the capital. The President accentuated this phase of the situation when he unexpectedly left the White House without attendance, crossed the street to the state, war, and navy departments building, and called first on Secretary of the Navy Daniels and then on Secretary of War Baker. On his way to the building the President met Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile millionaire, who informed Mr. Wilson that he supports him in his attitude toward Germany, and that if war comes he will place his factory at the disposal of the government for the manufacture of munitions at cost.

BERLIN.—According to information obtained in official quarters there is no prospect of any modification of the orders to submarines. "We are fighting for our existence and there is no going back for us." This was one of the unequivocal statements made by Foreign Secretary Zimmerman. "President Wilson's decision has surprised and disappointed us," he continued. "After the rejection of our peace offer there remained no other step for us in defense of our existence than unlimited submarine war. The United States failed to help us in our struggle against the entente's violation of international law. We made no unconditional promise that we would give up unlimited submarine warfare, and therefore we have not broken any promise." American Ambassador Gerard called on Dr. Zimmerman yesterday to ask for his passports pursuant to instructions received from his government.

MANILA.—The naval authorities seized the seventeen German merchant vessels anchored in Manila bay. All the German crews were removed.

CHICAGO.—Natives of Germany and Austria outnumbered, twenty to one, all other nationalities in a record breaking rush to file applications for American citizenship papers yesterday. Out of the 202 applicants who appeared in the state Superior and District courts and the United States District court, 200 were Germans and Austrians. Declaration of intention to become American citizens subjects the applicants to liability for duty in the United States army. In the navy only fully naturalized citizens are accepted.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE'S front page cartoon in yesterday's issue depicting Uncle Sam laying his hand on the shoulder of President Wilson, and saying, "Steady, old man!" inspired a telegram pledging to the President sympathy and support by the ministers of the Chicago presbytery at their meeting. The motion was made by the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, professor in McCormick Theological seminary, who said: "I was inspired to draw up this resolution by the cartoon in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE portraying our President's strain."

NUT HOUSE LEGISLATORS.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Your editorial of this morning, "Nut House Legislation," constitutes a base libel on the inmates of our insane asylums. Such persons are understood to have some lucid intervals and are not always "off" on all subjects and attitudes. However, it can be conceded that the insane asylums do not incarcerate all those who might properly be incarcerated. President Theodore Roosevelt once referred to this non-incarcerated group as "out patients of bedlam." Possibly since this utterance this group of bedlamites have been organized and the result is our present congress.

As might be expected from "nut house legislation," these crop loans will probably prove a boomerang to "the congressmen in rural districts" when the time comes for demanding repayment of these loans in accordance with whatever contract may be made. This situation has already developed in some sections, on the basis of previous loans when attempt to collect was made, out of cash crop results to the farmers of less than cost of production, and no doubt many of the upsets in the last election may be attributed to farmers' indignation at being required to repay these loans. Therefore the national nut house may one day purge itself by its own nutty methods. There is always a day of reckoning where loans are concerned. It is to be assumed that the amounts advanced to farmers being called "loans" at some time in the future an attempt will be made to have them repaid.

W. P. COONEY.

THE UTILITY LEAGUE.

Chicago, Feb. 2. — In this morning's TRIBUNE "Mrs. N.," under the heading "Utility Rates," complains about her light and gas bills, adding "it seems to me that if the customers would get together and perhaps form some kind of organization we could get a reduction."

Mrs. N. may be glad to know that others feel the same way and that nearly a year ago the Utility Consumers and Investors' League of Illinois was organized with Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago as president. One important aim of the league is to bring about fair utility rates, particularly with reference to present conditions.

Among others active in the league are Mr. Karl Eitel of the Bismarck hotel, Mr. Harold L. Ickes, Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university, Dr. Louis L. Mann, Mayor James H. Andrews of Kewanee, and Mrs. B. F. Langworthy. Offices are at 77 West Washington street.

THE FRENCH DEBT.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Why don't you emphasize the fact that France's debts are those incurred after the war ended? That the United States has already been sucker enough to charge off—to the expense of the American taxpayer—all prior debts of the war period?

WILLIAM B. MAYOR.

WHAT A CLIMATE!

MRS. H. A. PETERS.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE OF THE MARXIAN DIALECT.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 29.—I am just stupid enough to be unable to grasp the consistency of Russian communist ideology. Take, for example, the incident on Michigan boulevard last Saturday. Like all other communist activities in America, this demonstration pivoted around civil liberties—the rights of free speech, free assembly, etc.—the validity of which official communist dogma does not permit. Certainly, soviet Russia today is the most bottled up place in the world; it allows a minimum of freedom to its subjects—it squelches immediately any protests or efforts at counter revolution—and I, for one, can see no reason why the American ruling class should not squelch these revolutionaries just as the Russian ruling class [the communist party] squelches its counter revolutionaries—throw them in jail, deport them, even kill them—in other words, give them a little of their own medicine. If the self-termed communists protest against this sort of treatment, it should be pointed out to them that the situation in capitalist America is no different from that in state socialist Russia: "Chicago Hangs Anarchists" and Kremlin does likewise. Theoretically, at least, the communists have no grounds for subversive activities, even if these activities prove to be nothing more than making faces at the police and being chastised for it.

C. H. MITCHELL.

GROCERY ORDERS.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—I should like to reply to the grocers whose complaints about the issuance of unemployment relief orders to chain grocers have been printed in your paper.

I am employed in the order department of one of these stations and know at first hand that in our station no grocery order is issued except to the grocer specified by the client. It is true in cases where an initial grocery order is being sent and the client has not yet specified a particular grocer that this order is issued on the nearest grocer so that relief, which may be badly needed, is not delayed. However, before the next order may be sent the case worker is instructed to secure from the client a signed form designating the grocer with whom he wishes to trade and none of these forms is accepted unless it bears the client's signature. If the majority of these forms return with the name of a chain grocer it is not because of partiality on the part of the relief office but because the majority of the clients have made such a selection.

This information should present a clearer picture to the independent grocers who have the erroneous impression that the relief office makes its own selection of grocers.

BERNARD W. BOTKIN.

A CRAB COULD EXPLAIN IT.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—I would be very much obliged to you if you would let me know which is the correct way of saying the following: "I went back and forth" or "I went forth and back." To me the latter seems correct. My reason for this is if, for instance, you stand by a wall it is impossible to go back without first going forth to make room to retreat, unless serious injuries be inflicted to a person's most outstanding point, his nose.

UNEASY IN MINE ZONE IN ILLINOIS AS TRUCE ENDS

Trouble Feared Today as Horner Parley Fails.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Uneasiness gripped the Illinois coal fields tonight on the eve of the termination of the truce between warring union factions.

Fears were expressed by county authorities that tomorrow would bring new outbreaks of violence such as had characterized the seven months long controversy and had taken five lives.

Efforts by Gov. Henry Horner to settle difficulties between the United Mine Workers union and the newly organized Progressive Miners union failed yesterday. For four weeks their representatives in conference here, listened to suggestions from their own numbers and from the governor.

The failure of the peace parley, the governor said, was due to reluctance of either side to make concessions. The governor expressed disappointment in a statement after the final conference last night and asserted that all the power of the state would be used to prevent further bloodshed. He promised, however, that peaceful picketing would be upheld.

Troops to Be Continued.

Claude Pearcy, president of the Progressives, indicated that while no general order would be given to resume picketing, it was likely pickets again would invade operating fields.

"Except in Christian county," Pearcy said, "all cessation of picketing was voluntary and it is assumed that with the ending of negotiations, picketing will resume."

As to Christian county—storm center of the controversy—Gov. Horner was definite.

"Lieut. Col. Robert D. Davis, of the 130th infantry, will continue in command of troops in Christian county," he said, "and will be given additional men if he needs them."

Worried at Taylorville.

Taylorville, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—With the truce in the mine war in Christian county called off, plans were being made here tonight to start picketing the Peabody mines by the Progressive Miners' union. It is said the pickets will assemble at the mines early, carrying banners, in an effort to discourage the men now working in the mines under the United Mine Workers' contract of $5 per day. Officers commanding the troops detachment here said that their action would depend upon that of the pickets. It is thought the troops will not interfere with the pickets as long as the latter remain "peaceful." Many persons fear the ending of the governor's truce means a resumption of the warring.

CONGRESS PAYS TRIBUTE TODAY TO COOLIDGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Memorial services for former President Calvin Coolidge are to be held tomorrow in the house of representatives with President Hoover and Chief Justice Hughes heading a long list of dignitaries who will be in attendance.

The services will be conducted before a special joint session of both houses of congress, beginning at noon.

The President will be accompanied by members of his cabinet and the chief justice by the associate justices of the Supreme court. Ambassadors, ministers, and chargé d'affaires will represent the foreign governments having representation at Washington.

Also present will be Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff; the chief of naval operations, the commandant of the marine corps, and the commandant of the coast guard.

Vice President Curtis will preside and the memorial address will be delivered by Chief Justice Arthur Prentice Rugg of the Supreme Judicial court of Massachusetts.

HOLD RITES FOR 213 SOLDIERS WHO DIED ON TUSCANIA

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker was the principal speaker yesterday at memorial services for 213 American soldiers who lost their lives 15 years ago when a German submarine sank the troopship Tuscania. The services, under auspices of the Tuscania Survivors' association, were held in Thorne hall, McKinlock campus of Northwestern university.

"Only those who have been through what you men have been through can have the vision of what war means," said Gen. Parker.

Dr. George H. Thomas, St. Paul's church; Dr. Charles Fox of South Shore temple, and the Rev. George T. McCarthy of St. Margaret Mary's church, were other speakers.

Following the services members of the association, accompanied by a firing squad and color guard, dropped a wreath in Lake Michigan in honor of their dead comrades. The memorial services were held in connection with the annual reunion of the association at the Great Northern hotel.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Spooner of River Forest Dead at 84

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Spooner of River Forest, widow of William Spooner, who was for many years engaged in the farm mortgage investment business on La Salle street, died yesterday. She was 84 years old. For nearly half a century Mrs. Spooner was an active worker in the affairs of the First Congregational church, Oak Park. Funeral services will be held from the church at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Forest Home cemetery. Mrs. Spooner is survived by two daughters and two sons.

Wins Happy Relief From Sick Stomach

"For eight or nine years I would have headaches, sour stomach, bloat up with gas after I would eat. I couldn't sleep for gas and gnawing pains in my stomach. Now I can say since using Udga Tablets the bloating has left. I don't have headaches or coated tongue or bad breath, or don't seem to have those pains in my stomach and I can sleep nights." Udga Tablets, a doctor's prescription have a world wide record of success in the treatment of gas pains, excess acid, belching, bloating, pains after eating, sour stomach, constipation, heartburn, poor digestion, dyspepsia, gastritis, and other conditions caused by hyperacidity or faulty diet.

Why suffer when you can try this safe and harmless treatment without risk? Get a $1.00 package of Udga Tablets today. Use the entire box and then if you are not positive that they have done more for your sick stomach than anything you ever used return the empty box and get your money back. Ask your druggist for Udga today and see what a real treatment can do for your sick stomach.

FACIAL PARALYSIS CURE CLAIMED BY NEW YORK DOCTOR

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—A new method of curing facial paralysis by surgery and used successfully to restore emotional expression to persons deprived of facial control—a problem which has long challenged the attention of the medical profession here and abroad—was announced today in the quarterly bulletin of the Millbank Memorial fund.

The report on the successful application of the new discovery is written by Dr. Arthur B. Duel, who developed the new method of restoring impaired muscular control in collaboration with Sir Charles Ballance, for many years surgeon in chief at St. Thomas' hospital, London.

As explained by Dr. Duel the new method of treating facial palsy consists in direct repair of the injured nerve by an autoplastic graft.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

PLAN RITES FOR ANNIE NORTHEN; IN CITY 84 YEARS

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Southwick Northen, a Chicagoan since 1848, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the chapel at 415 West 63d street. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

MRS. NORTHEN.

Mrs. Northen died Saturday in her home at 6630 Yale avenue, at the age of 92. She was the widow of John Northen, a pioneer furnace manufacturer in Chicago. She was 8 years old when her family landed in New York from England. They made the trip to Chicago by water, proceeding up the Hudson river and Erie canal to Buffalo, and from there to Chicago aboard a lake schooner.

The family lived at Cass and Michigan streets, now Wabash and Austin avenues, and Mrs. Northen recalled that in her girlhood she often talked to Indians who called at the nearby home of John Kinzie, Indian agent in Chicago, to collect their "land money."

Six children, nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren survive her. The children are Thomas E., Frederick J., William S. and Olive M. Northen Albert H. Gere.

ADDISON MIZNER DIES; FAMOUS AS ARCHITECT

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Addison Mizner, famous architect and designer, died tonight at his Palm Beach villa. He had been in failing health for some time.

In 1925 as president of the Mizner Development corporation he attracted widespread attention in connection with a gigantic project to set up a fashionable resort at Boca Raton, Fla., 26 miles south of Palm Beach.

In March, 1927, bankruptcy proceedings were instituted against the corporation. Several civil actions were also filed against the development concern. In one of these the assertion was made that real estate sales for the project aggregated $9,000,000.

Mizner was born in Benecia, Cal., the son of a forty-niner. He was the brother of Wilson Mizner, playwright.

JOHN D. CALDWELL, C. & N. W. RAILWAY EXECUTIVE, DEAD

John Davis Caldwell, vice president and secretary of the Chicago and North Western railroad, died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 130 East avenue south, Oak Park. Mr. Caldwell, who was 69 years old, had been ill for two months.

He entered the railroad business as a telegrapher in 1880, and this year would have celebrated his fiftieth anniversary of his service with the North Western railroad. He was for many years secretary to the president of the railroad, and in 1909 was made secretary of the company. He became a vice president and director in 1928.

His widow, Mrs. Susan Cook Caldwell, and three children, Louis G. and Edward C. Caldwell, and Mrs. Benjamin L. Dall, survive. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the First Congregational church, Oak Park. Burial will be in Tecumseh, Mich.

P. E. CALLAGHAN, COAL MERCHANT, IS DEAD AT 55

Patrick E. Callaghan, 55 years old, former Republican member of the legislature from the Fourth district, Catholic leader and coal company president, died yesterday at his home at 7722 South Sangamon street.

Born in Ireland, Mr. Callaghan was brought to Chicago when he was 8 years old. He started in the coal business in 1903, and in 1915 organized the Callaghan Coal and Material company, 8531 South Halsted street. He also was a former director of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association.

Surviving are his widow, Margaret, and three children. Services will be held Wednesday morning at St. Leo's church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet.

A Few Things Poets Laureate Think About

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

John Masefield, poet laureate of England, was trying to master the intricacies of a hotel radiator so that the lady who was shivering after an eight mile drive could thaw out enough to interview him.

"Please don't bother, but do please tell me, now that you are poet laureate, do you have to write an ode every time a member of the royal family is born or dies or has an anniversary?"

"Not for 160 years have the poets laureate been so afflicted. For one thing I simply couldn't do it, and the only recent one of them that I know of who could was Tennyson. But for another, there was a petition that the custom be discontinued. You see, it wasn't to the king or queen that the poet laureate had to read his anniversary ode, but to the royal household, the ladies in waiting, the equerries, the chamberlains, the entire royal staff. It is said that 160 years ago the household simply revolted and demanded that their ears be spared."

"Supposing America were tomorrow to have a poet laureate, whom would you appoint, if you were the royal gentleman who did the appointing?"

"Well, you have five at least to choose from, Edwin Arlington Robinson, is Edgar Lee Masters still alive? . . . Well, then Edgar Lee Masters, two young men, Stephen Vincent Benet and Archibald MacLeish and, of course, Robert Frost."

"And of the five?"

But the poet laureate of England never got any more specific about his brother across the sea because at that moment another reporter, male and more interested in the facts than the fancies of life, said: "Mr. Masefield, have you been in a modern speakeasy, and if you have, how did it compare with the saloon you used to work in when you were a young man in New York?"

"Only once in my life, when I was in New York in 1926," he answered without shifting gears at all—he is a model interviewee—"and then I was taken through a valeting sort of shop, up some stairs and into a room much like any other room where there was one occupant who said that he was a United States attorney and asked my journalist friend and me what we wanted. My friend said he'd like a drink of rye—I took nothing because I am a teetotaler—whereupon the district attorney, which is the only name I knew him by—got up and got the drink."

"Were you always a teetotaler?"

"O, no. But I stopped drinking as I stopped tobacco because it was bad for me, and I have been much better since I stopped. But alcohol is not a bad thing, in itself. It is only too much alcohol that is bad."

"Do you remember the old saloon as bad?"

"Not at all. There was sometimes some one who drank too much, or spent what he should have taken home, but it was a cheery place, and now you have nowhere in America where men can meet so informally, have you?"

The conversation was getting a little over my alcohol content and I interposed, "For whatever reason, Mr. Masefield, you have lost years with the pounds you have gained since the last time I saw you, in 1918, and I hope that you have seen as dramatic an improvement in Chicago since then."

"As I remember, there was much wood. Now everything is brick and stone. And there were no towers then, nor that splendid lake front drive, and I do not remember this at all," as he indicated the view from the window of his hotel.

"It was only waves lapping the shore then."

"Is it really all reclaimed land? What a wonderful city. . . . And your World's Fair. It must be the largest fair ever held in the world. Do you remember the last World's Fair that was held in Chicago?" he asked of the other reporter.

And since, like the speakeasy situation in Chicago, that was reclaimed land to me, something which I was as unable to remember as Mr. Masefield the park in front of the Shoreland hotel. I left the gentlemen to their reminiscences of the "good old days."

Mr. Masefield's only public appearance in Chicago will be at Orchestra hall on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock when for the first time in history a poet laureate of England will give a public reading from his works in Chicago.

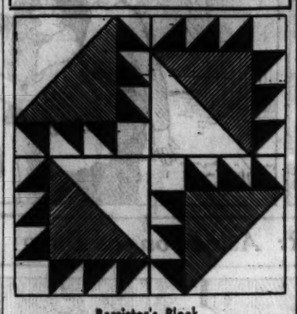
Its Name Dates This Quilt Back to Colonial Times



Barrister's Block.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Barrister," a distinctly British term, dates the "Barrister's Block" quilt pattern unquestionably in early colonial times. Most authorities credit Connecticut as the home state. The pattern is known also as "Lawyer's Puzzle" and "Lawyer's Tangle."

Early examples of quilts modeled from this pattern were pieced in unbleached muslin and turkey red. Nowadays it probably would be done in quieter colors unless the added warmth and color contributed by flaming hues are desirable in your scheme of interior decoration.

For a pattern of the "Barrister's Block" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Chicago Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Good Morning!

Something different? You've been waiting for something different? Well, you have it in "The Past of Mary Holmes." A mother who hates her son! Is THAT something new?

Do you remember a silent picture called "The Goose Woman," in which Louise Dresser once starred. Maybe yes, maybe no—it doesn't matter. If you saw it you'll be keen to view the talking version, and if you DIDN'T, you've a real treat and surprise in store for you. Right off the reel, I must say that I cared more for Miss Dresser's performance than I do for that of Helen MacKellar [heralded as the screen's "new empress of emotions"], but don't let my preference disturb you, for the latter gives a mighty fine portrayal—one that gets under your skin and stays there.

While "The Past of Mary Holmes" isn't exactly a mystery story, there are angles to it which must not be revealed by a tattletale of a critic to a prospective witness. Mary Holmes, the slatternly, drunken outcast who raises geese for a living, and has her abode in a filthy, tumbledown shack on the edge of town, was not always known as "The Goose Woman." No, indeed! And when murder and her only son's extremity brings to light her real identity—why, that's front page stuff!

But this isn't all of the surprise. The mental gymnastics which result in the woman's frenzied revelation of her past provide stretches of absorbing interest to any one in the least intrigued by psychiatry.

A tragic story! A bitingly human, entirely believable story—exceptionally well acted, staged, and directed throughout.

It is very nice to be a critic when there are movies like this one on tap.

Fifteenth Century Book Displayed at Newberry Library

At the Newberry library, booklovers have an opportunity of examining a loan exhibit of nearly 800 books printed by Aldus Manutius and his successors during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Aldus in 1501 introduced the first Italic type, using it for the printing of small pocket editions of Latin authors. A number of the volumes in the current exhibit which will continue to March 18, are in this type.

The collection, which is the property of Gustav Fock of Leipzig, Germany, is remarkable in that it includes approximately nine-tenths of the editions printed at the Aldine press. Most of them bear on their title page or elsewhere the famous printer's mark, a dolphin and an anchor, which symbolizes the accompanying Latin motto, "Festina lente" [Make haste slowly]. Authorities declare there probably is no other collection of Aldine books as complete as this one.

New Methods Will Abolish Eye Wrinkles

Give Welcome Relief After Bout with Wind.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Do you belong to the class A squinters . . . those busy shoppers who sort of grope their way about the town with just half their eyes open? . . . do you dread going about in the wind because of the tell-tale eye wrinkles that you find when you return to home base? Do you know the slick new way of buffeting Chicago's eccentric winds and weather any and every day of the week without harvesting a network of tiny and disagreeable lines around your optics? If you do know about herbal eye-pads you know the most comforting and efficient squint destroyer.

You can buy them in boxes, by the half-dozen and dozen collections . . . they are skillfully fashioned to completely cover the eye and a bit of the surrounding area . . . you dip them in warm water for a minute, place them over your eyes, sink your weary frame in the depths of a lounging chair and stay there for at least twenty minutes. The amazing results will stun even the most skeptical soul.

Another eye-wrinkle eradicator comes in lotion form, a pale amber liquid to rub in the tender tissues around the eyes . . . this, you use before you venture out in the wind and just before you go to sleep. With these two eye aids, wind and weather need no longer keep you indoors.

Other alluring eye accents are the new iridescent eye-shadow pastes . . . the fascinating evening accents or shades that are flecked with either silver or gold. You will find blue, green or gray and a lovely shade of blue green . . . intriguing new shades that will subtly flatter whatever skin they touch.

There is a new powder called peach-bloom, that is as delectably perfect as it is named, a powder that is used for every type of complexion with equally exquisite effect. This complexion powder is the newest creation sponsored by a world famous cosmetician.

Have you seen the new flaming red-poppy lipsticks imprisoned in a one finger container? . . . a flashing red and black enamel container that you can put in play with the push of a single finger. It's a gorgeous new red, with powder or paste rouge to match. The lipstick is as thin as a scarlet shadow, the trick cover slides into place snugly over the lipstick, thus preventing any of the indelible red of the lip salve to smear the lining of your handbag.

The wafer thin scarlet enamel boxes that hold a good supply of poppy-red paste rouge are undoubtedly the thinnest things you can buy, while the powder rouge compacts in this bright new tint can be packed in the tightest corner of your bag without bulging. If you are weary of dull tints, if you like a vivid new shade that fairly sings of youth and freshness, you will be delighted with this new color.

If you would have a touch of springtime glamour . . . glorify your cheeks, highlight your eyes, and accent your lips with these good looking beauty aids, simple and sure accents that every careful shopper should possess.

Chief of Fair for Italy Will Arrive Today

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

This morning Prince Ludovico Spada Veralli di Potenziani, the Italian nobleman who has governed Rome and fought a duel in defense of his administration, comes to Chicago to assume his charge as one of two commissioners for Italy at A Century of Progress.

Due to arrive at 9 o'clock at the La Salle street station, a committee of World's Fair officials and prominent Chicago Italians will be on hand to meet him. Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress; Mayor Cermak, and the Italian consul, Giuseppe Castruccio, will head the delegation. Immediately he will be taken to the Drake hotel where he will make his residence during his month's stay.

Prince Potenziani, whom society will fête at a round of parties during the next four weeks, is coming to Chicago with the plans of several of his countrymen for the Italian building at the World's Fair. He will confer with four architects at the exposition and remain long enough, officials expect, to let the contracts and see the ground broken for the Italian pavilion.

Later in the spring it is expected that the second commissioner appointed by Premier Mussolini, Baron Alessandro Sardi, will visit Chicago to carry forward the plans made by Prince Potenziani.

A noted sportsman and an unknown quantity in politics, he was named governor of Rome early in 1927 by the council of ministers. Fascism was his only interest in a political way. When the doctrine first came into being he became one of its proponents. In 1928 he resigned his post as governor in accordance with the Fascist custom of holding office for only a short term.

At the time of his retirement, however, Prince Lancellotti was alleged to have remarked that the replacement was due to graft in the administration. And it was over this that the two noblemen fought a duel in the garden of an old Roman villa outside Rome.

All of Roman society was agog over the encounter and even more agog when it was learned that Count di Sambuy, a devoted friend of Potenziani, had fought two duels previously in his defense.

Prince Potenziani is in reality a Pole whose father married into an Italian family. He was later adopted by an Italian relative and took a peincely title in consequence.

Wild West Parties Are Popular

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Keefe of Glencoe were two of the "Wild Westerners" at the "Days of '49" party at the Skokie Country club. The party was such a success that it has been decided to have two such special parties a month during the rest of the winter. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Iturbi Gives 2 Recitals on One Program

Special Example of Good Piano Playing.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Apparently Jose Iturbi played better the longer he went in his piano recital at Orchestra hall yesterday. At first sight his program looked highly specialized, not to say severe, consisting, as it did, of four sonatas and nothing else. But while there was a good deal of highly specialized playing there was nothing severe about it.

The first two sonatas, one by Mozart in D major and Beethoven's so-called "Moonlight," were missed by this reviewer because of another event at the same hour. Orchestra hall was reached just in time for the beginning of Schumann's G minor, a work with a disquieting suggestion of Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" in its first movement, which was played with a considerable deal more of imagination and fervor than most pianists are inclined to give it. And the final work, Ravel's Sonatina, was an extra special example of what good piano playing should be. No one has ever made it sound lovelier.

Some time when Mr. Iturbi wants to put on a program to gladden the soul he should select one of Ravel, Debussy and Chopin. It ought to be worth going miles to hear, because he is the person who can make it so. As it was he gave almost an extra recital of added numbers, a Chopin mazurka and etude, Schubert's Impromptu in A flat, Liszt's "Gnomenreigen" among them, and there were more.

Serge Oukrainsky, absent from Chicago for several seasons, returned with his ballet company to the Bal Tabarin in the Hotel Sherman yesterday afternoon, and incidentally presented an uncommonly interesting item in staging. By some device of lighting and lenses, one dancer became a group of dancers on a screen.

Diana Huebert was the one so treated during a visit to the program. Suddenly, a little larger than life size, but in the colors of life, there were eight Diana Hueberts visible, all in line and moving as one. It was a bit uncanny, but it was also decorative to a high degree. Miss Huebert is a good dancer and multiplied eight times she was about eight times better. Necessarily the effects were of two dimensions. Depth did not get into the picture. At the same time the idea ought to have enormous possibilities.

Elsewhere in the program there were dances tending toward the oriental. Mr. Oukrainsky, moved to the unusual for his own presentation, was loudly applauded in a piece called "The Death of a Lunatic," which was striking, though it could hardly be winsome.

The Singing Boys of Vienna, heard here earlier this season, were again at Orchestra hall on Saturday night. They are a well trained chorus who sing their songs with much effect and present an operetta equally well. In this program the operetta was Haydn's "The Apothecary."

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

POISONOUS DEATH.

Prof. Fordney knew that the single space on the shelf of the poison section in Jensen's Wholesale Drug company hadn't long been empty; dust outlined the corners of the clean spot distinctly. Bottles of various sizes, shapes, and colors, each containing poison, lined the shelves. Inspector Kelley was dispersing fellow employés who had gathered near.

Jensen explained to Fordney that he and Dorothy Hayden, assistant pharmacist, had just completed some experiments when he told her of his approaching marriage. She seemed shocked at the news, he said, and burst into hysterics. [Every one knew she loved Jensen.] Thinking it best to leave her alone, he started toward the door when she suddenly grabbed the poison from the shelf and drank it. The opaque bottle, about two inches in diameter, which lay on the floor beside the girl, was properly labeled as a deadly poison. Jensen pointed out that she had selected the quickest acting drug in the room.

Bob Law, who had been in love with Dorothy for years, hearing her groans had rushed to her assistance. She was dead in a few moments. He had remained there in a bewildered and hysterical state.

As Prof. Fordney reached for a drinking glass on the table, Law tried to assist him and in doing so knocked the glass to the floor. Muttering apologies, he hurriedly brushed the shattered pieces together and was about to dispose of them when the professor said, "I'll take charge of that, son. I greatly doubt Mr. Jensen's account of the tragedy!"

Massmeeting Opens Founder's Week at Moody Bible School

Moody Bible institute will be the meeting place of hundreds of missionaries and religious workers from points far and near until Thursday night as the 27th annual founder's week is observed. The observance began yesterday afternoon when President James M. Gray of the institute opened the sessions at a great massmeeting in the assembly hall. He announced that today is devoted to the Moody alumni association.

Among the missionaries and workers taking part in the week's activities are Dr. William Evans of Los Angeles; Dr. William Lamb of Sydney, Australia, and Dr. John Kuizenga, professor of apologetics at Princeton Theological seminary.

At the massmeeting yesterday, presided over by Dr. Gray, Chicago clergymen as well as missionaries to foreign parts addressed the crowd that overflowed the assembly hall. Moody has shown the greatest growth in its history during the last two years.

Tuesday Night Club.

Dr. Fairley Farnsworth MacNair, professor of far eastern history at the University of Chicago, will address the Tuesday Night club of the Church of the Redeemer, 56th street and Blackstone avenue, at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening

Wings Will Learn Today if They Must Leave Homemade Home

Highland Park Garage They Fixed Up One of the Most Attractive on North Shore.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY is a very important day in the lives of the young John B. Wings of Highland Park, for they expect to know by tonight whether Mr. Wing's business is going to necessitate their moving to Texas very soon or whether they can stay on in the attractive little home they have just finished fixing up. They were married early in October and after a trip to Bermuda they came home and immediately got busy making over a garage on Dale avenue in the north shore town into what is now one of the most attractive of the "we-did-it-ourselves" homes of the newly marrieds.

The former Jane Martin has always had artistic taste and nimble fingers and she used both to full advantage on the garage. Her husband helped, too, of course, and between them, with the aid of a plumber who paints as well as "plumbs," they have transformed what was an unattractive building into a most enchanting house with a white pillared colonnade entrance. The bridegroom is particularly proud of the bathroom, for he papered that by himself one Saturday afternoon!

The downstairs windows look out over a wild and deep ravine. Squirrels make faces and chatter for food as they perch on branches outside the window near the breakfast table. The comfortable living room—but not for more than eight—is done in blue and white. Upstairs is a green sitting room with a couch that unfolds into twin beds or a double bed for guests, and the bedroom is all in white with a crimson line around the wall, door panelings, bedspreads and curtains.

To leave all this so soon after finishing it would seem to be too much to bear, wouldn't it, but the young Wings are philosophical about it and if they do have to move away they are sure they will find another old garage that they can "fix up," and think what a "find" some other young couple will have in the one in Highland Park! Mrs. Wing is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Martin of Highland Park, and Mr. Wing is the son of Luman B. Wing of Evanston.

Exchange Will Hold Florida Sales.

Miss Helen Gurley and Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson left yesterday morning to motor to Palm Beach, where they will meet the Johnsons' cruiser, on which they will live during their southern vacation. They plan to cruise up and down the Florida coast, and perhaps even as far as Cuba or the Bahamas. They surely will be anchored off Palm Beach, however, on Feb. 13, 14, 15, and 16, for on those four days the Chicago Woman's exchange, of which Miss Gurley was president last year and which is her pet philanthropy, will hold its annual sale, and Miss Gurley and Mrs. Johnson are planning to help Mrs. Nora Crane sell the lovely new things she is taking south with her this winter.

The sale is to be held in the residence of Mrs. William Waller Jr., who isn't going south herself until later in the season, but she is letting Mrs. Crane open the house for the sale.

On the way to Palm Beach Mrs. Crane and the trunks will stop off at Ormond Beach for a sale on Thursday and Friday of this week at the residence of Mrs. E. M. Speer of Englewood, N. J., who is interested in the exchange because she is a great friend of Miss Gurley.

From Palm Beach the exquisite things for which the exchange is noted all over the country [sales are held at the eastern resorts in the summer and at the southern and western ones in the winter, so the wares are scattered all over these United States] will be taken to Miami Beach, to be displayed on Feb. 20 and 21 at the residence of Mrs. James H. Hammond of Pittsburgh, who numbers among her friends many of the Chicago women who winter at Miami and who work for the exchange at home.

Aiken will be the last stop at which Mrs. Crane will unpack and repack the trunks, and the sale there will be on March 1 and 2 at "The Pillars," Mrs. George H. Mead's estate. Mrs. Mead is from Dayton, but she, too,

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town and sends Bart help and taxies home. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived on the island fifteen years, but don't mix. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, died suddenly from a heart attack. Bart is left with the care of his invalid mother. The family lawyer gives Bart a letter left for him by his father, in which he confesses to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly Island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his mother's sake, to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. He returns two weeks later with the legacy. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. He spends a week-end at the island.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

TAUNTING HAPPINESS.

Whatever life has done to this woman, Bart thought, she hasn't let it contort her into another shape. She is Evelyn Bayley, mother of children, maker of a home. Her spirit seems to enter everybody around her, make them happier. Dad must have found in her——

Then the world flooded Bart's mind with light. Release! Release from a routine of love which his faithful wife in Wyattville had imposed upon him. Release from a well groomed monotony which is often worse than active unhappiness. Release from the long evenings with a semi-invalid lady and her endless talk about neighbors and family connections. Poor mother, she had almost died when Bart was born. She had never fully recovered her health. It was not so much her physique; she lacked the stamina to settle anything, except by the rote of a small family code.

Poor mother!

Was this disloyalty to her? In a momentary burst of light Bart didn't consider that. For suddenly he was forgiving his father. Sitting in a corner, as Trevor Burgess must have sat often, smoking a black pipe, as he had smoked, Bart became an unprejudiced judge of the dead. He saw the early years of Trevor Burgess. Office, home. Office, golf club. Office, home, office, home. Then an island and a lovely woman—a refugee from fate. She, the island, the life, were nothing like anything he had known before. Large, generous, sweet, this Evelyn could be strong, too. Out of the rock she had hewn a home for him, yet lost none of the grace of her mind and body. Here he could step at will into another world and find Evelyn. Was the Trevor Burgess of Wyattville only a shadow? Was it the real man who came here and found delight? Perhaps.

Poor mother! Yes, and poor dad! An unreasoning tenderness came over Bart's spirit, and a grateful calm. Because he had found a way of forgiving his father.

The girl who had already sunk so deeply into Bart's thoughts and emotions was prettily at work clearing the table. The boys were noisy with pots and pans in the kitchen galley. Mrs. Bayley had rolled back her sleeves again and was preparing to wash dishes. "O, you must smoke your pipe in peace, Mr. Burgess," she insisted. "The picture's never complete unless a man's hanging around with a pipe——"

Her words trailed away, and she knew that she, too, was thinking of the man called Bayley, who had sat in this very chair, night after night, his eyes and his pipe glowing over his charming flock.

"I wish you'd call me Bart," he said impulsively. Then, because his face was shyly flushed, "and please let me wash dishes."

"No, Bart," she decided, "I want you and Alice to go out and get some air. There isn't room for all of us in here, and I never let anybody else wash my china."

The boys, however, stayed inside while Bart and Alice wandered out to the foredeck. Half aware that Mrs. Bayley had managed them into this, he stood beside the girl under the striped canopy; in the stillness he thought he could hear the beating of her heart. Out there over the channel was purple black night, holding many colors. Orion with his diamond belt swam in the west; the milky way arched above them; and where a cluster of dredging scows had been ugly in sunlight, now they sparked with electric lamps, a carnival of Venice.

He scarcely knew what they were saying, talking against time with little excited laughs. A soft light from the window fell on Alice's wistful face. He realized how beautiful it was, being out here with her.

"There'll be a moon tonight," she rambled on. "I think it's in poor taste to have a moon on a night like this. But it won't be up till eleven."

"Little girls should be abed before then."

"Why do you always speak of me as a little girl?"

"What's this rush to be grown up? Some day you'll be sorry."

"No, I won't."

He was standing so close to her that he could feel her body glowing into his. All other wishes were swallowed up in one great wish, but, he talked inanely on, as if to defend himself against his own treachery. Sticking to astronomy, he told her how he had first seen the southern cross over the Red sea. That was back in 1922 when he and his mother had taken a trip around the world.

"I did my great traveling that year, too," she said. "I was seven, and Daddy took me to New York. Daddy bought me clothes, and we went to big, ugly palaces where they have movies. O, and that beautiful French confectioner's on Fifth avenue. . . . That was a lovely year for us. Daddy was with us all so much."

A cold wind struck between them, out of the warm night; she had brought back a ghost. And suddenly Bart knew why his father had so stubbornly insisted on that world tour. But now he was stubborn as his father, urging Alice Bayley to be gone a long time, seeing China, Japan, Ceylon.

"Gardy!" A tinkle out of the dark.

"What do you mean, Gardy?" He had drawn close to her again, leaning against the rail.

"It sounds better than guardian," she mocked, but her voice had the same restraint as his. "I suppose a guardian holds a sort of mortgage on a girl, doesn't he? And what would Gardy do about it, if I should go to Siam and never come back?"

"Probably'd go and get you."

"Would you?" A light question, deeply spoken.

"I think so." Her face was close to his, her eyes had caught the brightness of the stars. His reason was slipping away, but clumsily he managed to blurt, "I shouldn't go anywhere for you. I shouldn't be here——"

"Why not?" Like a sigh.

Softly he put his arm around her waist. She made no movement to release it, but bent back a little, looking up at him.

"What a divine night!"

Bart sprang away, turned and saw Mrs. Bayley standing at a corner of the cabin. She was gazing at the stars.

A Barrymore Etching Gets Place in Book

'Boat Yard in Venice' Will Be Published.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 5.—One of Lionel Barrymore's etchings, called "Boat Yard in Venice," has been chosen for "100 prints of the year," a book put out annually by a New York society of etchers.

One motion picture job has been the making of Franchot Tone, recent arrival from the New York stage. In case you are not familiar with the New York stage, it is best explained that Franchot is a man's name, and that he played lead with Joan Crawford in her just completed "Today We Live," at MGM.

The previews were so satisfactory that the studio determined that Franchot has already "clicked." He now is cast opposite Jean Harlow in "Bombshell," story of Hollywood.

Doctors are still treating Ruth Chatterton for snowblindness. She was one of a large group snowed in by a sudden blizzard at Lake Arrowhead last week and compelled to stay in her cabin for three days until rescuers on snow shoes got her and her husband, George Brent, out. She will be unable to start work on "Lilly Turner" at Warner-First National studio, as scheduled, tomorrow.

Fay Webb, Rudy Vallee's wife, is visiting her dad, Police Chief Clarence Webb of Santa Monica again, while Rudy fills engagements in the east, but it doesn't mean another break in their domesticity at all. "Our reconciliation took better than a vaccination," she said. "I'll be joining Rudy again in a few weeks."

If mechanical difficulties can be overcome Paramount will introduce a novel feature in the Peggy Joyce film "International House," by having an autogiro land on the roof of a hotel, and discharge a passenger who hops in a midget automobile, which runs into the hotel elevator, drives out of the elevator at the proper floor and drives him to his room and in through the opened door of the room, to park underneath the hotel bed when not in use.

Elissa Landi says it is odd that although she is technically a British subject, being married to an Englishman, John Lawrence, but wholly Austrian blood, she should have to apply for an immigration quota number into this country from Italy, in which country she was born. Her mother, Countess Zenardi Landi, also Austrian, has to apply for a quota number through France, because she was born in Paris, in order to stay here.

Dorothy Layton, Wampas baby star, is signed by Paramount to support Sylvia Sidney and George Raft in "Pick Up," based on Vina Delmar's story.

Lionel Barrymore and Lew Stone, two of Hollywood's most genteel gentlemen actors, will give a ritzy, masculine American 50-50 per cent to the principal cast in MGM's department story, "Service," which will be featured by two English actresses, Benita Hume and Elisabeth Allen in other main rôles.

Esther Ralston will return to Hollywood this week, with her year and a half old daughter and her husband, George Webb—Esther is talking business with movie companies here, after her hit in England, notably in "Rome Express."

Miss Delmar says she has decided to reside in Hollywood permanently. She goes to New York to wind up her affairs there and close her eastern home this week.

After having debated different names for four months, changing title of the film several times, the Radio-RKO studio is going to string with the author, Gilbert Frankau and permit his story to reach the public as "Christopher Strong." Colin Clive and Katherine Hepburn have just finished filming it, with Dorothy Arzner as director, but it was called "The Great Desire," then.

THE STAGE

The Ziegfeld production of "Show Boat," with Helen Morgan as its star, now forms the animate portion of the bill of entertainment at the Chicago theater. When a musical show undertakes a career among the cinema palaces it is usually called a "tabloid," but in this case that description does not apply. The famous folk-opera, which is rapidly becoming a popular classic, has not been put through a drastic process of condensation for use as an adjunct to the dramas of the screen. Without an intermission the performance runs for an hour and a half, and only a few incidental scenes are missing.

Miss Morgan's company remains unchanged, with William Kent as Cap'n Andy, Margret Adams as Magnolia, Paul Keast as the romantic gambler, Harold Dixon as the dancing mummer, Peggy Cornell as the soubrette, and Robert Rains as the Old Man River singer. This engagement represents the most ambitious stride that cinema theater policy has taken to date in the direction of the "legitimate" stage. The night performance begins about 9:25.

"The Desert Song," revived by the Chicago Operetta company, will have its first performance in the Civic Opera house tonight. The stage settings will be composed of scenery from nine operas in the Civic repertory. The mountain home of the Riffs will be depicted by Alpine views borrowed from "Carmen," "Trovatore," and "Dinorah." Other scenes have been adapted from the settings of "Cohchita," "Camille," "Tales of Hoffman," "Lorenzaccio," "Don Quichotte," and "Manon Lescaut."

The company now playing "Blossom Time" at the Grand Opera House will prove its versatility by offering a revival of "The Student Prince" next Sunday night for a brief engagement. Allan Jones, the Baron von Schober of "Blossom Time," will have the title rôle. Gertrude Lang, now appearing as Mitzi, will change her name to Kathie and remain a heroine. J. Charles Gilbert, now singing the rôle of Franz Schubert, will be cast as the old tutor of the crown prince.

Walker Whiteside is negotiating for an engagement in one of Chicago's many empty theaters. He has a new play, discovered after reading one hundred and fifty manuscripts, which arouses his hopes for a run. This time, however, he will not appear as a sinister oriental superman with a grudge against the white race. The locale of the piece is a small town in Connecticut, and its classification is domestic drama. C. C.

DON'T SCOLD IF CHILDREN CATCH COLD

The boy or girl who catches cold sometimes gets a good scolding, not always deserved. Perhaps such children are over-tired, run down, and underweight. Build up their resistance against colds with Father John's Medicine and they can face the rigors of the season with confidence because it builds sturdy bodies, supplies vitamin strength and is free from drugs.

Miss Paula Wilms is to hear a lecture on "Love," especially arranged for her and to be given by Georges Cauuet at a party the juniors of the Alliance Française are giving for their retiring chairman on Tuesday, Feb. 21. Mrs. Moise Dreyfus and her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Rosenthal, will open their residence at 3330 Sheridan road for the party, which will be a "depression shower" so called because the juniors will shower the bride-to-be with the best possible gifts for the least money. Miss Wilms is to become the bride of the British vice counsul, Malcolm Henderson, on Feb. 23.

Luncheon for Mrs. Owen Aldis.

"We hope she'll get here in time," said Mrs. Graham Aldis in speaking of the luncheon she is to give next Sunday for Mrs. Owen F. Aldis, who is coming from Paris for a two months' visit in this country. Mrs. Aldis, the aunt of Graham Aldis, is due to land in New York on Friday.

The Aldises party is to be small, with the Chauncey Blairs, the James Herbert Mitchells, and Russell Tyson among their guests.

The visitor won't be their house guest for, as young Mrs. Aldis says, "there just isn't room." After ten days here Mrs. Owen Aldis will go down to Winter Park, Fla., for several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis and Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, who was Helen Aldis.

Bishop and Mrs. George Craig Stewart will entertain delegates to the 96th annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago at tea at their residence in Evanston tomorrow afternoon.

Reserve Officers Aid Army Benefit.

Mrs. Harry D. Mitchell, chairman of the committee in charge of preparations for the army relief benefit card party and dance on Washington's birthday, reports that one of the pleasant features of her work has been the hearty and enthusiastic coöperation she is receiving not only from the regular army officers and their wives but from the National Guard and organized reserve officers and their families. Among these latter who are planning dinner parties before the party are Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas S. Hammond, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Frank R. Schwengel, Col. and Mrs. Gilbert Fitz-Patrick, Col. and Mrs. T. A. Siqueland, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Delwin M. Campbell, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. George T. Jordan, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Cleveland C. MacLane, and Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Grambow Thomsen von Colditz.

A Winnetka girl whose plans for "coming out" next season are as definite as anything can be in these uncertain times is Helen Fulton, the girls' single champion tennis player in the United States and also the holder of that title in Canada.

Miss Fulton, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Fulton of Winnetka, is in her freshman year at Leland Stanford university this year—she chose that institution of learning because she could play tennis in Palo Alto all winter.

John Bordens Close Plantation.

The John Bordens have rented a house in Washington for the spring months and their plantation near Grenada, Miss., will be closed from now until next fall. The shooting season closed on Feb. 1, and although last year Mrs. Borden and the children stayed on there until summer, this year they have decided to leave it now that they cannot shoot any more and be in the national capital until summer.

Mrs. Borden is coming to Chicago for a visit later this month, and she and Mr. Borden will be with the Robert A. Gardners in Lake Forest the week-end of the 18th, and with Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins in town for a few days at the time Mrs. Borden's new book comes off the press, Feb. 21.

Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum is planning to leave about the middle of the month for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tietgens, former Chicagoans, at their plantation near Gainesville, Fla.

The William Mitchells and the Leslie Wheelers are leaving Thursday for Florida, breaking their trip by spending a few days with the Morse Elys in Thomasville, Ga. The John Pershings of New York, formerly of Lake Forest, will be with the Elys, also. The Mitchells and Wheelers will stay in Miami for awhile, and expect to be at home around the first of March.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson, who went to New York last Wednesday, are expected back today.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Fargo Jr. have moved to Winnetka and taken the F. Goddard Cheneys' house for the spring and summer. They are glad to have plenty of room to entertain the out of town friends that they have invited for the Century of Progress, among them the Richard Clarkes from New York and also Mr. and Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton of that city. Mrs. Hamilton is the former Rebecca Stickney, and has a great many friends here.

Junior League Moves Costumes.

The Junior league sent out an S O S Saturday through its secretary, Miss Elaine Blackman, for more volunteers to help move costumes. The league has just obtained a new storeroom on North Wells street, so masks and dresses and hats, scenery, and props are all going in carloads from the Drake hotel to the west side of the loop. Among the assistants Miss Blackman has already obtained are Miss Betty Ashcraft, Miss Margaret Quan, and Miss Marguerite Foster.

Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings, just back from New York, has all sorts of publicity plans for the Junior league's Enchanted Island at A Century of Progress. She made the trip last week in company with Mr. Owings for the purpose of visiting magazine publishers and selling them the idea of writing articles about the island.

Hope for Sunshine in California.

With a special order for sunshine already filed with the weather man, Mrs. Bernard A. Eckhart and Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt will leave next Thursday for six to ten weeks at the Huntington in Pasadena. "You see," Mrs. Eckhart explained yesterday, "it has been raining, literally pouring buckets, for weeks on the west coast."

Mrs. Eckhart, who spends a good portion of every winter in Pasadena, is particularly anticipating this year's vacation because it is to include a visit with her grandson, Truman W. Brophy Jr., at Palo Alto. Mr. Brophy was married to Miss Jane Condon a year ago.

Mrs. Darius Miller of Lake Forest, who had talked of making the trip with Mrs. Eckhart and Mrs. Hewitt, is already at the Huntington.

Mrs. Ernest W. Hunt of Evanston and the Andrew P. Cannings of Winnetka are westward bound. Mrs. Hunt is going to Los Angeles by way of the Grand canyon and the Cannings are on their way to Las Vegas, N. M.

News comes from Mrs. John A. Stevenson down in Chandler, Ariz., that she and the Kenesaw M. Landises are "basking in desert sunshine and mountain air." The party made the whole trip by motor.

Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery, 1344 Astor street, will open her house this morning at 10:45 o'clock for a talk by Julie R. Adams on "International Relations."

The Renaissance society of the University of Chicago is giving a tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock at which Modupe Paris will sing a group of African folk songs with drum accompaniment. The party will be in Wieboldt commons.

Equalize Meat Buying, Prices Will Be Lower

BY MARY MEADE.

No, it's not my remark. It was passed to me by a butcher who knows his cuts and has the interests of the housewives very much in the front of his mind.

"Women know round steak, chops, rolled rib roasts and leg of lamb," he assured me. "And that's the trouble. When they buy so heavily of a few cuts, one is bound to lose money on the less known and less wanted cuts. That means that prices have to go up on the few favorites to make up for it. Now, if you would only tell women——"

And we were off. We looked at charts. The butcher cut up the fore and hind quarters of a beef animal. We examined the cuts and took down tips for cooking. And as a result, while we may have known that a meat animal had all those parts, it helped to get them replanted freshly in our minds, to be brought forth the next time meal planning was on the docket.

And since we all forget, here's for a quick review to see if you are passing up any good meat prospects:

As a rule here in Chicago beef animals are cut in two between the last [13th] and the next to the last rib, and these parts are called the fore quarter and the hind quarter. That one rib is left on the hind quarter to keep it in shape. In the fore quarter we find the NECK: This is full flavored and juicy. It may be turned into a boneless roast or be used for soups, stewing, and hamburgers. There is plenty of firm muscle in the meats and little fat, so long cooking in moist heat is the way to handle it.

CHUCK: This piece of meat is really the fore shoulder of a beef animal. It lies back of the neck and above the fore shank. From it one may purchase bottom chuck pot roasts (nearer the shank), top chuck pot roasts (up in the shoulder), or what are known as chuck pot roasts and chuck rib roasts, the latter getting back into the rib region of the animal. These chuck cuts are also good in flavor but less tender than cuts from the hind quarter. Fibers run every which way and there are sections of shoulder blade, backbone and rib. On the other hand these cuts are relatively low in price and make good roasting, braising, broiling of stewing pieces.

RIBS: On the way back along the beef animal we come to the ribs. Here are the good roasts and steaks. They're juicy, flavorsome, and tender. Rib roasts, other than the chuck rib roast we already have mentioned, may be standing roasts—with several ribs left in—folded roasts with the bones removed and the tip folded over, or rolled roasts with the bones gone and the whole roast tightly bundled into a roll. A large muscle, "the eye" of the meat, and a rib bone tell you when you are meeting a rib roast. The lower tips of the ribs are cut off all the way across and sold for short ribs, delicious for braising.

PLATE AND BRISKET: These lie below the ribs and the chuck, respectively. Plate cuts are striped with lean and fat. Brisket cuts will likely have a bit of the breast bone in them. These are good pieces for stewing, braising, and corning.

FORESHANK: Here we have considerable gristle, but a piece which makes good stewing and soups.

And that takes care of the fore quarter of the beef animal. In the back we have:

ROUND: This name includes the hind shank, the round, and the rump, but the rump and shank are always separated from the round. The cuts from the round are oval in shape, have one small round bone (the hind leg bone) and one large and two small muscles. The large one—the "top of the round" is the "company piece"—the most tender part. The round cuts are used for braising, broiling, Spanish, and Swiss steak, and rolled steak.

RUMP: This piece was removed from the round and is just at the tip of the spine. It is rather wedge shaped and is good quality meat, though high in bone. It is excellent for braising, roasting, broiling, or stewing.

HIND SHANK: This is best for soups and stews. There is little meat, though what there is is well flavored.

LOIN: Here we have the choicest cuts of the hind quarter. The sirloin steaks lie just ahead of the butt and are known as the butt end, wedge bone, round bone and double bone sirloin steaks. They are oblong and contain some of the hip bone and the back bone. The porterhouse steaks come next in a section known as the short loin, and contain T-shaped bones and a strip of tenderloin. Farther forward in the short loin, just back of the ribs, come the club steaks which contain no tenderloin.

FLANK: This cut lies beneath the loin and short loin and gives us a large flat, rather fibrous muscle, which, when well scored to cut across the tissues, makes a good stewing, braising, boiling, or grinding piece.

Actions Better Than Thoughts, Parents Told

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"May I talk with you a little on paper if you are not too busy?" writes a mother.

"One day a long while ago I went to hear a learned lady talk about child training. She had all sorts of college degrees, and I went full of awe expecting to hear new words and probably hard ones.

"This, in brief, is what she said to the many parents assembled to hear her: 'Ladies and gentlemen, teach your children what you know! You all have sufficient knowledge. What you need is not more 'knowing,' but more 'doing.'

"'All who are here have learned the simple rules of hygiene. You have been taught them in school and are constantly being reminded of them as you go through life. There is no longer the excuse of ignorance.

"'Live as you know you ought and teach your children to do likewise, by precept and example. What is needed today is strong minded resolution.

"'If every parent will practice what he knows there will be little need for lectures on child training.' There is certain truth in that, I think, although I believe we can profitably study the new ideas in parent education and child psychology and try to put them in practice as we go along.

"After the lecture I had a talk with the learned lady and this is what she said: 'Parents are showing a commendable and promising interest in the study of their problems. They are apt, however, to let it go at that and after a few spasmodic attempts at practicing what they learn, give up."

It is a point, isn't it, that we actually do not convert our ideas into action? It is not enough to think large thoughts.

Brown and Gray Rough Silk Crepe Combine Smartly in Pretty Design

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Brown and gray rough silk crêpes combine beautifully in this model. The brown crêpe goes around the back, ending in a sash. The sleeves are rather "tricky," but exceedingly smart, and very simple to make.

The pattern, No. 3355, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

French Shoes Stepping Into Spring Styles

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Shoes for spring, as the great Paris shoemakers see them, are going to do their bit to brighten up the style-scape.

Shoe materials, too, are being altered. Of course, practical slippers are made chiefly of kid, calf, patent leather, and the skin of reptiles, combined or singly. There are, however, variations even in practical slippers. The Enzel oxford, shown at the bottom of our sketch, is made of red-brown velveteen, with toe and heel reinforcements in red-brown kid and with kid at the lacing.

The slipper at the top of our sketch is a Hellstern model for evening. It is made of bright green crêpe de chine, with a heel and trimming of green satin and a big rhinestone buckle in front.

Singing Lesson Improves the Speaking Voice

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The most constructive way of converting an ordinary or a faulty speaking voice into a pleasing one is through singing lessons. The same breathing and tone placing instructions that apply to a good singing voice apply likewise to a good speaking voice. Of this we were reminded recently by Miss Gladys Rice of radio fame, whose own speaking voice carries out her theory that singers must have faulty instruction. Indeed, if their speaking voices are not agreeable.

A singing student is taught, for instance, to sing from the throat—not on top of the throat. Herein lies a common fault responsible for many poor talking voices. It's not a deep, throaty voice that's wanted, but the voice must be drawn from a deep enough source to give it volume, warmth and color. The sound should hit the roof of the mouth—not up toward the bridge of the nose [or seemingly so from the nasal, high pitched sounds that so often protrude].

In good singing instruction one learns that it is the vowels that carry and they are, therefore, stressed a bit, while the consonants which hit only teeth and lips are not exaggerated. There is a certain "poise" of speaking voice presented with the right handling of the vowels. Miss Rice observes; a poise that charms in a voice, as poised hands or head or body lend a woman charm. This is a beauty asset that women are appreciating more and more as radio and talkie voices are criticized and discussed.

Wrong Moves in Game of Life Cause Trouble

Blame the Players, Not Rules, Says Doris.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

That checkerboard known as life makes strange moves, as with "Jean and Bob," a pair of schoolday sweethearts first. Then the girl moves away at 14. She and the boy write, pledging "eternal faithfulness." At 17 she hears her adored one is married. At 18 she moves back to her old home town to find her schoolboy sweetheart is divorced.

They fall in love now in desperate earnest. They are to be married on the girl's 19th birthday. Suddenly, for no explained reason, the boy disappears, not to be heard from for some time.

The girl is all broken up, persuades herself she's through forever with "Bob." Meets a young man who asks her to marry, and weds him. The marriage lasts a year. The man turns out to be a confirmed drunkard. The day after "Jean" leaves him a letter comes from her old sweetheart's mother, explaining her boy's sudden disappearance for parts unknown. His father's business, in which "Bob" was employed, was lost and "Bob" had to seek another job. Also, the mother explained that "Bob" had written he wanted to come home to "Jean," but hearing she was married, he, "Bob" had married again.

For two years after her divorce "Jean" put this old love out of her heart. She met a young man, fine as can be, went with him for two years and married him just a few months ago.

Last week "Jean" was at her mother's home when in walked her old love, "Bob." He reports his second marriage is a failure, too. Carrying always the image of his one true love, "Jean," he understands the reason. And Jean says: "There was never a time in all those long years that the mention of Bob's name didn't cause my heart to cry out. Why couldn't I have met him when I was free?"

Her last husband Jean confesses to marrying for a home and security, and for his extreme kindliness. But with Bob's face ever before her—what's to become of them all, she cries.

It isn't the checkerboard known as life, but the players, that are to blame. They miss their cues. They make wrong moves. Impatience, spite, cowardly running away as in Bob's case, these and other weaknesses spoil the game. And that "phantom love" or "lover" entertained by men and women who will not face realities is another contributory menace.

A COLD Goes Thru 3 Stages!

And Relief Is Far Easier in the First Than in the Second or Third Stages!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Sage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is when treatment is most effective.

To stop a cold in the first stage, take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It does the four things necessary. Opens the bowels, kills the germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and tones the entire system. Anything less than that is trifling with a cold. All drug stores sell Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE. Be sure you get that and nothing else. Now two sizes—30c and 50c.

WOMAN LOST 10 LBS. OF FAT

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Darien writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and can not say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, cut down on pastry and fatty meats—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any druggist in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health

Referee—Goodman. Judge of play—Bush.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Detroit's Red Wings whipped the Chicago Blackhawks, 1 to 0, in the final minutes of a National league hockey game before 11,000 tonight. The victory kept the Red Wings in a tie with the New York Rangers for the division lead.

The Hawks, just arrived from Toronto where they played a 2 to 2 tie last night, staved off Detroit for two periods, giving Goalie Chuck Gardiner very little work until the closing minutes. Then Herbie Lewis got a rebound from Happy Emms to beat Gardiner when he was out of position.

Play was mainly defensive, with most of the action during the first two periods in mid-ice. The last period saw both teams open up.

Few Scoring Chances.

All the early action was in mid-ice and at the end of the first ten minutes each team had taken only one shot. Emms served two minutes for spilling Couture, but the Hawks couldn't split Detroit's defense.

Voss went off for holding with nine minutes to play and the Hawks had another chance, but Cook drew a tripping penalty to even the sides. When Cook and Voss came back Graham served time for interference and Sorrell broke through for a hard shot, but Gardiner saved.

Late in the period, with the teams full strength, Gottselig broke through as the Hawks began a wild assault, but Roach dropped on the puck just as March came up to take the rebound.

March Misses Chance.

March had a chance to score early in the second period when he rounded the Detroit defense to speed in alone, but Roach turned back the puck with his elbow. Emms' second penalty of the game gave the Hawks an edge, but they refrained from trying a four man attack during his absence.

The match grew rougher midway in the period, but the goalies still were having an easy time, most of the shots coming from just inside the blue lines. McFadyen plunged through for a slanting shot, but Roach turned it out with his skate.

With a minute of the second period left, Hay spilled McFadyen and was penalized. But, just as in the first period, the Hawks' advantage was spoiled when Cook was banished for spilling Lewis. They were both in the box as the period ended, with the score still scoreless.

Lewis Gets One.

Lewis tossed away a goal at the start of the third period, skating in to a wide open net and banging the puck against the posts. Emms and Abel then roughed it up with high sticks and both were sent off, slowing up the play.

Late in the period play speeded up and Detroit smashed in to score in the 16th minute. Carson took the puck down, passed it to Emms and the latter drove a shot at Gardiner. The puck bounded off Gardiner's stick 20 feet out to Lewis, who hammered it back past Gardiner before he could move to save.

For the first time during the match the Hawks then opened up with a four man rush, but they were unable to crack the five man defense Detroit set up to protect its margin.

SUTTER BEATS LOTT IN 4 SET TENNIS FINAL

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Clifford Sutter, third ranking player in America, defeated George Lott of Chicago, today for the singles championship of the pan-American tennis tournament. The scores were 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2.

Later Lott, former Davis cup player, teamed with Richard Covington of Asheville, N. C., to defeat Sutter and Bryan Grant Jr. of Atlanta for the doubles championship, 6-4, 6-3.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ENTRIES ON NEXT PAGE.]

Qualifying races in three of the boys' divisions in the sixteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies will be held tonight at La Follette park, 1333 North Laramie avenue, starting at 6:30. The winners of tonight's preliminaries will contest tomorrow night for the championship prizes at the same place. They will be joined by the contestants in the remaining two boys' classes and the two divisions for girls, the seven title events forming the finale of the two nights of racing.

Qualifying heats tonight will be held in the boys' midget, boys' juvenile, and boys' junior divisions. When the entry lists closed one week before the original date for this year's Derbies, 1,680 boys had registered in these classes. They are eligible tonight. No post entries will be accepted.

First Derbies at Night.

The decision to hold the 1933 Silver Skates races at night was made Saturday when the first cold wave of the new year swept across Chicago. It is the first time in the history of the Derbies, which were established in 1917 and now have grown to be the largest single skating event in point of entries in the country, that they will have been held at night. Previous postponement this year and the unseasonable weather which completely disrupted skating schedules in 1932 and caused cancellation of the Derbies were factors in the decision.

La Follette park will be lighted for the races. The fieldhouse, at Laramie avenue and Hirsch street, is large enough to provide warm quarters for the contestants while they are awaiting the call for their preliminaries. The number of entries—nearly 4,000 in the seven Derbies—precludes holding the races except where adequate dressing rooms are provided.

Who Report Tonight.

The following classes must report tonight:

Boys' midget [under 12 years]	439
Boys' juvenile [12 to 13 years]	497
Boys' junior [14 and 15 years]	744

Racing numbers will be passed out to boys in these classes between 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock today at the La Follette park fieldhouse. In this morning's TRIBUNE the names and racing numbers of these boys are listed. Lack of time has prevented publication of the program, which in other years has been distributed without charge to the contestants and spectators. It is very important, in order to facilitate the work of the clerks, for each boy to know his number when he reports tonight. Otherwise it will be almost impossible to pass out the numbers in the time allotted.

Since the oldest age division tonight is the junior, which includes boys 14 and 15 years of age, officials of the Derbies last night decided to start passing out contestants' numbers at 4 o'clock. The boys of the midget class, those under 12 years of age, are urged to report as early as possible. Their division will take the ice at least by 6:30, so that the youngsters will be able to compete and get home at an early hour.

Exact time for reporting tomorrow night and the schedule of races for the other divisions will be announced in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

Awards for Skaters.

Each contestant who reports for the preliminaries will receive a souvenir button. Silver Skates are the championship prizes in each division. Skates of lesser value are the awards for second and third place in each division. Boys and girls who finish fourth and fifth in the finals will receive silver and bronze medals.

Because Chicago's boys and girls have had no opportunity for practice in the last six weeks, the officials may shorten the distances in the longer races. Tonight, however, the preliminary races will be held at the following distances:

Boys' junior—440 yards.

Staff to Survey Track.

Paul Staff will survey the track this afternoon and it will be marked with flags.

La Follette park was flooded early yesterday morning by firemen of the 24th battalion under the direction of Battalion Chief Richard Poland. Daniel J. Carmody, acting fire commissioner, volunteered to have this work done when he learned arrangements had been made to stage the Silver Skates derbies at La Follette park.

WEST SIDERS! GET GOLDEN GLOVES ENTRIES IN TODAY

Bouts Open Next Monday at Guyon's Paradise.

[ENTRY BLANKS ON PAGE 21.]

Today is the last opportunity for amateur boxers to enter the Golden Gloves tournament on the west side of Chicago. The west section bouts start one week from tonight at Guyon's Paradise, Crawford and West End avenues. All boxers in both the Open and Novice divisions, must mail their entries today if they wish to compete on the west side.

TONY SUSNIS.

The far south sectional, which will be the second of the four metropolitan trials, does not start until Feb. 16. Entries for this section do not close until Thursday. The complete list of closing dates for entries in the four sectionals follows:

WEST SECTIONAL—Entries close today.
NORTH—Entries close next Monday.
SOUTH—Entries close Feb. 16.

Sixty-four boxers in the Open division will qualify for the Tournament of Champions. Each of these qualifiers [two in each weight from four sectionals] will receive a gold medal. All boxers, regardless of the division in which they fight, will receive a souvenir gold button. The novices who reach the semi-finals will continue their competition at the Tournament of Champions. Gold and silver medals are the first and second place awards in this division which is limited to Chicago sections.

Horace Plankinton, a senior in the Downers Grove High school and a basketball player, expects to try his luck in the ring on the west side next Monday night. Plankinton is a 126 pounder.

Laddie Rozhon of St. Charles, Ill., believes he can win a place on Chicago's Golden Gloves team in the middleweight class. He's been boxing two years. Rozhon is a husky Bohemian boy whose only other sport is swimming. He'll fight on the west side.

While the discussion concerns middleweights, Walter Kleras, a United States mail clerk, is one of the west side entrants Rozhon may meet. He's 23 years of age and has been boxing three years. He reached the finals of the A. A. U. outdoor boxing tournament in 1932. "This is my first attempt," Walter writes, "to win a place on the Golden Gloves team. I'm training every day. My ambition is to win a place on the team and then smack some New Yorker."

Tony Susnis, a big strapping heavyweight, who qualified for the Tournament of Champions last year from White City, is back again. Tony also is enlisting a team of more than 25 novices. The boys will represent All Saints parish alumni, 10806 South Wabash avenue. They will fight in the far south section at the State theater, 110th and State streets.

Susnis weighs 198 pounds and you can't find a bit of fat on his body. It's no wonder then that he's got a job at a loop store on the "moving force." Johnny Kopp has taught Tony for the last year and a half. Tony is 23 years of age and he says he's got plenty of time to get ready to meet the present world's heavyweight champion, who like Tony, is a Lithuanian.

Novices need not register with the A. A. U. until they report on the night of their bouts. Registration cards will be issued to them for the Golden Gloves tournament. The reg-

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

WHO said the Irish no longer develop fighting men? I dropped into Kid Howard's gymnasium the other day and what do you think? There was a real, honest to goodness Irishman from Roscommon, County Mayo, Ireland, swinging fists all over the place. His name is Jack Igoe and he is getting into shape to win the heavyweight championship in the Golden Gloves tournament.

CHESTER BUKOWSKI.

Igoe did not make up his mind to go after amateur boxing's greatest prize until he saw the heavyweight title match in the Catholic Youth meet between Chester Bukowski and Frank Ketter.

Leaving Chicago Stadium after the bout Jack remarked to his brother, Eddie, in an unmistakable brogue: "Eddie, them lads ca'not foight. They nivver will. The good Lord knows I'm a modest bye, but b'gorrah I'ud nivver nade a black shillalah to bate them down. Eddie, believe me, if I ca'not bate the loikes o' them I hope to lose all hopes of iver kissin' the blarney stone and I'ud nivver want to put on another boxin' mitt."

Igoe lives at 161 North Sheldon street. He weighs 195 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. He learned to box as a boy, but his father discouraged a ring career and persuaded him to become a plasterer. He left Ireland two and a half years ago hoping to find plenty of work for plasterers in America. He came directly to Chicago to join his brother. There, of course, hasn't been much work for tradesmen in Chicago since Igoe's arrival, but he isn't disheartened. He intends to plaster lefts and rights to his heart's content on all rivals for the 1933 Golden Gloves heavyweight championship.

Jock Malone, the old middleweight, and Jack Hurley, who taught Billy Petrolle how to box, are picking Igoe to make a great showing in THE TRIBUNE tournament.

Igoe will make his first appearance in the west side sectional meet at Guyon's Paradise ballroom next Monday night. He is eligible for the novice division. Entrants who have won not more than one bout in previous Golden Gloves, Central A. A. U. or Catholic Youth tournaments are admitted to the division for inexperienced boxers.

When Igoe learned he had been entered in the novice division he resented what he regarded an implication that he couldn't fight. The gymnasium trainer placated him with the assurance that he would be considered for a place on the Chicago team that fights New York provided he wins the novice heavyweight crown.

Coach Stagg will find he is not among strangers in his new position at the College of the Pacific, Stockton, Cal. He will be surrounded by coaches who made their start in the middle west. The group includes Jimmy Phelan, Bill Ingram, Howard Jones, Eddie Madigan, Tom Leib, Bill Spaulding, and Clipper Smith.

Mr. Stagg, starting a new job at an age when most men would be willing to retire, has no doubt of his ability to carry on.

Stagg will find new problems on the Pacific coast. Schools in this section like to have winning football teams, but when they don't have them they get consolation out of the realization that the coach is building character.

I am not acquainted with the athletic ambitions of the College of the Pacific, but most of the schools on the coast are concerned principally with victories.

It's Badgers' Turn Tonight to Tackle Ohio Quintet

Northwestern and Wisconsin, each one step behind the undefeated Ohio State basketball team in the current championship race, resume activity in the Big Ten tonight after the semester layoff. Wisconsin meets the Buckeyes at Madison, and on the outcome of this game rests the leadership for the week, since Ohio steps out of the conference Saturday to play Army.

Northwestern, while offering the Badgers their good wishes, will have plenty to do if they whip the Indiana five down at Bloomington. The task may be more than the Wildcats can accomplish, for Indiana has been playing better ball recently than when it absorbed lickings from Ohio State and Wisconsin in the first eight days of the campaign.

It Depends on Reiff.

Then, too, Northwestern will be without Al Kawal, who has been declared ineligible. Marvin Moonshower, whom Kawal had replaced when Moonshower was injured in the Purdue game, is back at the position. Moonshower fouled out in the Wabash game Saturday night, which Northwestern won, 31 to 24. Either Manske or Rosenfeld may get a chance as they did Saturday.

As usual, much will depend on Joe Reiff, who leads Big Ten scorers with 71 points. Reiff's 11 points against Wabash, of course, do not count. The Wabash game, designed as a warmup by Coach Lonborg, evidently was badly needed. The Wildcats led by only one point until they made a final drive for their more presentable victory.

Michigan is Idle.

Indiana's last game, against the Fals of Mexico City, was one sided. The Fals, who have been losing consistently to colleges, Y. M. C. A. teams and high schools in their wanderings, were outclassed.

Michigan, the other team with one defeat, does not play a conference game this week. The Wolverines resume with a non-conference engagement against Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday night.

Whether Minnesota is better, now that Virgil Licht has been reinstated following suspension for breaking training, or whether Ohio State may not be able to maintain its pace on the road, is the question arising from the Buckeyes' 24 to 23 victory at Minneapolis Saturday. Ohio's team is intact, but Minnesota, defeated at Columbus, 43 to 28, and swamped at Purdue two nights later, 40 to 16 came as near as is possible to winning from the leaders.

Maroons Have Company.

Chicago now has a roommate in the cellar position in Minnesota. Each team has lost five games and won none. Chicago's defeat by Notre Dame Saturday, 39 to 26, was anticipated, although in the first half when Evans still was in the game the Maroons unexpectedly ran up a 10 to 5 lead. Inability to score from a distance continues to handicap Chicago, although Coach Norgren has developed a fair defensive quintet.

Chicago travels to Iowa City tonight for a game with the Hawkeyes. Iowa's victory over Creighton last week should warn the conference teams that the Hawks still are in the race. Iowa's test comes Saturday when it meets Purdue.

Illinois waits until tomorrow night to get back into stride. The Illini meet St. Louis university at Champaign in a warmup for Wisconsin Saturday.

Jim Corbett Passes Good Night; Condition Is Same

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The condition of Jim Corbett, confined to bed at his home in Bayside for five days, remained unchanged today. Friends said the former heavyweight champion, who is suffering from a heart ailment, had passed a good night and was resting comfortably.

SWEDES DEFEAT BRICKIES, 2 TO 1, IN CUP CONTEST

Hallquist's 2 Goals Decide Game in First Half.

The Swedish-Americans, amateur soccer champions last year, defeated the Brickies, western national cup finalists, 2 to 1, at Sparta stadium yesterday. The game, one of the preliminaries to the national cup play, which will reach the final stage during A Century of Progress exposition, was held up fifteen minutes toward the end of the first period, when spectators rushed to the field to dispute a decision.

Hallquist scored the first goal for the Swedes after 10 minutes of play. Twenty minutes later he repeated to clinch the game for the amateur champions.

Not long after this Referee G. Fyfe imposed a penalty which roused the spectators, who swarmed over the field.

The Brickies made a desperate attempt to come back at the opening of the second period, and within two minutes Coutts netted from a cross by McCowie. The balance of play was in the Swedes' territory, but they successfully defended their margin. Lineup:

BRICKIES.		SWEDES.
Neatt	Goal	Granquist
Scott	R. B.	Willborg
Davidson	L. B.	Pearson
Thomson	R. H.	A. Johnson
McAvoy	C. H.	Quirat

McCowie	O. R.	Hultgreen
Coutts	I. R.	E. Johnson
Lilly	C.	Stanley
Cuthburt	I. L.	Erickson
Greenleas	O. L.	Hallquist

Substitutes—Brickies—Robb, Reilly. Swedes—Floutin, Hagman.
Goals—Coutts, Hallquist [2].
Referee—G. Fyfe.

MACCABEES LOSE, 2-0.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Sons of Malta shut out the Maccabees All-stars of Chicago, 2 to 0, today to become the outstanding contenders for the national cup soccer championship finals to be played at Chicago during the World's Fair.

RANGERS DEFEAT AMERICANS, 4-1; REMAIN IN LEAD

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Before a capacity crowd of more than 15,000, the New York Rangers won their fourth and most decisive victory of the National Hockey league season over the New York Americans, 4 to 1, tonight. The Americans were left in third place in the international division, while the Rangers remained tied with Detroit for the American division lead.

Cecil Dillon started the Ranger scoring in the last half minute of the first period, counting on Ossie Osmundson's rebound. Art Somers, Butch Keeling and Bun Cook sank the other Ranger goals. Johnny Sheppard scored for the Americans.

HELEN BINA WINS TWO PLACES IN MEET IN NORWAY

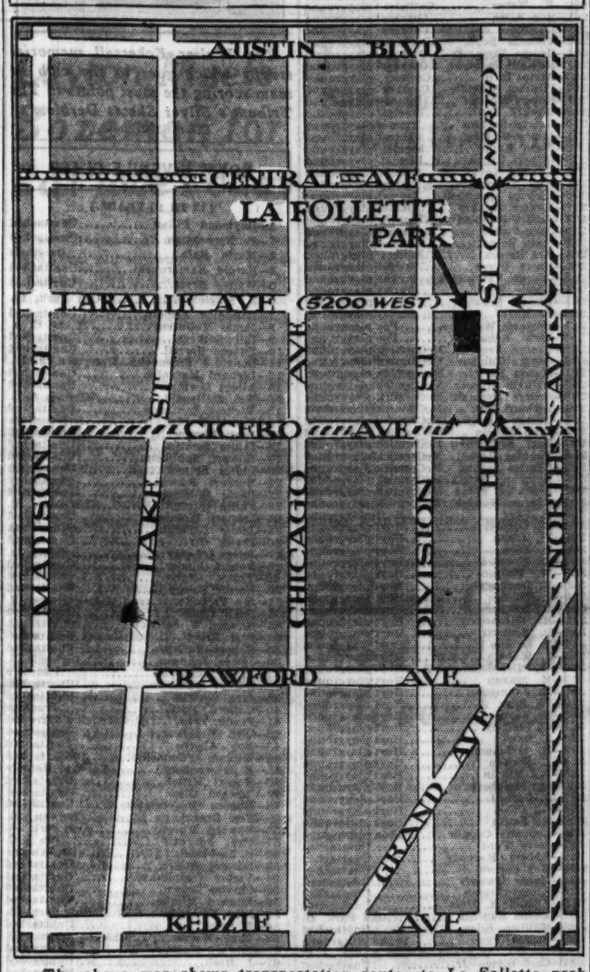
Miss Bina placed second to Liselotte Landbeck of Austria in the 500 meters with Synnove Lie of Norway third. The time was 52 2-10 seconds. The Chicago girl trailed Miss Lie and Miss Landbeck in the 1500 meters in which the winner was clocked in 2 minutes 58 7-10 seconds, claimed as a new world's record for women.

How to Reach La Follette Park



The above map shows transportation routes to La Follette park where the Silver Skates preliminaries will be held tonight. La Follette park (in solid black) is located at Hirsch street (1400 north) and Laramie avenue (5200 west). Dotted lines indicate buses on Central avenue. Get off at Hirsch street and walk east to the park. Broken lines indicate street car lines on North avenue and Cicero avenue. Get off the North avenue cars at Laramie and walk south. Get off Cicero avenue cars at Hirsch street and walk west to the park.

HENNEPIN BEATS BARRY, 23 TO 22, IN LAST MINUTE

Husfield's Goal Wins for K. of C. Champs.

Husfield's long toss from the middle of the floor with 30 seconds remaining gave Hennepin-Shields a 23 to 22 victory over Barry in the West Division of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league yesterday and kept the league champions in the running for a place in the title round. Barry led practically all the way and had a four point lead near the finish, but a basket by Hansen and a free throw by Hayes set the stage for Husfield's winning goal. It was Barry's fourth one point defeat of the season. Lineup:

Hansen,f	1	0	0	McElligott,f	1	1	0

Setters, 41; Americus, 21.
Feehan, 24; Hughes, 16.

NORTH DIVISION.

Trailing until the last five minutes, St. Cyr put on a rally led by Werner Frank to defeat Lafayette, 27 to 21, to maintain its unbeaten record. Lafayette led at the half, 15 to 11, but was weakened when several of its regulars went out on fouls. Lineup:

ST. CYR [27].	B.	F.	P.	LAFAYETTE [21].	B.	F.	P.

OTHER SCORES:
Marquette, 15; Fr. O'Connor, 17 [overtime].
O'Connell, 14; Cardinal, 11.

SOUTH END DIVISION.

Gobreski's basket and free throw gave Santa Maria a 26 to 25 victory over Quigley to bring the teams into a tie for first place in the south end division. Santa Maria piled up an early lead and was in front, 13 to 8, at the half, but Quigley tied the score and moved ahead with less than two minutes to play. Then Gobreski tied the score with his ringer, and won the game a few seconds later on the free throw.

OTHER SCORES.
San Salvador, 37; Ridge, 26.
Fort Dearborn, 28; Blue Island, 25.
Garcia Mareno, 30; St. Philip Neri, 27.

SOUTH DIVISION.

A ten point lead accumulated in the first half served Englewood well in its 21 to 15 victory over La Rabida in the south division. The losers rallied gamely, but were unable to make up the difference, with the result that Englewood and Loyola-Hyde Park are still tied for first place in the division.

OTHER SCORES.
Calumet, 33; Auburn Park, 18.
Loyola-Hyde Park, 23; McHale, 19.

BROWNELLS WIN 3 GAMES FROM GREEN RIVERS

The Wass & Schraeder Wasps shot 1,111, 1,187 and 1,054 for 3,352 for three triumphs over the S. & L. Motors. Wass' 715 was high.

YES, YOU'LL SEE ROBINS HERE, BUT VISIT GEORGIA

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, Ga., Feb. 5.—The bird fan who lives in Chicagoland and takes pleasure in recording the activities of the "winter" robins in that territory, and the cardinals which stay around during the cold months should not come down here without a compotometer, because the number of species wintering in this part of the south runs into large figures.

On several of our quail hunting trips within 4 to 15 miles of Radium Springs and Albany we decided to keep track of the song birds observed But we had to give up the idea. You can't keep track of two wide-ranging bird dogs, juggle a pair of binoculars, have a bird book within reach, and shoot quail at the same time. However, when you are hiking through a weed-grown cornfield, pine woods, big areas of broom sage, cotton fields and old peanut fields, up jump so many birds that it is almost impossible to keep the records without an adding machine.

Ah, a "First" Robin!

In Chicagoland we have a few robins which spend the winter with us. Every time one of these hardy birds is seen during January and early February it is hailed as the "first" robin of the season. Of course, these birds are not migrating robins which have come up from the south to compete for the honor of being the first redbreast under the wire. Contrary to popular belief, they are winter residents.

But here in Georgia are thousands of migrant robins. We see them everywhere while quail hunting. Yesterday the quail dogs flushed about 150 in one flock when we were swinging through a field close to the Flint river. A few days ago, when we had a ringside seat at a typical Georgia dove shoot, hundreds of robins came into the field with the doves. Some are permanent residents here, but many of them are birds which soon will be striking out for the north.

All Kinds of 'Em.

Meadow or "field" larks, robins, cardinals, grackles, jays, flickers, these are among the common birds which one sees in the course of a day's hike down here—all reminding the northerner of home. There are many more species here for the winter, including large numbers of migrating sparrows, roving flocks of blackbirds, and thousands of doves. February is far from being a silent month in the woods down here. When you get this far south you are in a winter resort for the birds, and they put life in the brown plantation fields with their calls.

TWO CHICAGOANS WIN IN SKI MEET AT WHITEHALL

Whitehall, Wis., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Twin Cities, Chicago and Wisconsin jumpers took most of the honors at a ski tournament held here today under the auspices of the Whitehall Ski and Soccer club.

Svere Fredheim, Minneapolis, won first place in class A with a rating of 149.4. He had jumps of 135 and 133 feet.

In class B, Ingvar Arneson, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., was first with 138.85. Howard Jansen, Chicago, won class C with 139.55, and the senior class was taken by Carl Nelson, Chicago, 133.9.

4 Collegians on Wrestling Card Tonight

Four former college athletes, all tackles, are on the card. They are:

Jack Riley, formerly of Northwestern; Giant McCarthy and Jerry Monahan, both former St. Mary's stars, and Big Glenn Munn, youngest of the four Munn brothers of Nebraska.

Matros Kirolonko, Russian heavyweight, and Mike Romano, veteran Italian, clash in one of the two windup bouts. Dick Shikat meets Scotty McDougall in the other finish bout.

Sandor Szabo was matched against Romano, but will be unable to fulfill the engagement because of difficulties with immigration officials at the Canadian border. He entered Canada several days ago, but failed to make the proper arrangements for his return to the United States. Kirolonko was signed to replace him.

Riley is matched with Cowboy Jack Russell in a one fall, time limit bout. Munn and McCarthy meet and Monahan tackles Frank Wiljer, Chicago butcher boy, and a protégé of Lou Talaber, former world's middleweight champion.

BETTER WHEAT PRICES LIKELY LATER IN YEAR

Winter Crop Damage Chief Factor.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Prices are low despite prospects for the smallest winter wheat crop in recent years, with the volume of speculative trade the smallest known. Operators say, however, they simply are awaiting a change for the better. Then they expect to take hold again. Many predict a good advance later in the season. There also is a belief among traders that a winter wheat crop around 400,000,000 bu is probable, based on present reports. Last year's yield was 462,151,000 bu and in 1931 it was 787,000,000 bu, a record. Should predictions made by Kansas be confirmed that state will produce not more than 75,000,000 bu. Some estimates are below that mark.

Open Interest Fairly Large.

Sales of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade for the week were among the lightest known, being 48,856,000 bu, compared with 165,900,000 bu a year ago. The open interest, however, is maintained at a good level, 133,113,000 bu. That is considered the best criterion of the actual amount of business being handled, rather than reports of sales from day to day.

Foreigners are buying Canadian, Australian, and Argentine wheats in fair volume. The peak of the movement from the southern hemisphere is regarded as practically past, or it will be within a week or two. Canada is expected to continue to export freely for the balance of the season. Its exports since Aug. 1 aggregate 134,579,000 bu wheat, compared with 73,864,000 bu last year. Russia and the Balkans are out of the export picture. Total visible of Canadian wheat in all positions is 229,983,000 bu. While a year ago it was 195,308,000 bu. The United States visible supply is steadily decreasing and is around the smallest at this time in recent years, yet is ample for all requirements.

Millers Good Buyers.

Millers are picking up cash wheat, taking about 500,000 bu in Chicago for the week, practically all soft winters carrying special billing to the southeast. The Red Cross is distributing flour at a rapid rate. It expects to increase its operations. Latest reports indicate the farm board's grain stabilization branch has only 1,500,000 bu of cash wheat and almost 30,000,000 bushels or more of futures.

Prices of Chicago futures in the last two weeks have ranged from 46c to 48¾c on May; 46¾@45⅝c on July; and 47⅝@49⅛c on September. The close on May Saturday was 46¼@46⅝c; July, 47@46⅞c, and September, 48⅛@48c, showing net losses of 1c on May, ½c on July, and ⅝c on September, compared with the previous week. Winnipeg closed practically the same as a week ago, and Liverpool was ⅝@⅝c lower than the previous week.

Foreigners May Buy Corn.

Latest reports from Liverpool indicate that shipments of Argentine and Black Sea corn are decreasing, which may turn the European demand to American corn for a time, or until Argentine begins to ship its new crop, which is several months away. Inquiries for American corn are constantly being made by exporters, but comparatively little business is resulting and exporters in most instances are indifferent about reporting their sales, as it tends to affect Chicago futures market and interferes with a continuation of export sales.

Trade sentiment is mixed, but the volume of speculative buying from the outside is limited, and price fluctuations are held within narrow limits. Country holders of cash corn sold more corn during the last week than previously, which was taken by industries. At the close corn prices were ½@⅝c lower, after a range of 1@1¼c on future for the week. May finished at 25½@25⅝c, July 27½c and September 28½c.

Trading in oats is not such as to attract special attention, and price ranges from week to week are small. For a month there has been only limited exchanges, with local traders selling on the bulges and cash houses buying futures on breaks.

The Jewel Tea Company, Inc., reports that operations for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1932 resulted in a net profit of $1,053,625 after provision for federal income taxes, depreciation and reserves but not including a loss of $210,442 incurred by Jewel Food Stores, Inc.

M. H. KARKER. [Walinger Photo.]

M. H. Karker, president of the company, states that the profit was equal to $3.76 per share. This compares with a profit for 1931 of $1,363,780, or $4.87 a share. Sales for the year totaled $11,090,562 compared with $13,742,691 in 1931—a decline of 19.30 per cent.

In his report to the stockholders Mr. Karker emphasizes the large slice of the company's income that is taken by taxes. Last year Jewel Tea paid $233,389 in taxes, or 22 per cent of its profit.

Warns of High Taxes.

"The federal, state and municipal tax situation is one of the most serious being faced by individual and industry," Mr. Karker asserts. "The national debt has increased practically one-third in the last three years and is now about a half as great as the current annual income. On that basis the national debt is heavier than ever before in the history of the country and approximates 7 per cent of the total national wealth.

"In the face of continuing deficits in federal, state and local government, the taxing bodies continue direct and indirect rates of taxation which appropriate to the purposes of government from one-fourth to one-third of total annual income. Hope that our multiplicity of governments may be restricted and prevented from eating themselves up appears to lie in the expression of public opinion."

Capital Adjustment.

Mr. Karker states that changes were made in the capital account to reflect the increase in the amount of assets employed in the operation of the business, with the transfer of $1,100,000 from surplus account to capital account, used for acquisition and working capital for Jewel Food Stores, Inc. Fixed assets were written down to conform with present day values by $404,537 which was charged to the capital account.

Current assets were reported as $4,405,882, while current liabilities were given as $1,007,580. Net working capital is $3,398,302.

Dividends were paid at the rate of $1 a quarter during 1932, but the quarterly rate was reduced to 75 cents a share beginning with the 1933 January payment.

RIVAL CONCERNS SEEK CONTROL OF AIR TRAVEL

Makers, Transit Men Talk Merger.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The air transportation industry, which crossed the threshold of profitable operations last year, has become the center of interest in Wall street. There negotiations for the consolidation of control of the large air line systems and aircraft manufacturing companies have progressed to a well defined stage, according to authoritative observers.

Five large holding companies are the key to the situation. They are: General Aviation, a subsidiary of General Motors.

Seek Control of Airlines.

The interests represented in those holding companies are struggling for control of the important airlines of the nation. The most active have been those interested in aircraft manufacturing companies. They have been seeking outlets for aviation equipment.

United Aircraft controls United Air Lines, one of the three transcontinental systems, as well as airplane motor and accessory companies.

Aviation corporation controls American Airways, the second transcontinental system, which has bought equipment manufactured by subsidiaries of the Cord corporation.

Transcontinental and Western Air lines, the third transcontinental system, is the goal of the present battle. Its stock is held in three lots, about 45 per cent by Transcontinental Air Transport, an equal amount by Western Air Lines, and the remainder by Pittsburgh Aviation.

Other Large Stockholders.

General Aviation has large holdings in both Transcontinental Air Transport and Western Air. North American Aviation has lesser interests in the same two companies, and National Aviation possesses a smaller amount of the same two stocks. General Aviation and North American Aviation each have equipment to sell and have been seeking to increase their holdings with the purpose of controlling Transcontinental and Western Air Lines. National Aviation, which has been in

J. D. CUNNINGHAM MADE CHAIRMAN OF CASUALTY LINE

James D. Cunningham has been elected chairman of the Illinois Manufacturers Mutual Casualty association, Inc. Mr. Cunningham is president of the Republic Flow Meters company and a former president of the Illinois Manufacturers association.

The casualty association was formed in 1931 by the manufacturers' association. It is maintained for the benefit of Illinois industries to write compensation, public liability, and automobile insurance at cost.

O. Gulicksen, president of the Churchill Cabinet company, was named president of the company. Other officers named were A. H. Woodward, vice president; John J. Fischer, second vice president; James L. Donnelly, executive vice president and secretary; G. L. Walters, treasurer; R. E. Duncan, assistant treasurer and assistant secretary.

Fewer Dividends Omitted or Reduced in January

Unfavorable dividend actions by directors in January totaled 135, against 155 in the preceding month and 264 in the corresponding month last year, according to Standard Statistics. Favorable changes in January totaling 64 were below December, but well above the average for 1932.

Auto Exhibit Doubles 1932 Sale Volume

BY HAL FOUST.

With additional orders signed yesterday, the total motor cars sold during the 33d National Automobile show aggregate value of $1,808,640. This was double the volume of 1932 show business. It also exceeded the figures for 1931 and 1930.

"The success of the Chicago show astonished the most optimistic of the industry," said Alfred Reeves, vice president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. "Executives have returned to their plants with a brighter outlook on sales prospects for 1933."

"There will be immediate benefits from this unexpected upturn in Automobile buying," said Lafayette Markle, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association. "Promotion programs will be expanded and production schedules increased because the industry has learned that the motor car business in Chicago in show time is a barometer of what can be expected nationally.

"An improvement in the automobile business will be reflected throughout our general economics. The production of motor cars consumes more raw products than any other manufacturing industry. Automotive and allied lines employ a tenth of the nation's gainfully employed.

HIBERNIA BANK IN CLEAR, RESERVE OFFICIAL STATES

New Orleans, La., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Gov. E. R. Black of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, here to investigate a run on the Hibernia Bank and Trust company, said tonight in a statement that ample funds had been provided to meet all possible withdrawals.

"It is gratifying to know that the unrest in financial circles caused by a careless statement relative to the Hibernia Bank and Trust company has been fully corrected, said Mr. Black. "Not only have the statements about this bank been withdrawn, but full and adequate steps have been taken to provide, on the security of the bank's assets, ample funds to meet all possible withdrawals."

Officials of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company announced tonight that directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, at a session in Washington today, had approved a $20,000,000 loan to the bank provided the bank raised $4,000,000 and depositors of $10,000 or more agreed to "freeze" 50 per cent of their deposits until the corporation's loan was repaid.

Ohio Dock, Idle Months, to Be Put in Operation Today

Ashtabula, O., Feb. 5.—The Ohio and Western Pennsylvania dock, idle for several months, will be put in operation tomorrow when the freighter Henry W. Cort loads 3,500 tons of coal for Detroit. Although mild weather has kept Lake Erie almost entirely free from ice so far this winter, loading of cargoes at this time of the year is unusual.

Ryerson Steel 1932 Loss Cut to $255,488

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., largest independent steel service organization in the country, carried on its 1932 operations with a net loss of $255,488, compared with a net loss of $424,482 for 1931, according to the annual report of President Edward L. Ryerson Jr. to the company's stockholders.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

Mr. Ryerson attributes this comparatively favorable showing in the face of the general depressed situation in the steel industry to economy measures which were instituted during the year.

The report, which covers the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1932, says the company had a net operating profit of $7,211 before depreciation and interest charges. Sales volume declined 49 per cent from 1931.

Buys Up Debentures.

The Ryerson company was among the large corporations which last year found it profitable to buy in their own securities. Mr. Ryerson stated that the company during 1932 acquired over $500,000 principal of its own debentures, the profit on which was $107,897. This, together with profit on purchases made in previous years, was credited to earned surplus.

The company's consolidated balance sheet shows assets of $14,461,735 of which $1,855,095 was cash, $2,822,061 in government securities, $472,837 in municipal bonds, $1,138,786 in notes and receivables and $3,869,193 in inventories. Fixed assets including land and buildings are carried at $4,530,539 and patents and good will at $1. Liabilities include $3,264,000 in sinking funds debentures outstanding of an original issue of $5,000,000. The consolidated surplus on Dec. 11, 1932 was given as $2,782,634.

"In accordance with the policy adopted by the board of directors in 1931, we have acquired during the year 8,310 additional shares of stock of the corporation for resale to employés at such time as business conditions become more stabilized," Mr. Ryerson said.

Sinking Fund Requirements.

"By acquiring $523,500 principal of our own debentures and after retiring $100,000 in 1932 in accordance with sinking fund provisions we now have in hand $1,336,000 principal which will enable us to meet our sinking fund requirements for the next five years. The book value per share is $26,70.

"Until the conditions in the steel industry show more signs of improvement and the prospects for an upturn can be more accurately determined, the board of directors have considered it advisable to pursue a conservative policy with reference to distribution of dividends."

RAILS STEADY DURING WEEK'S STOCK FLURRIES

Aid Expected from Roosevelt.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Whatever chance the share market may have had of starting its spring rise on traditional February schedule—a custom it has succeeded in adhering to right through the depression so far—has received a serious setback from the crop of adverse dividend announcements now coming to hand.

The unexpected cut on U. S. Steel preferred from its accumulated $7 annual basis to $2 last Tuesday, the omission by Standard Oil of New Jersey of its quarterly extra of 25 cents on the share and the reduction in the Borden & Drug, Inc., rate, all coming within the space of 24 hours combined to give the speculative community the worst chill it has had in months.

Small Loss for Week.

The Chicago Tribune's average index on fifty representative stocks closed Saturday night at 54.80, recording a net loss for the week of 3.08 points. On the twenty-five industrial issues figuring in the same table, the decline was even sharper, amounting to 5.86.

Railroad shares alone were able to hold out against the downward sweep—thanks to the sustaining influence of comparatively favorable earnings reports for the last month of 1932 and a rather widely held impression that the Roosevelt administration will do something helpful for the carriers after March 4. The group's loss on the week amounted to less than a third of a point. December rail earnings exceeded those of the previous year for the first time since August, 1929.

Foreign politics, particularly the situation in Germany, was another disturbing influence that could not help but contribute to the market's unsettlement. The sharp declines in some of the foreign currencies, especially those of Canada and Denmark, and finally the constant worry provided by congress, now happily nearing the end of its span, were still further obstacles.

Await General Motors' Action.

Heading the market's current worries is the dividend meeting of General Motors tomorrow and that of American Telephone in the week beyond. Hopes are none too sanguine on the score of either. Followers of the tobacco shares have rumors of another price cut in cigarets to ponder.

We announce the opening of a Chicago office for the transaction of business for banks, brokers and dealers under the direction of

in this old institution's conduct of its business

METHODS in affairs of trust or commercial banking change—improve with the years. Relatively they are not important.

Back of the methods of The Northern Trust Company are certain simple principles. These are permanent. They look to the interest of those who trust and depend upon this institution.

In a practical sense, these time-established concepts are The Northern Trust Company.

The conservative firms and individuals that bring their commercial banking accounts here find these principles in accord with their own business ideas. They discover that the banking officers think in harmony with them.

Similarly in the Trust Department. An unchanging policy—a full acceptance of the trust obligation—protects the families this institution serves as executor or trustee.

People who save at this bank are assured, as are the other depositors, a consistent policy of conservatism in caring for their funds.

The Northern Trust Company invites the business of additional firms and individuals that find satisfaction in this conservative type of financial service. Complete departments of Banking, both for Commercial and Personal Checking Accounts, Trust, Savings, Bond and Safe Deposit are at your command.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE NORTHERN TRUST COMPANY ARE:

A. WATSON ARMOUR, Director Armour & Company
SEWELL L. AVERY, President, U. S. Gypsum Company

The outstanding figure in recent negotiations is Lamotte T. Cohu. He was forced out of the presidency of Aviation corporation by Mr. Cord. It is rumored in Wall street that he sold 100,000 shares of Aviation corporation stock, which he had acquired at $2, for $6 a share. He is known to have bought heavily into North American Aviation, presumably using that capital.

Since his connection with North American Aviation became public, reports of negotiations for a merger of that company and General Aviation were published. Wall street observers do not place much credence in that report, because North American owns much stock in Curtiss-Wright corporation, one of the biggest equipment manufacturing companies, while General Aviation also is primarily interested in selling equipment.

To Extend Eastern Lines.

North American also owns Eastern Air Transport, an air line serving the Atlantic seaboard. Final arrangements were made today for the purchase of the competing Ludington Air lines by North American, to extend the Eastern Air Transport lines to Nashville, Tenn.

The air transportation systems are as yet dependent upon the air mail subsidy and for that reason the proposed tieups of equipment companies and air lines have been disturbed further by the vote of the senate this week eliminating the entire $19,000,000 air mail subsidy from the appropriations at this session.

Wall street rumors are that the new administration plans extensive changes in the air mail network, which will affect the air lines vitally. The senate's action was precipitated by the refusal of Postmaster General Brown to delay granting a number of extensions of the air mail system.

House Would Curb Use of Public Lands for Oil

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The conference report on the Cutting bill to authorize the secretary of the interior to suspend operations on public lands for production of coal, oil, gas, sodium phosphate, and oil shale without infringing the rights of the lessees through nonpayment of assessments was adopted today by the house. It now goes to the senate.

Congoleum-Nairn.

Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., is one of the leading producers of linoleum and felt base floor coverings. In 1931 it developed a new wall covering designed to sell where the cost of tile or marble is too high. The major production cost is raw materials, principally cork and linseed oil. Labor costs are relatively small.

Only a small proportion of total output is taken by new building. Decreased building in the last few years has, therefore, been of comparatively small importance. The major outlet for the company's products is for replacement and rehabilitation purposes.

No aggressive advertising has maintained operations at a profitable rate. Reduced purchasing power of the public made itself felt in the first half of 1932. Generally reduced demand has resulted in a condition of overcapacity in the industry. This unsettled the price structure of linoleum products and reduced the margin of profit.

Net income for the first half of 1932 was $367,000, or 26 cents per common share, against net of $608,000, or 42 cents per common share, for the corresponding 1931 period. Net for 1931 was $1,239,000, or 90 cents per common share, against $209,000, or 68 cents per common share, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $2,214,000, against $1,462,000 for 1928.

Retention of a large percentage of profits has enabled the company to build up a substantial current position. On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $17,181,000, and current liabilities were $545,000. Working capital was $16,636,000, against $17,492,000 the year before.

There are outstanding 11,077 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred and 1,223,751 shares of no par common. Funded debt totals $1,091,000.

In 1931 a quarterly dividend of 50 cents per common share was paid. This rate was continued to Dec. 15, 1932, when the stock was placed on a quarterly basis of 15 cents a share. The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The common is speculative.

Texas Power and Light.

Please give me a rating on Texas Power and Light 5s, due 1956.—W.W.A.

Texas Power and Light company, an American Power and Light subsidiary, furnishes electricity to Waco and 293 other Texas communities. Fixed charges were earned 1.93 times in the twelve months to Aug. 31, 1932, against 2.08 times during the preceding 12 months. In 1931 they were earned 2.01 times, against 2.19 times in 1930 and 2.23 times in 1929. On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $3,963,000 and current liabilities were $2,473,000. The first and refunding-5s, due 1956, are reasonably sound.

BANQUET PLAN ABANDONED BY REALTY BOARD

50th Anniversary Not to Be Celebrated.

BY AL CHASE.

There'll be no fiftieth anniversary banquet of the Chicago Real Estate board, it was learned last night. It had been intended to have this announcement made on Wednesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the realtors, but for some reason this was not done. The question of to banquet or not to banquet has been under discussion by the board powers that be for several weeks. The banquet committee, of which John R. Magill is chairman, has Aldis Jerome Browne and S. Charles Iversen as members.

Settling the banquet question also solves another problem which bobbed up when it was announced several weeks ago that the Cook County Real Estate board and the Chicago Real Estate boards were to merge. The former body for the last twenty-five years had invited the wives of members to their annual banquets. The realtors for half a century had banqueted with women strictly taboo—except perhaps as entertainers.

Wanted Wives Invited.

The Cook County Real Estate board members urged that when the long talked of banquet to celebrate the merger of the two bodies was held that wives be invited. The realtors roared a protest. They'd had banquets without women for nearly fifty years—why change now, they chorused.

Then it was learned that the senator who had been engaged to speak at the proposed banquet had tried to slip a fast one over on the realtors by arranging to speak the night before at another banquet in Chicago. Naturally a cancellation followed and the Washington gentleman is out several hundred dollars.

Dinner Dance Idea Dropped.

Later it was suggested that instead of a banquet a dinner dance and reception or housewarming for the new realtors be held in the board rooms at 34 West Randolph street. But this entailed inviting women and the idea was quickly shelved.

It was then planned to hold the banquet some time this month, as the January plans had gone askew. In years past, of course, the banquet was always held in December.

New York, Feb. 5.—[AP]—The Mutual Life Insurance Co., which on Feb. 1 rounded out 90 years of operation, today issued its annual report showing net income of $20,749,272 for 1932. Total income was $228,798,139 and total disbursements $208,048,867.

The company closed 1932 with a fund for depreciation of securities and general contingencies of $58,773,457 and in addition set aside as a special reserve $9,275,166. Cash was increased from $6,885,281 at the end of 1931 to $15,721,251, which, the report explained, "is about three times its normal cash." Furthermore, added the report, the company "set aside $34,600,376 for dividends for the current year."

While loans against policies were still reported to be large, the total in the second half declined to $23,736,402, against $34,501,195 in the first half.

If You Want the Best Training

There are so many schools advertising courses in beauty culture that all of them can't be best. Which one will you select? It's a very important decision and care should be taken in the selection of the proper school. Your success depends to a large extent upon your decision.

Visit any high class beauty salon. Ask them what they think of the Marinelle system. Then talk to our Representative. Day or evening classes now forming. Easy tuition payments. Free International Employment Service—or we will help you establish your own business. Your success depends on selecting the right school, the right system, the right teachers.
